ARMY OFFICERS HAIL PLAN

Enthusiastic Over Move to Make Fort Omaha Signal Corps Station.

CAPTAIN WALLACE TELLS WHAT IS NEEDED

Says Wireless Telegraphy and Cable Experiment Station Would Be Required—Could Be Occupied by Fall.

The rehabilitation of Fort Omaha as headquarters for the signal corps of the United States army meets with every expression of gratification at local army headquarters. Captain Charles S. Wallace, chief signal officer, said in reference to the matter:

"It is a thing we have hoped for for several months. It strikes me as a good move and one that will contribute very materially to the efficiency of the signal corps of the army, which has become a very important factor in the military establishment of not only this, but all countries. I would like to see the post would accommodate a permanent garrison of 100 men and six officers, and it could readily be made available as a recruiting rendezvous for about 400 men. It would become a school of instruction for officers as well as men, and, owing to its central location, could be made one of the most important military establishments of the country. There are now about 1,300 men connected with the signal service.

Some Building Needed.

"Some additional buildings will have to be provided at Fort Omaha for the signal service. One will be a large balloon shed, a hydrogen gas plant, machine shops for automobiles and other machinery designed for the experimental departments of the signal service. A wireless telegraph station also will have to be built, also a cable experiment station. If this work was begun by July 1 the post would be ready for actual work by fall. There is ample ground at Fort Omaha, eighty acres, for an ideal signal service post and school. It also will be a very attractive place to visit and will add materially to the interesting attractions of Omaha."

TO HELP BUILD NEW CABLE

Captain C. S. Wallace Goes to Seattle to Aid Construction of Alaska Line.

Captain Charles S. Wallace, chief signal officer of the Department of the Missouri, has been relieved from duty here and is ordered to proceed to Seattle for duty relative to the construction of the United States marine cable from Seattle to Sitka, Juneau and Valdez, Alaska. He will be succeeded as chief signal officer temporarily by First Lieutenant W. L. Karnes, aide-de-camp to General Wint. Captain Wallace will depart for Seattle tomorrow.

Captain Wallace is assigned to duty with the United States cable ship Burnside, now en route from the Philippines, which is expected to arrive at Seattle May 1. The United States has about 2,000 miles of telegraph lines in Alaska and the purpose of the new cable is to connect these lines with the United States, independent of the Canadian telegraph lines now extending into the Alaska country. The work will occupy about three months. The length of the cable line will be about 1,800 miles and will be owned and controlled exclusively by the United States government.

Announcements of the Theater.

"Over Niagara Falls," Rowland & Clifford's magnificent scenic production, which will be the offering at the Krug Sunday and for the following three days, is heralded as the sensational success of the season. It is said to be superbly mounted, to abound in heroic scenes and startling situations. Several mechanical effects new to the stage are introduced, the principal one being a reproduction of Niagara Falls, over which the leading lady makes a thrilling descent in a most sensational manner. An especially strong cast will be seen in the various roles.

Truly Shattuck, the talented soprano, who has been the most captivating thing at the Orpheum this week, and the other varied features that have contributed to a program of excellence will be seen for the last two times, matinee and night, today.

Commencing Sunday, the Colby family, including the versatile musicians, Mr. and Mrs. Colby, Master Frank and little Miss Bryie, will be the headline attraction. "The Bifurcated Girl," a comedy sketch, will be presented by W. H. Murphy and Blanche Nichols. A vaudeville card will be the Nichols sisters, known as the "Kenzie Belles," who, in black face, make merry with song and dance and funny dialogue. A novelty from the Olympia, Paris, is "Gilles' Artiste," a mechanical figure, curiously simulating the human being in action. T. W. Eckert and Emma Berg will sing an operatic sketch called "The Land of Two Moons." Varied imitations and funny stories will be furnished by Al Lawrence. Amoson and Ashton are equilibrist, and the kinodrome pictures will be new.

This afternoon at the Boyd theater the Vision Moving Pictures will be exhibited especially for the children. This exhibit includes the celebrated motion pictures of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Great Train Robbery," "Happy Hooligan's Fourth of July," and other films that will be found both interesting and humorous. The price of admission is but 10 cents to any seat in the house.

Seats for the engagement of Viola Allen in the great production of "Twelfth Night" went on sale this morning. Miss Allen and her splendid company will be at the Boyd on Tuesday evening next.

NOTED INDIANS GO TO FAIR

Chiefs of Many Tribes Accompany Colonel Cummins to St. Louis.

FIRST EXHIBITION OF OLD RED CLOUD

Complete Aggregation at World's Fair Will Comprise Representatives from Fifty-One Tribes in America.

The vicinity of the Union depot had the appearance of an Indian reservation yesterday when the special train bearing 300 Indians stopped in Omaha on its way to the exposition at St. Louis. The party is in charge of Colonel Cummins and will be a portion of the exhibit which will be opened under the name of Cummins' Wild West Indian Congress and Rough Riders of the World.

Among the big chiefs on the train were American Horse, Red Cloud, Flat Iron, Red Shirt, Two Strike, Rocky Bear, Hollow Horn Bear, Red Star, Calico, Short-in-the-Eye, Blue Horse, Short Man, Hard Heart, Black Heart, Lone Bear, Seven Rabbits, Lost Horse, White Eyes, No Neck and Crow Dog. The tribes represented were: Flathead, Crow, Arapahoe, Cheyenne, Blackfeet, Omaha, Winnebagoes, Sioux, Foxes and nine tribes of Sioux.

John Mellen, traveling passenger agent of the Northwestern, came in with the train. Mr. Mellen says about 5,000 Indians were camped along the route and the time was put in feasting, dancing and having a general good time. Cattle were slaughtered and distributed among the Indians. When the train was ready to depart there was much weeping and wailing among the families of those that were to leave.

Old Red Cloud.

Old Chief Red Cloud, in his ninety-seventh year, whose skin resembles wrinkled parchment, occupied a private car on the train with his family, which is very numerous. He had nothing to say and seemed to take but little interest in his surroundings. He wears glasses, but was too tired to put them on. He was an Indian's heart. In fact, all the braves were dressed up to make a killing and the air was full of feathers. A large portion of the party was composed of women and children. All of the chiefs were lined up to have their pictures taken in front of the train, many of them standing upon the engine. They seemed to be happy and to enjoy every minute of the time.

Though 96 years of age, this is Red Cloud's first exhibition. The staid old chief always has refused to make a show of himself, but he finally acceded to the pressing requests of Colonel Cummins.

Colonel Cummins, by the way, has practically spent his lifetime among the Indians. The son of an Indian trader and born at Council Bluffs, he inherited the love for adventure and roving disposition and in early boyhood translated himself in the affections of the Indians. He was made chief of the Sioux by Red Cloud and is therefore the only white man now in the United States to enjoy this distinction.

"Colonel Cummins being abroad, Colonel Cummins' World's fair aggregation will comprise Indians from fifty-one, about all the extant tribes in America today.

Summer in the East.

It is estimated that there will be a larger travel to the eastern resorts this year than for several years.

The New York Central lines will offer a marvelous train service and anticipate that their facilities will be taxed to the utmost capacity.

SUES FOR INSURANCE POLICY

Henry T. Clark Carries Case Against Mutual Reserve to Federal Court.

A transcript in the case of Henry T. Clark against the Mutual Reserve Life association, et al., from the District court of Douglas county, was filed in the United States court. Clark brings suit for $10,000 damages against the insurance company. He alleges he was insured by the association in May, 1901, for the sum of $20,000 and had paid all of his assessments in pursuance of his contract up to the fall of 1901, when his assessments were raised, and he refused to pay the same. Plaintiff alleges further that the Mutual Reserve Life insurance company, upon his refusal to pay his increased premiums, cancelled his policy. Plaintiff further alleges that he has already paid about $500 in premiums on his policy, and that he is now 70 years of age, in feeble health and beyond the age in which he can secure insurance with any other reputable company.

Is It Not Much Better

to be able to save 21 per cent on your patent medicines and much more than that on drugs and prescriptions—than to pay the full old-time prices for "em"? What good would it do us to claim to be responsible for the cut rate drug business in Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs if it were not true?

Why were we then taken off the cut-off list so suddenly and where did the better element of the local combine tell the N. A. R. D. to go to?

In the meantime we are still paying freight on that quantity order for out-of-town shipment and are still inviting comparison of our prices (especially on prescriptions) with any other reputable drug house in this big world.
