The job was evidently that of an amateur cracksman, as he was unprovided with tools except those he secured from the hardware stock in the store and steel chisels which he procured from a blacksmith's shop nearby. Even the gunpowder with which the safe door was blown off was taken from the store stock.

Robber Takes His Time. With a brace and drills taken from the stock in the general store the thief drilled a hole in the top of the safe and then inserted the gunpowder. The cracksman, whoever he was, evidently went at his work leisurely and deliberately, as the drill he used broke at the point and one of the large files taken from the blacksmith's shop was used to sharpen it again. In order to muffle the sound of the explosion the thief covered the safe with a number of mail sacks, which were found scattered over the floor, many of them bearing marks of the gunpowder, showthe city schools interest in nature study, ing the use they had been put to. Last a double barrelled shotgun he was also with Winchester & Cullen for the general year, at Carroll, Onawa and Schaller tied construction of the Carnegie library buildwith disturbing the peace of the community, ing, and President Robrer and Secretary Stewart were authorized to sign it on behalf of the board.

The contract provides that Winchester & Culien shall commence work on the is said to have arisen over the disposition building by June 1; that the foundations shall be completed by September 1 of this year; that the roof shall be on and the building enclosed by February 1, 1905, and the building completed by September 15. 1905. Failure to complete the different portions of the work by the specified dates will subject the contractors to a penalty of $15 a day. The contractors will be required to furnish a bond in the sum of $33,000.

> James P. Cullen of Janeaville, Wis., member of the firm of Windhester & Cullen, met with the board, and at his surgestion several minor changes were made in the form of contract drawn up by Secretary Stewart. At Mr. Cullen's request a clause was inserted in the contract permitting an extension of the time for completing the building in the event of the work being stopped or delayed by a strike, It was also at Mr. Cullen's suggestion tha the time for completing the building was extended from April 1, as originally pro vided for in the contract, to September 15. The bid of Winchester & Culien was $52,612 for the general construction of the building and $3,210 for concrete piling, making a total of $55,822, from which will be deducted $1,000, which the firm allows for the buildings now on the site.
