GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET No Wild Scramble to Cover on July Visible WEAKER PRICES PREVAIL ON CONTRARY WEAKER PRICES PREVAIL ON CONTRARY WEAKER PRICES PREVAIL ON CONTRARY Light Local Deliveries Anticipated on Account of Small Stocks—Prepaisms on July Wheat and Onts. OMAHA, June 30, 1994. The last day of the June mained with was young of any sensational teatures and the scramble of angres to cover on July stuffed of ownership was the deferred month better and aquitations, together with a bearish weather map and lorenast, worked for weaker prices. The holders of July contracts of corn showed an inclination to trace over to september, and the spirmed became where the teature titure. The spirmed became where the titure titure. The spirmed became where the teature titure the teature titure to some extent by the longs selling out at Licagio on anticipation of neavy deliveries maxit lucided on the spirmed because which and the provision market ruled firm and finished the day with f Last Day. it is the opinion of the habitues of the

floor that the receipts of corn after July 1 will be light.

Early prices were the lowest at Omaha and toward the close the market strengthened and values became stronger. Especially noticeable was this in December wheat, which was bid up 14 cents by Merriam & Holmquist, who were strong buyers of that month.

Outside trade was light and the market quiet and dull. Receipts were some better today, but still small. There was absolutely nothing doing in the sample market.

The deliveries Tuesday of July wheat and oats, as stated, will be small because of small stocks of these commodities.

The Omaha market wil be closed Saturday, Sunday and Monday because of the Fourth of July.

The range in prices of Omaha grain for future delivery and the close today and Wednesday were as follows:

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Peatures of the Trading and Closing

NEW YORK. June 30.—There was a slight stirring in the sluggish pool of speculation this morning, but the day's total trading is small compared with any period of living interest in the stock marget as make the comparisons from day to day quite meaningless. The general surface of the market was hard and unyleiding and gave an impression of an undertone of confidence, even though attempts to put prices up proved futile.

Some benefit was caused to values by an unofficial estimate on grain conditions of a much more hopeful tenor than a like unofficial estimate published yesterday with suggestions of a crop scare. A cotton crop estimate by a publication of authority in the trade gave a flattering opinion of the month's improvement in the condition of that crop. The May net earnings of the Lehigh Valley were not favorable, but the coalers all snared in the firmness of the market. The money market was entirely unruffled by any preparation for the July settlements, although a payment on account of the Japanese loan subscriptions estimated to call for over $12,000,000 was made today in addition to the routine disbursements called for at the turn of the half year.

whether they got any cattle or not. As a result trading was alow, with prices lower on most kinds. It was late before a clearance was made.

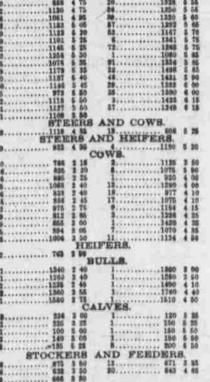

The beef steer market was extremely slow and lower. Packers were late in starting out and when they did go to the yards they simply rode around without trying to buy much of anything. Some of the cattle that just suited them soid at prices not much different from yesterday, but the general market was right around a dime lower and some sales looked even worse than that. Salesmen did not like the idea of taking off that much and as a result trading was slow from start to finish. Salesmen said it was the most uneven market they have experienced in some time past, as buyers picked out the kinds they wanted and apparently did not try to buy the others.

The cow market held right around steady. There were very few on sale and as buyers had to have some fresh supplies salesmen were able to get just about yesterday's prices for everything in the yards. The less desirable grades were of course rather slow sale.

Bulls were inclined to weakness, but still

HGGS—There was not an excessive run of hogs in sight this morning and with a good demand on the part of local packers the market opened mostly 2½c higher than yesterday, with the bulk of the hogs self-ing at $5.05 and $5.07½. As the morning advanced the market gained in atrength until at the best time the market was mostly a nickel higher, the later sales going largely at $5.07½ and $5.10. The choicer loads gold from $6.10 to $5.20, while the light loads went from $5.05 down. Trading was active all the morning and as a result everything in sight was disposed of in good season. The advance today went a long way toward making up for the loss of yesterday. Representative sales:

not show a great deal of change from yesterday. Tracing was not active and packers were inclined to bear the market, but still they were unable to do so to any great extent, except in the case of something not very desirable. The market could, perhaps, beat be described by calling it steady to a dime lower, idah wethers sold for $4.25 and ewes $2.50 and $3.55. Oregon sheep DATE. South yearlings sold at $3.75. While these prices are considerably lower than at the high time last week, still they are well in line with those being paid at other markets and are not much different from a year ago.

In giving quotations yearling lambs will be quoted as yearlings and the coming 2-year ago.

SUPREME COURT SYLLABI The following opinions will be officially

reported:

989. Farmers and Merchants Bank.
Galva, Ill. against Mosher. Appeal from Lancaster. Affirmed. Sedgwick, J.

1. A stockholder's interest in a corporation, and in all of its property and rights, is represented by his stock. A levy upon the stock of a debtor by garnishment of the corporation pursuant to the statute will impound dividends upon the stock declared while the proceedings are pending.

2. If the debtor has sold or piedged the stock in good faith before the levy, the right of such bona fide purchasers will not be affected by the levy, even though, by the books of the corporation, the stock appears to be the property of the debtor
and is so regarded by the corporation.

3. In appeals to this court in equity cases,
the findings of the trial court must stand or fall upon the pleadings and evidence contained in the record. Errors of the trial court in receiving or rejecting evidence, or upon questions arising upon the pleadings, can not be corrected upon such
