CHANGES SUDDEN AS TURN IN WEATHER

No Trading in Figures, but Fairly Good Cash Business is Done-Onts Still at Fancy Figures.

OMAHA, July 9, 1904.

"It is a long lane that has no turn." runs the old proverb, and the turn in the prices of all grains came with the cessation of rains yesterday and today. The bear who foretold the decline a day ago did not go far amiss. Lower prices surely came and the holders made not a little scuffle for a time to sell. When they found good buyers, prices would waver and perhaps regain a shade, but values could not maintain such fabulous figures as ruled the two days past. Still further declines are looked for Monday unless the weather man is badly mistaken.

Weather which put prices out of reach during the past week proved as equally potent at depressing them. Hardly had the sun shone on harvested fields of wheat and half-drowped growing corn, after ten or twelve days of downpour, than values began to weaken. Then came the forecast of fair and warmenr weather, the long-looked-for, over the entire west and southwest. Showers, as predicted, will be few and well scattered over the great territory.

At Chicago the longs saw how things were going and liquidations followed. Selling brought lower values in all lines and the market closed from a cent to a half cent off in all lines.

There was absolutely no trading in future stuff at Omaha today. A fairly good cash market was set up and some cash business done. There were offerings in oats, but the holders could not tempt those who were in need because of fancy prices. The news of the proposed construction of five elevators here is beginning to show its effect on the market, in that local elevator men pre anxious to get winter stuffs on the long side. While this was not demonstrated today, as there was practically no trading in futures, the sentiment has been apparent for some time past, and if values strike a modernte level within the next two weeks Omaha's prospective elevator men

CHICAGO, July 9.—Easter cables and improved weather conditions in the southwest held the bulls in check today, and as a result the wheat market was fairly steady, with prices at about yesterday's closing quotations. There was considerable selling by locals at the start and the initial price on September was unchanged to it lower at 83% 384c. Offerings were well taken, however, and the price railled to 44% 344%c, reacting later to 84%c.

Sentiment in the corn pit was a trifle easier on liquidation resulting from the unproved weather conditions. September opened unchanged to its lower at 43% 45%c. Oats held steady at a small decline; September opened a shade to its lower at 23%c to 23% 353%c. After selling at 25% 25%c the price advanced to 32%c and held steady at 23%c.

The large blocks of these stocks which were taken and the sympathetic shifting from one point to another kept alive the impression of the organized character of the movement. The choice of stocks for operations showed rome partiality for the so-called Morgan shares, following the large buying of Heading yesterday. The stock continued conspicuous today, with an advance of nearly a point, and there was an active movement as well in the Southern railway shares and in United States Steel preferred. There was a large demand for Fennsylvania and the rest of the list moved narrowly, but held generally above last night's level until the appearance of the bank statement, when prices sagged back to last night's level. The market hardened in the final dealings and closed stoady. Clearing weather and subading waters in the threatened wheat country were regarded with St. L. & S. P. St. L.

CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE Duliness of Midsummer Season is Now at Hand.

July is invariably a dull month with the retail trade of all cities. It is the month when people of the well-to-do class of the cities begin to depart for their annual outing in the woods or mountains or at the seashore. Their departure brings a demand for certain lines of outing goods and for a time creates a very considerable trade in this class of merchandlise, but the demand is soon satisfied. When once beyond the confines of their home cities the summer vacation crowds cease to be consumers of merchandlise in the regular channels and their trade is lost so far as the home merchants are concerned.

Thus far this season the weather at Omaha and in all the territory surrounding the city has been such as to discourage rather than encourage the vacation idea. At the same time people who can get away are very likely to take a trip regardless of weather conditions, and, so far as can be learned, there will be the usual number of absences during the summer with the consequent diminution of trade.

Another characteristic of the retail trade at Hand.

far as can be learned, there will be usual number of absentees during the summer with the consequent diminution of trade.

Another characteristic of the retail trade this summer is the smaller demand for hot weather goods, due to the prevailing cool and wet weather. Two weeks of continued hot weather would unquestionably be a great help to the retailers in many lines. Down in the lobbing district there is a fair business doing for this season of the year. As a matter of fact business is by no means active in the majority of lines, but no one is disappointed, as conditions are very much as had been anticipated. The midsummer season is never a very active period with jobbers and a good many had anticipated that this summer would, if anything, be more quiet than usual. Anticipations of this sort were based on the well known fact that presidential years are usually dull in a business way.

usual. Anticipations of this sort were based on the well known fact that presidential yours are usually dull in a business way.

Just at the present time trade may be said to he waiting upon the weather. From most all sections of tributary country come reports to the effect that all crops so far have done well. Small grains are well edvanced and promise an abundant yield in most all localities tributary to this city. Corn, the chief crop, though, is backward and is not as far advanced in growth as usual at this season of the year. The plant in most sections is in a healthy condition, except on low, wet lands, where it has sustained some damage from water, and all that is required and more sunshine with the accompanying warm nights. So long as the cool and cloudy weather continues, a doubt as to the final outcome of the corn crop may be said to exist and consequently a tendency toward conservatism in all trade matters.

A late corn crop, which always means more or less soft and unmerchantable corn, is dreaded more this year than usual, for the reason that prices of cattle have been so low for some little time back that there was no money in fattening them for market, and the fattening of cattle or other live stock is about the only use that can be made of soft corn.

Owing to the crop outlook business at the present time may be said to be in a waiting mood. Necessities are being supplied as they arise, but there is no disposition to anticipate immediate wants until the requirements of the future are better understood. There is, however, a very apparent optimistic feeling noticeantly affections in the main are all right and that barring a few disturbing factors everything is satisfactory—that the season as a whole will show up a very satisfactory of the necessation of anticipate immediate wants and that barring a few disturbing factors the more of the season as a whole will show up a very satisfactory of the cause of the accumulation of mirplus capital seeking investment.

CURFEW ORDINANCE IN OMAHA

CURFEW ORDINANCE IN OMAHA president W. O. Henry Addresses the Public on Its Enforcement. from the vices of the streets of cities and "he members some years ago a local branch of the said Chairman Blackburn, A. H. Burnett, W. association, and for some time after the adoption of the curfew ordinance it was F. A. Brogan as proxy for W. F. Gurley. enforced and gave very general satisfaction .- There was following its enforcement notable decrease in crimes among youth. It seems, however, that the ordinance fell into disuse several years ago, and efforts have been made annually through petitions of citizens and the voting of congregations of various religious denominations to secure its enforcement, but apparently with very little success. A meeting of the association was again held on Tuesday night of this week at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian assoclation, and after the work had been reviewed very thoroughly a resolution preevailed that the mayor and council begin at the earliest moment the enforcement of the ordinance. It does not appear to be a doubtful reform, but on the contrary is full of humane consideration in the protection of youth in general from the vices of the streets: It is now claimed that fully 4,000 cities have the ordinance in force. In fact, testimonials from the officials of numerous cities where the ordinance has been enforced without exception certify to its great value in the lemening of juvenile delinquencies. In addition to the officials of cities giving the reforms their endorsement it has, without exception, received that of the clergy, press, boards of trade and school boards, and has universally been endorsed at conventions of educators in all parts of the union. After the meeting of Monday night of this week a conference was had with Chief of Police Donahue, in which he stated, after further explanation of the ordinance, that all chil-dren, when found on the streets after curfaw hour, had to be taken home to ascertain the wishes of their parents, and they were not incarcerated, as many supposed, when parents became responsible for them. The chief very readily consented to an immediate enforcement of the ordinance. Hon. Louis Berka, judge of the city court, was also interviewed on the subject, and he concurred heartily in the ordinance and its enforcement. He believes it will prove a great blessing in the case of multitudes of fathers and mothers who have wayward oys and girls who defy home restraint. It was the intention at the meeting of Tuesday night to hold another session at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian association on Monday night next, but in view of the enforcement of the ordinance by the officials without additional petition ing said meeting will not reconvene. HOGS—Receipts, 1.716 head; no sales reported; feeling steady.

TALK OF JOINT PRIMARIES Candidates for Congress, Cowell and Committeemen Discuss Matter, but Not Finally.

The republican congressional committee met yesterday afternoon at the office of Brome & Burnett, in the Paxton block, for the purpose of conferring with Chairman Cowell of the county committee and candidates for the congresional nomina-tion in reference to the manner and method of holding the primaries. Chairman Cowell and Candidates Gurley, Burbank, Kennedy and Raaker were present, but Candidates Cornish and Breen did not put in an appearance. When the meeting was called to order Chairman Blackburn excluded the newspaper reporters.

There was a session of two hours, and after adjournment Mr. Blackburn made this statement:

"The conference was entirely harmonious, but no definite action was taken in reference to the primaries. A resolution was adopted authorizing the chairman of the congressional committee to confer with the chairman of the county committee on the proposition to hold joint primaries. The executive committee of the committee, I understand, will be called to meet Monday, and after that Mr. Cowell and I will confer as to holding joint primaries." When Mr. Cowell was asked about the proceedings before the congressional com-
