

DISTRICT COURT IN SESSION

May Term is Convened and Grand Jury Set to Work. JUDGE DAY DELIVERS REGULAR CHARGE. Tells Jurors to Investigate Rumors of Maladministration of Public Offices Which He Considers Questionable.

The bustle and commotion incidental to the empaneling of new juries, grand and petit, characterized the opening of the May term of the district court. Most of the time of the forenoon was taken up with the calling of the roll of the petit jury and the hearing by Judge Day of the excuses of some thirty of the men drawn as to why they should not be compelled to serve. There were allowed to go on account of being over 40 years of age, the statute making it optional with the juror in such cases whether he will serve or not. One man proved not to be a legal actor and several more were excused on account of their own sickness or that of their families. The most general excuse put forward was with relation to the business of the applicant, but this was in very few cases considered important enough by the court to allow the excuse. At the conclusion of the calling of the petit jury in Judge Day's court the members immediately were sent to Judge Estelle's session to be empanelled for the trial of a cause.

Roll Call of Jury. The roll call of the grand jury was completed just before noon and all but two of the members, William Murdoch, 233 Chicago street, and J. L. Logan, 271 North Twenty-sixth street, were found to be present. Judge Day ordered the sheriff to issue and serve a citation for the appearance of these two at the afternoon session of the court and proceeded with the examination of the panel. Andrew N. Frick, who lives at 1228 South Tenth street, was the only one to answer to the question of the court as to who of the panel were over 40 years of age. Mr. Frick said he did not care to be excused on account of his age. He is the president of the A. N. Frick & Son Co., wholesale liquor dealers at 369 Farnam street. Judge Day's questioning found no minors, ministers, judges of the supreme or district courts or any one of the dozen or more classes which the law excludes from service on the panel and at the conclusion of the examination a recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

Following are the names of the men who will compose the grand jury: John W. Barnett, 343 South Thirteenth; A. Buehler, 211 Chicago; Carl Carlson, 202 Gold; Chris Dorr, Jr., 207 South Eighth; Andy Frick, Tenth and Farnam; Thomas Flynn, Sixteenth and Center; John G. Fox, Twentieth and South Omaha; John Fitzgerald, 237 O street, South Omaha; Gus Hartman, Millard; Albert Hendrick, 202 Clark; George W. LaFollette, Gibson; Joe Menderville, Thirtieth between A and O, South Omaha; H. E. Neely, 471 Hamilton; Joseph Blomquist, 1217 Farnam; J. C. White, 205 Cuming, and George Whitehead, 202 South Twenty-fourth. Judge Day appointed Chris Dorr, Jr., foreman of the jury, H. D. Neely refusing to serve in this capacity owing to his defective hearing.

Court's Address to Jury. After the usual incidental remarks about the convening of a grand jury, Judge Day says: The object of all criminal law is not alone the punishment of persons guilty of its violation, but the preservation of the peace and the preservation of the public peace, and the security of private property. Experience has shown that these are best attained by the prompt and efficient prosecution of those who have violated the law.

The position which you occupy is one of great power and of corresponding great responsibility. It is within your power to find out the facts in relation to any subject being investigated by you, and for that purpose you have the right to summon before you any person in the county for examination, and I trust that you will have the courage to perform your whole duty without fear of or without regard to rank or station. The wisdom or necessity of the law is a matter which should concern you in the least. Your deliberations. Your duty is to investigate whether the law as now stands has been violated, and if so, you should return an indictment against any who have violated it.

I first desire to direct your attention to the obligation of secrecy which your oath as grand jurors imposes upon you. It is your duty as members of this grand jury to keep absolutely secret all proceedings of the grand jury which have been expressed upon any question being investigated by you, or what has been said or done in the grand jury room, or any other place where you are assembled in the discharge of your duty, and if you should reveal the same to any person, you will be liable to a fine and imprisonment, and your testimony will be inadmissible in any court.

Rumors of Maladministration. The judge then invites the jury to consider the rumors of maladministration of public affairs in the city and county, which he says "perhaps are idle talk, fomented for political purposes," but directs the jury to investigate such rumors, nevertheless. He says: There have been some rumors upon the streets and some comments in the press of this city, from which an inference might be drawn that there has been some irregularity in the administration of public affairs. These rumors may be idle talk, or they may be true, and if true, they should be investigated and fomented for political purposes. These matters should be investigated by you and the truth ascertained with respect to them, and if you find that the law has been violated by any public officer or official in the course of his duty, you should report the same to the grand jury, and if you find that any person has been guilty of a crime, you should report the same to the grand jury.

There has also been some discussion and comment among some of the attorneys of this city that corrupt influences have been used for the purpose of influencing the grand jury in their verdicts. If this be true it is most dangerous to the welfare of the community. If permitted to continue, it will soon reduce the administration of the law to the level of a bargain. It is the duty of the grand jury to investigate all such rumors, and if you find that any person has been guilty of a crime, you should report the same to the grand jury, and if you find that any person has been guilty of a crime, you should report the same to the grand jury.

who have violated the law in this respect. In addition to the matters to which I have directed your attention I give it in charge to investigate all violations of the criminal laws of the state, and if the evidence before you seems to warrant it, to present any and all persons who have violated the law. This will be your duty and I have no doubt you will perform it.

Must Act Speedily. The first thing in your deliberations should be to inquire into and to present the most serious case of violation of the law. It is your duty to present such cases as you find, and if you find that any person has been guilty of a crime, you should report the same to the grand jury.

REPORT OF NEW OMAHA HOTEL. Rumor is Rome Miller Will Build Next Spring, but He Makes Denial. A well substantiated report is in circulation to the effect that Rome Miller will begin work in the spring of 1904 on a large hotel building to be, when completed, the finest building of its kind in Omaha. The ground on which the building will be located is the southeast corner of the same block on which the Her Grand is located. The building will be owned by Miller, who is now in charge of the construction of the building.

Comfortable as Your Own Club

The last car of our 5:35 p. m. train for Chicago is an observation car—10 sleeping sections in front; a wide, cheerful, well lighted observation room in the rear.

Here you can smoke, chat, glance through the magazines and look at the scenery. The chairs are big, the windows wide and the room is daintily as well as comfortably furnished.

Each berth has its own individual light—convenient to undress by or to read by after you get in bed. Remember the hour of departure—5:35 p. m. from the Union Station.
