

NEW BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

"The Crossing," by Winston Churchill, is Full of Life and Interest.

TRIALS AND HARSHIPS OF PIONEERS

"The Day Before Yesterday," Prettily Written Book of Childhood Pranks and Follies and Scrapes and Good Times.

"The Crossing," by Winston Churchill, from the publishing house of Macmillan company, is full of life, fire and interest from start to finish.

"Was there ever a more prettily written book of childhood pranks and follies and scrapes and mischievous and dexterous and irresponsible girl than Rachel, the doctor's daughter?" asks Zion's Herald in reviewing Mrs. Sara Andrew Shaffer's book, "The Day Before Yesterday."

The July Delinquent is a magazine of beauty, interest and utility. The display of summer fashions is exquisite and complete, the fiction bright and entertaining, the special articles clever and informative.
