

CORNISH ANSWERS CRITIC

Replies to Latent Blackburn Letter on Congressional Nomination Matter.

WANTS TO KNOW MOTIVE OF THE EPISTLE

Tells Blackburn He Cannot Act for the Party Instead of a Faction He Ought to Resign.

Following are letters exchanged between T. W. Blackburn, chairman of the republican congressional committee of the second district and E. J. Cornish, candidate for nomination for congress, upon the matter of choosing the party's nominee.

Dear Mr. Blackburn, you sent to me a letter which I printed in the World-Herald.

OMAHA, Neb., May 6.—Hon. E. J. Cornish—Dear Sir: You refer in misrepresenting the situation as to congressional nomination for congress, upon the matter of choosing the party's nominee. This letter from Mr. Blackburn was sent to me by Mr. Cornish and printed in the World-Herald.

OMAHA, Neb., May 6.—Hon. E. J. Cornish—Dear Sir: You refer in misrepresenting the situation as to congressional nomination for congress, upon the matter of choosing the party's nominee. This letter from Mr. Blackburn was sent to me by Mr. Cornish and printed in the World-Herald.

In an interview evidently intended to be a mischievous one, you use my name and name upon a direct primary plan, covered by a certain "Blackburn resolution" for which you are anxious for your nomination to lead the county committee to call a convention to make future nominations on the direct primary system. It is not necessary for me to call a convention, but you are anxious to do so. Your plan of primary is "direct" only in name. It contemplates a "cinch" primary. The "cinch" rule provides for a direct vote by voting precincts. Your "cinch" proposition absolutely disfranchises the individual voter by providing a method of voting intended to prevent the upper wards by the votes of the machine democrats who are registered as republicans in South Omaha, and all of whom are anxious for your nomination as that Hon. G. M. Hitchcock's "cinch" candidate for the nomination. You would have the majority of the primary and the nomination to go to the primary received a majority, upon a "cinch" scheme of voting in the convention.

No convention has been called to nominate a candidate for congress and no convention will meet to nominate a candidate for congress until fall. Therefore you are merely a play candidate running against yourself upon a false issue in a primary election which has nothing whatever to do with the nomination of a candidate for congress.

Messrs. Kenyon, Gurley, Breen, Burlew and Jeffers, recognizing the absolute nonsense of offering their names at a time when their names are equally or properly to be rejected, refused to put up for the county committee to be executed in a "cinch" which could mean nothing to congress.

A little boy climbing a toy balloon with a rubber string never succeeds in getting to the top. You are a play candidate running against yourself upon a false issue in a primary election which has nothing whatever to do with the nomination of a candidate for congress.

You have proceeded in aligning yourself with the wing of the republican party which holds a congressional nomination two years ago and have apparently conducted the machine vote in your interest. You are certainly entitled to that for services performed in the past, but you ought to be good enough to be honest to see that a nomination to be good for anything must be one made by republicans generally in a fair contest and not by a "cinch" proposition intended only to disfranchise the party and disfranchise a large portion of the republican voters of the district.

I have never proposed or favored any form of primary which gave the "cinch" vote in the convention when that which many republicans would have preferred is to have a fair contest and not by a "cinch" proposition intended only to disfranchise the party and disfranchise a large portion of the republican voters of the district.

Reply of Cornish.

Following is the reply of Mr. Cornish, a copy of which was sent to Mr. Blackburn: OMAHA, Neb., May 7, 1904.—Hon. T. W. Blackburn, Chairman Republican Congressional Committee: Dear Sir—What is the motive of your communication to me received by mail and also through the World-Herald this morning?

The essence of a direct primary is that the people in the ballot should be permitted to express a preference and that trades and combinations in conventions shall be eliminated. These ends being attained, the form of attaining them is immaterial. You know that the delegates ordinarily appointed to the First and Second wards intended to carry a resolution, where I am presumed to be strongest, are greater in proportion to the votes ordinarily cast by republican primaries than in the Sixth, Seventh and Ninth wards, where I am presumed to be weak, and therefore the system adopted by the county central committee declaring that the one having a plurality throughout the county shall be declared the nominee is more disadvantageous to me in a practical way than the expensive precedent plan introduced last fall, partly through your efforts. You know, further, that I have repeatedly expressed myself as willing to accept any form of primary that you and your committee might see fit to call, provided it should have the essential feature of a direct primary. You know that I joyfully remarked several months ago that I expected to play to the game and only asked that the rules be announced before the cards were dealt. You know that Washington and Barry counties were calling their conventions before your committee had formally acted, although four out of the nine members of your committee were participating in those conventions. It was your duty then to call together your committee and announce the rules, if you intended to carry an unbiased officer representing all elements of the republican party. It was your duty to wait for the result of these two counties and then make a call that will favor a faction I am willing now to permit every one of the candidates to put their names upon the ballot and pledge myself to abide by the result of the ballot in strict conformity with the resolution you introduced in the convention last fall. Under the primary as it has been called it is a mere matter of computation to determine whether the result would be under the Jeffers-Blackburn rules of last fall, except that the election is by wards instead of by precincts. If you are honest and desire republican success, use your influence to accept this proposition. You will find me more than willing to wait an election, not a nomination. Call your committee at once, fix the date of a congressional convention, make the call direct primary so that the people will understand and there is no possibility of trades and combinations among delegates in the convention, and I will accept it. Under such a plan the candidates could agree upon one delegate, as it would have nothing to do but declare the result of the primary. You know that the form of direct primary that you have suggested requires me to carry a majority of the republican votes over all my competitors and requires the election of two separate delegates, and in case of my failure to carry a majority over all my competitors and combinations among delegates in the convention, which is the one thing sought by the candidates, the best advocate of the direct primary. You have never indicated a willingness to adopt the Jeffers rules of last fall and you will not now. If you desire republican success, as you ought or else I am a republican, do you attempt to breed factional discord in our party? You know that in the two campaigns in which Mr. McLean defeated me for the nomination I took my defeat gracefully, with as much pleasure as a defeated candidate could assume, and gave to him my support. You know that for twenty years I have supported the regular nominees of the republican convention. You know that the same faction has rarely carried the conventions in this county two years in succession and that each incumbent the party successful in the convention has been a republican and earnest supporter. You know that republican success cannot be obtained until we educate the people that they are in honor bound to support the nominees of a convention. You know that part of our republicans bolted the county convention for congress and that another part of our republicans bolted Frank Moore for mayor when both of these gentlemen were the nominees of our party. You know that every one of my competitors, with possibly one exception, openly bolted the republican nominee for mayor and city attorney in the last city election. All of the republican nominees recognize the situation and the necessity of party leaders doing all they can to slay factional bitterness and prejudices. I am at a loss, therefore, to understand your motive in trying to arouse prejudices and passions that must be injurious to the republican party. Can it be that in your personal contests you feel under obligations to its proprietor? If so, has it occurred to you that you ought to resign your official position as chairman of the republican congressional committee? E. J. CORNISH.

City Treasurer Hows Completes List of Taxes Under Excise Law.

ONLY REAL ESTATE RECEIPTS INCLUDED

Work More Than Pays for Itself, as Voluntary Back Taxes Are Turned in by This Method.

Last night City Treasurer Hows completed the listing of special and regular taxes under the excise law. The special taxes unpaid amount to $7,737.33, while the regular taxes on this delinquent list amount to $2,204.44. These taxes pertain only to real estate and have nothing to do with the delinquent personal taxes.

In compiling this record for the county treasurer seven men have been employed fourteen hours each day since April 11. Expert accountants were employed by the treasurer and the men were paid by the hour. It is estimated the cost of getting up this list will amount to a little over $400. The books needed in the compilation are included in this cost.

Treasurer Hows said the work had more than paid for itself, as during the time the experts were at work a great many people who were behind called at his office and settled back taxes.

"The fact," said the treasurer, "that a scavenger list was being prepared was an incentive to a great many people and they made it a point to call and pay, in order to prevent their names going on the delinquent list."

While the totals were completed last night, the books will not be ready to turn over to the county treasurer until Tuesday, as a number of tax claims still are pending before the city council. The treasurer expects these claims will be disposed of Monday night so he can close these special books Tuesday. With the amount of the delinquent taxes in the treasury the city would be in excellent financial condition.

Election of Teachers.

Jay Laverty, secretary of the Board of Education, announced yesterday that Monday night, May 15, the board would elect a large number of teachers, janitors and other employees. A list of the teachers to be elected is being prepared and it is understood the janitor list already is made up. Nothing will be done by the board in connection with the election of a superintendent for the time, as the contract of J. A. McLean does not expire until about the middle of June.

Corner Stone Laying.

The committee on buildings and grounds of the Board of Education, which is composed of Brock, Rich and Morrill, is making arrangements for the laying of the corner stone for the new high school building. This ceremony will be held either Wednesday or Thursday afternoon of this week. It is the intention of the board to allow a half holiday to pupils on this occasion. Chairman Brock has announced his intention of securing some well-known out-of-town speaker for the occasion. He has suggested W. F. Gurley, John L. Webster and William Jennings Bryan. A box is being prepared to place in the corner stone which will contain the usual coins and papers.

Planning Reception for Miss Rowley.

The members of the high school class are planning for a reception in honor of Catherine Rowley, who won first honors at the state oratorical contest held at Schuyler Friday night. The party attending Miss Rowley returned yesterday and was enthusiastic in praise of the South Omaha girl. This is the fifth first prize pupil of the South Omaha high school who won at state contests. While no definite arrangements have been made about the reception, it is expected it will be held some time this week.

Attend Scott Funeral.

Quite a number of old-time residents of South Omaha attended the funeral services held over the remains of John S. Scott at the Drexel hotel yesterday afternoon. Several beautiful floral offerings were sent by friends here. While the deceased spent a great deal of his time in Omaha, he was well known here, having conducted a business for many years on N street. Mrs. James F. McLenahan, the daughter of the deceased, has lived in the Magic City for many years, and her friends extended their sympathy on account of the death of her father by sending flowers.

Lively Time at Opening.

Adam Shook had a grand opening of his saloon at 24 North Twenty-fourth street last night. Everything was free for a time and the crowd accumulated more liquor than was good for them and there was a cutting scrape. Frank and John Clark, both house movers, managed to get into an altercation with Thomas Christofersen and the result was that Frank Clark drew a razor and cut a nine-inch gash in Christofersen's back. Dr. Bapp, the local physician, was called to the city jail and took six stitches in the back of the injured man. Frank and John Clark were locked up in the city jail and Christofersen was told to come around Monday and swear out a complaint. When the police commissioners were notified of the fight, Chief Briggs was directed to close the saloon which he did.

John Griffin Injured.

John Griffin, a painter living at 117 North Seventeenth street, Omaha, fell from a scaffold at 241 D street yesterday afternoon and broke his right leg. The injured man was taken to the South Omaha hospital and was attended by Dr. John Koutsky. Griffin was on a staging which he had erected in an improper manner and which gave way, throwing him to the ground with force enough to break his leg.

Bryan Comes Thursday.

Last night the members of the Board of Education gave it out that the corner stone of the new high school building would be laid Thursday afternoon of this week. The pupils in the schools will be given a half holiday. W. J. Bryan and Morrill has been engaged to make a talk to the children on this occasion.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 8.—The supreme court has upheld the decision of District Judge Hazen in the coal trust cases, so-called, who last winter sentenced two Kansas coal operators for contempt of court for refusing to answer questions put by a county attorney in a state investigation into the workings of an alleged coal combine. John Jack and John Bell, the operators, refused to testify on the ground that their testimony might incriminate them and were sentenced to the county jail.
