INVOLVES SAME IDEA AS ETNYRE SCHEME

Not Only Most Effective, but Cheaper Than Keeping the Creek Open for Natural Flow to the River.

In view of the agitation to provide some means for securing an adequate drainings system for the city and to prevent the periodical overflow of Indian creek, the report of Civil Engineer Benezette Williams, who planned the drainage system of Coun cil Bluffs, made in August, 1884, to the city council, is of more than passing interest. Regarding Indian creek Engigeer Williams in his report said:

in his report said:

The most difficult thing with which we have to contend, as it is now the greatest drawback to the city's prosperity is Indian creek. The whole length of Indian creek north of the south line of the city is roughly estimated at ten miles, of which about four and a haif are within the city. The total area of the watershed is taken at fourteen and a haif square miles, of which about five and a haif square miles, of which about five and a haif square miles, of which about five and a haif square miles, of which about five and a haif square miles, of which about five and a haif square miles, of which at the city.

Passing, as it does, through the heart of the city, with high binfis on either side for a considerable portion of its length, there would at first giance appear to be no way averent to allow it to keep about its present and which will be the cheapest if the creek is ever to be enclosed, is the following one:

Davert the creek from its present channel at the north city limits, as has been prophied, by means of a tunnel through the batiffs to the Missouri river, draining the nine square miles of territory above the city.

Build a storm water sewer in the present the basis to the Missouri river, draining the city.

Build a storm water sewer in the present channel of the creek from the north city limits to Main street, thence along the foot of the twiffs northward to the old cut-off of the river for the most of the way. This would draft the high level portion of the Indian creek district within the city, amounting approximately to two and a haif square nilles.

For the lower portion of the Indian creek district, including the watershed of the Graham average glen, one main sewer should be built, following about the present course of the creek below Broadway to the city limits and thence in the most direct line to the cut-off of the river in section 14.

By these three main out-falls Indian creek could be entirely obliterated in the cheapest possible manner, for the reason that the shortest and most direct course to an outfall would be followed in the various parts of the district.

The following is a wough estimate of the cost of providing them three main outfalls for the Indian creek watershed. Before an estimate can be made with ordinary exactness more surveys need to be made. It is based upon the assumption that no water would be encountered in tunneling through the bluff, that would seriously interfere with the operation:

the operation: feet of tunnel through the bluff $210,000 MAIN FOR HIGH LEVEL DISTRICT.

.$572,700 at $22 0,500 lineal feet below Broadway at $35.50 $297,000 372,750

To this sum should be added the cost of the intercepting sewer from Broadway to the river cutoff, which would be dispensed with if the first plan proposed were adopte instead of the second one—estimated at $66

The cost of the two plans then would stand as follows: Tunnel plan, by which the watershed of Indian creek is drained by underground conduits entirely. $572,700; open channel plan, $736,250; or $183,550 in favor of the first plan. As will be seen Mr. Williams took prac-

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, June 12-(Special.)-State Auditor Carroll, for the first time, is able to report that the state is entirely free from the "gold bond" investment certifi-cate style of insurance. A great outcry was raised on account of this form of getting money from the people on extravagant promises a year or two ago. There were four big companies and two smaller ones engaged in the business, all located in Des Moines and they were bringing a great revenue to the promoters. A campaign was commenced to drive them out of business as fraudulent concerns. Several con solidations followed and finally one of the consolidated companies sold out to a Chicago concern, the other was merged into a Minnesota company, and the business was all taken away. State Auditor Carroll states in his annual report on life insurance just issued that he discouraged the issuance of these gold bond certificates, believing it impossible to sell such con tracts on their merits. He states that he is not aware that any Iowa company is now issuing any form of gold bond contracts, nor does he believe that such policles or contracts could be issued in compliance with the laws recently enacted. As a whole, he states that the insurance in Council Bluffs yesterday looking for his legislation enacted by the last general asrunaway wife, who with her paramour sembly will prove beneficial to the insurance interests as well as to the people of > Report Larger Receipts. The reports of all the railroad companies doing business in Iowa have been received by the state officials, save a few of the minor companies. These reports show that as a rule the receipts of the companies on Iowa business were increased materially, but that the net earnings were reduced. This is because of the greater expenses of operation the past year. Because of this showing it is anticipated there will be no increase in the assessment of the companies of the state this year. Last year with a considerable increase in net and gross earnings a great raise was made in the assessment, and for two or three years the assessments had been materially creased. Now it is believed the limit has been reached until the business is greatly augmented.

Yesterday morning I received information of his death in the Soldiers' home at Leavenworth and attended his funeral there at 3 p. m. Out of all these there were but two present. Not a member of his family or a friend. A few old soldlers. A brief prayer. The rattle of musketry. The echo of "taps" through the hills.
