OMAHA'S TRADE CONDITIONS

Volume of Business for the Week Shows Considerable Improvement.

Markets in Excellent Condition

Sugar Made Sensational Advance of Fifteen Cents Per Hundred Pounds, with Indications Favorable for Higher Prices.

Weather conditions last week were much more conducive to a liberal demand for spring lines than those experienced the preceding week. Merchants who have been seen or heard from report trade out through the country as being very satisfactory. Farmers are of course rather busy with their spring work, but still the majority of them are well along with corn planting and as a result they feel easier and are more willing to take a day off to go to town than was the case a short time ago. Then, too, the favorable outlook for the bountiful crops of all kinds makes them hopeful for the future and they naturally spend more money under such circumstances than they would otherwise.

Wholesalers are also feeling the effects of the improved demand in the country, as small orders both direct from merchants and also through traveling salesmen have shown a big improvement in the last few days. More merchants are also arriving in the city for the purpose of sorting up their stocks.

Advance business with jobbers on such lines as have not already been sold up is also of very satisfactory proportions. When retailers are doing a good business they are always more willing to place advance orders and traveling men are now meeting with excellent success.

The market situation is not a great deal different from what it was a week ago. Groceries have fluctuated up and down to quite an extent, but aside from those lines prices are in much the same position they were a week ago.

In the near future, and in fact, they look for another sharp advance in the price of sugar. There is a much healthier tone to the coffee market last week than for some time past. Stocks are light and reports from the west are all steady, owing to a very heavy withdrawal during the last several days. New coffee will probably put in its appearance within the next thirty or forty days, but the early stock as a rule is not desirable for roasting. That being the situation, it looks as though old coffee would command better prices from now on than for some time past.

The cheese market is a little easier so far as Twins are concerned, but Young Americans are about steady, owing to their scarcity. The canned goods market does not show much change since last report. Spot corn is firmly held and tomatoes also showed more strength last week. There have been no quotable changes, however. Packers this year seem to be meeting with considerable difficulty in getting sufficient acreage of tomatoes. This is true both in the east and west. There are no changes in the market for future corn. California canned goods are moving well at full prices. In fact, several lines in the list are practically cleaned up, no stock being available until the new pack comes on the market.

In dried fruits there are few changes to note, prices on spot stocks being about the same as they were a week ago. The market on the new crop of peaches is opening up considerably higher than last week. The situation in the market for stock available for that purpose will be far short of last season.

The fish market is an exceptionally interesting one at this time, as telegrams from New Orleans indicate that Japan has come into the market in this country as a buyer. It is reported that representatives of that country are taking several cars each week and securing options on much larger quantities for future delivery. It is understood that the shipments are for the Japanese government and for importers. The low-grade rice is being taken by buyers from the West India islands, so that in a short time it looks as though the market would assume a very much healthier tone.

The fish market is in a good firm position. Not enough new cod has been landed so far to make any very material change in the situation and whatever weakness has been caused by the increased cost of packages, Mackerel, Holland herring and salt salmon are moving very freely and with warm weather now at hand a largely increased sale is looked for.

Prices are about the same on woodenware as they were a week ago, with the exception of butter plates, which have advanced 10 cents from $1.00, and still higher prices are looked for.

Other staple lines of groceries are in about the same position they were a week ago.

Dry Goods More Active.

The dry goods trade last week was about the best of the season, from the standpoint of the retailers. There were no changes in the weather reminded one forcibly of the fact that summer is close at hand and as a result the demand for light weight goods took on a much more lively air. Stocks are beginning to go to pieces at a rapid rate and the larger retailers are already sending in sorting-up orders, both direct and through traveling salesmen. Some of them are even coming to market in person. Local jobbers, though, help the retailer in sorting up his stocks. Everything at the present time goes to show that merchants will enjoy a nice business throughout the season and for that reason they are keeping their stocks complete in order to supply the needs of their customers.

Advance business is also very satisfactory with local jobbers. They now have more orders on their books than ever before at this time of year and traveling men are still pounding away with much success. Before the end of the season they will undoubtedly break all previous records by a big margin.

So far as the market is concerned there is not much to be said. All lines are in a good strong position and as a general thing jobbers are not looking for any important changes in cotton goods for some time to come. That being the situation they say that retailers are safe in carrying liberal stocks both of summer goods and also of placing their orders for fall.

only that, but none seems to be figuring in any chance for some time to come and describe the market as being in a good healthy condition with prices firm all along the line.

Better Movement of Footwear.

Leather goods men are no longer doing any complaining. Retailers are enjoying the business and the manufacturers are getting quite a few rising-up orders. For a time some of the dealers were rather impatient regarding weather conditions, but now they are making up for lost time and in most communities they are considerably ahead of last year in the quantity of goods sold. They are also contemplating a good deal of the remainder of the season, as all conditions seem to be favorable.

Nothing new in rubber goods, as trade is, of course, quiet. A few orders for fall are coming in from merchants who have put off buying until the last moment before the advance which is to take effect June 1. Practically all of the dealers, though, who intend to buy before they actually need the goods have done so before this time.

RELIGIOUS.

There is now no reason to believe that the French government will approve the petition of Lourdes this year, as stated by the daily press.

Rev. George Polson, of Mount Clemens, Mich., has been in the Presbyterian ministry thirty-two years, having graduated in 1882 from the theological seminary in Auburn, N. Y.

Rev. Frederick C. Buchanan has just died in Berkeley, Cal., after a half century of pastoral work in different churches of the Methodist Episcopal church in California.

The Panama Constitutional Convention favored the Roman Catholic faith and recommended state appropriations to its mission work.

The pope has erected on the Japanese island of Shikoku a new apostolic prefecture. The Dominicans who were driven from the Philippines are to be employed in this field.

Representatives of fourteen influential Protestant denominations have issued an appeal to the Protestant public of America for action by ecclesiastical and civil courts and legislative bodies that may put an end to abuses which exist in marriage and divorce.

Bishop Merrill of the Methodist Episcopal church, who is in the seventy-ninth year of his age and the fifty-ninth year of his ministry, retired from active service this year. To Bishop Merrill the success of the movement by which laymen were admitted to the general conference is largely due.

The endorsements made by the Presbyterians for higher education in the western
