ment. There was no heart in it. The night had taken the temper out of the cheering multitude and made the occasion much like a burned out roman candle.

There was the Nebraska delegation, looking as if they had just awakened from a troubled sleep, showing the effects of the strain that had been on them ever since their arrival in the convention city.

Bryan Almost Collapses.
A number of seats were vacant in the Nebraska delegation, the absence of William Jennings Bryan being generally remarked. Mr. Bryan almost collapsed when he finished his speech early this morning and his friends, recognizing that he had just about used up all his strength in his appeal to the sober judgment of the convention to nominate a candidate that would be acceptable to the rank and file, hurried Mr. Bryan to his hotel, where he was at once put to bed. A physician was summoned, who prescribed for his distinguished patient and commanded complete rest. Later in the day Mr. Bryan was taken to the home of his cousin, Dr. Dwight Jennings of this city, where he will have the best of care. Mr. Bryan, it is said, is suffering from a slight congestion of the lungs, which it is expected will yield readily to the treatment.

When Nebraska was called for nominations for vice president, J. Smyth mentioned a chair and in his most impressive manner said:

"Nebraska passes, but awaits with profound interest the course of New York."
This remark was occasioned by a desire on the part of some of the delegates from Nebraska to wait upon the New York delegation, ascertain their wishes and then lend assistance wherever possible. A clear case of the "tail going with the hide," as Mr. Phillips of Columbus expressed it. "New York has nominated Parker, I now believe in giving the state the right to complete the ticket to its own liking." E. C. R.

PARKER FIRES BOMB

mean dictation to the convention and aroused the greatest anger.
Governor Vandaman, speaking for Mississippi, said that the delegation of that state, would not consent that any gentleman should dictate to the convention as to what should be its platform and would join an effort to reconsider the nomination if such declaration should be attempted. Senator Tillman, talking with the other delegates, asked "if the committee on resolutions was to be kicked and cuffed about" as though it was nothing?

He next word to Senator Daniel, chairman of the committee on resolutions, that any attempt to reconsider the action on the platform and insert the gold standard plank would raise a storm in the convention. Many delegates expressed the opinion that Judge Parker would have to be taken down or that another candidate would be named.
There was a rumor that W. J. Bryan would come to the convention, although ill, and make a fight against a gold standard plank, but Chairman Smyth of the Nebraska delegation said this was not true.
Finally, shortly after 1 o'clock, when the convention had ordered a ballot for the nominee for vice president and the secretary was about to call the roll, Senator Culberson of Texas arose in an excited manner and said that before a vice president was nominated "we had better find out who is to be the candidate for president."
He moved a recess until 8:30. The motion was put and unanimously carried.
Mr. Sheehan called Judge Parker on the long distance telephone and had a prolonged conversation with him, the result of which has not been disclosed.

STRUGGLE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Convention Resumes Its Work for a Running Mate for Parker.
ST. LOUIS, July 9.—With the announcement of the nomination of Chief Justice Alton B. Parker early this morning an adjournment was taken until afternoon, and the great convention hall was quickly emptied of its worried delegates and spectators.
The terrific strain of the night was over and there was a general movement in the direction of the hotels.

It was 5:30 o'clock when the first sign of opening the session was made. Chairman Clark called the convention to order and directed the delegates to take their seats. Representative John Sharp Williams of Mississippi was recognized and moved that nomination speeches be limited to fifteen minutes, but that no more than four seconds speeches be allowed for any one nomination. Ball of Texas offered a substitute limiting the nominating speeches to ten minutes, leaving the time of the seconding speeches at five minutes and limiting the number to three. Mr. Williams once withdrew his motion in favor of the substitution and it was adopted without discussion.

Roll Call for Vice President.
Roll call of states was then called for the presentation of candidates for vice president. Alabama was called several times with no response. Finally Mr. Russell of that state announced that Alabama would give way to Illinois.

Samuel Alschuler of Illinois arose and announced that Freeman Morris would speak for that state.
Mr. Morris took the platform to name James R. Williams of Mississippi.

News Disturbs Convention.
As the unexciting routine of the nominating and seconding speeches proceeded in the convention the storm that seemed inevitable was gathering. Leaders hurried to and fro with anxious faces and the news from Esopus spread rapidly. The floor filled with delegates and in the Parker states men sat with heads close together in whispered consultation. At 7 o'clock there were signs of a disturbance that was going to be dramatic. The delegates, but the delegates smiled and listened to the flow of "favorite sons" oratory all unconscious of the great things that were moving in the party's heart.

The roll call of states proceeded until Maryland was reached without a response. For Maryland John Prentice Poe took the platform and seconded the nomination of Mr. Davis of West Virginia. (Applause.)
Nebraska's response was a statement that it waited with interest the choice of New York. New York requested to be passed when called on the roll.

Senator R. W. Carmack of Tennessee was placed in nomination by Legate Hervey and read in a moment, and it is so important that you should know what it is, that I have read it to you. I am your friend, the governor of my state, Mr. Vandaman and have him read it over again. When you shall have heard it, I will note that there is not in it one word about requiring or demanding or asking or requiring that anything should be placed in the democratic platform. (Loud cheering and applause.)

Money Not an Issue.
Governor Vandaman spoke as follows: Mr. Chairman, I think you will bear me out in what I said. This is the first time in the history of the United States that a man already nominated for the greatest office on the surface of this earth has been so superstitious about a matter of personal rectitude and honor as to send a telegram to a friend asking him to decline the nomination for him, if as he seems.

"From a child I was never strong and had a capricious appetite and I was always used to whatever I fancied—rich cake, highly seasoned food, hot blouses, etc.—so it was not surprising that my digestion was soon out of order, and at the age of twenty-three I was on the verge of nervous prostration. I had no appetite and as I had been losing strength because I didn't get nourishment in my daily food to repair the wear and tear on body and brain I had no reserve force to fall back on, lost flesh rapidly and no medicine helped me."

It was a wise physician ordered Grape-Nuts and cream and saw to it that I gave this food (new to me) a proper trial, and it showed he knew what he was about, because I got better by bounds from the very first. That was in the summer and by winter I was in better health than ever before in my life; had gained in flesh and weight and felt like a new person altogether in mind as well as body, all due to nourishing and completely digestible food, Grape-Nuts.

This happened three years ago and never since then have I had any but perfect health, for I stick to my Grape-Nuts food and cream and still think it delicious. I eat it every day. At 9:30 Chairman Clark pounded vigorously with his gavel and asked that the delegates be seated and the clock cleared. He did not formally call the convention to order, but soon as some degree of quiet had been restored Governor Vandaman of Mississippi rose and without formal recognition by the chairman proceeded to address the convention on the subject of the mysterious telegram.

The conference committee reached the hall at 9:35 and filed slowly along the crowded aisles in the center of the convention floor. Delegates thronged about them, asking, "What shall we do?"

"Keep your heads and behave," retorted Senator Tillman with emphasis, and he repeated the injunction at numerous intervals.
John S. Williams, Governor Vandaman, Senator Tillman and Senator Carmack made their way to the platform with the mysterious message in their possession. A short conference took place among the four and Chairman Clark, while the delegates waited, took the floor.

Chairman Clark pounded for order with John S. Williams standing by his side.
"I wish to announce in advance," said the chairman, "that on this important matter every man shall have a full and fair hearing. I now introduce John Sharpe Williams of Mississippi."

Williams broke the news. All of you were very much surprised and excited when you heard that the news from Esopus spread rapidly. The floor filled with delegates and in the Parker states men sat with heads close together in whispered consultation. At 7 o'clock there were signs of a disturbance that was going to be dramatic. DOCTORS FOR MEN

PRIVATE DISEASES

Avoid Dangerous and Uncertain Treatment.

Everything has to have a beginning, and one of the most prolific sources of the diseases and weaknesses so prevalent among men is the result of abuse in early life of the neglected or improperly treated pelvic diseases, such as gonorrhea, etc. While gonorrhea is considered one of the simplest contagious diseases, yet through neglect it develops into Stricture and Gleet, and finally into a chronic condition, which if properly treated could have been cured in a few days. Rheumatism is another result of improper treatment of this condition, producing not only excruciating pain, but it permanently warps and twists one or more of the joints in the body, producing for the deformities, frequently depriving the individual of the ability to earn a living, or himself, leaving him helpless and tortured cripple for life. Another deplorable result of this disease when improperly treated is swollen glands, that are not only painful, but will finally destroy the man sexually, and in many cases, physically. When this disease, through neglect or improper treatment, by its extension has caused a cystitis, invasion of the bladder, thence by its extension up the ureters to the kidneys, it produces results that are indeed lamentable. Some men, through ignorance of the consequences which are sure to follow neglect or improper treatment, consider the trifling ailment and refuse to seek relief for the cost of a bottle of medicine, and by this procedure allow the disease to make such serious inroads upon the sexual and nervous system that it incapacitates them for the physical, mental and sexual duties of life, and the patient pays dearly for his economy, or the selection of incompetent attendance.
