

OCEAN LINES ARE AROUSED

Threaten to Disrupt Immigration Bureau Over Peter McDonnell Case. OBJECT TO UNION PACIFIC HIRING HIM

The employment of Peter McDonnell, the independent immigration agent, by the Union Pacific, seems to be leading up to all kinds of trouble in the Western Passenger association, and it is said threatens to disrupt the immigration bureau.

A consultation has been held between the three associations which constitute the steamship conference, Frank Wadleigh, manager of the western immigrant clearing house in New York, and General Eastern Passenger Agent Nutting of the Southern and Union Pacific railroads, acting under the advisory committee at Chicago.

It is asserted the steamship lines are not satisfied with the reduction in their commission, which recently occurred, and that if the railroads do not restore the commission to the old basis of 10 per cent the ocean lines are likely to annul the contract and make independent arrangements with outside immigration agents who, it is believed, stand ready to pay a higher commission than the railroads.

Woman Tells Judge Spouse is Untrue and She Does Not Want Him Any More.

Martin Williams, thirty-first and Burdette streets, has been sentenced to twenty-five days by Police Judge Berka. Martin went to the police station in double quick time Saturday night and complained that while he was making a little call on Edna Berka, with headquarters at Eleventh and Capitol avenue, the woman had taken from him $3 without his knowledge or consent.

"I have had to buy the groceries, because he would spend his money on Saturday nights and couldn't get credit," declared Mrs. Martin. "I don't want him ever to come back to me; keep him away from me," she said to the judge as he passed sentence on Martin.
