GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Excitement Still Reigns and Prices Continue to Soar.

SHORTS ANXIOUS BUYERS ON SCANT SALES

Trading Generally is Dull and Dealers Are Inclined to Wait for the Return of Normal Conditions.

OMAHA, July 14, 1904.

OMAHA. July 14, 1904.

Today was another wild and excited one in grain and prices bounded still nearer to the dollar mark. Quotations opened way above yesterday's close and were rapidly marked higher.

On continued unfavorable weather in the wheat beit, where harvesting is in progress the market opened from 1 cent to 1½ cents higher this morning. Shorts were anxious buyers and the holders were not inclined to let go of much of their stuffs. The market continued higher for some time, but later in the session liquidation by early buyers caused a reaction of about 1 cent.

The corn market opened strong and higher in sympathy with the leading grain and on unfavorable reports which continued to come in from the corn belt. Shorts scrambled to cover, causing the grain to sell at about ½ cents above the close yesterday. When the rest of the market reacted later in the session corn sympathized and prices dropped away to about yesterday's closing figures.

After a time values in all lines strengthened somewhat and the general tone of the market was strong.

Locally trading was dull and there was nothing doing in either the cash market or futures. Omaha dealers are inclined to defer operations until the market hits a more natural gait. Rain and fair weather by turns have practically cut off receipts and there is no grain to be had, although the demand is good. With ten days of fair weather before the end of the month some July wheat should be delivered on time, although it is generally conceded that there will be no general movement until along in August.

will be no general movement until along in August.

W. H. Ferguson of Lincoln, operating ninety elevators, has come to the relief of some of the bears with highly favorable news concerning Nebraska. He declares that a general investigation in this state indicates a yield as large as last year. Superior, Neb., expects as much grain as was harvested a year ago and Crete an even larger crop. Hastings, he reports, is up to the average for the entire vicinity, with the outlook much better for a larger crop than has been gathered there either last year or in 1902.

CATTLE—About 200 head arrived, six cars of these coming from the Utah range. The few steers offered sold at satisfactory prices to the packers. There is no very certain demand, however, and shippers are taking long chances in forwarding stock to market now.

Hogs—Ten cars arrived this morning.

Packers did not put in an appearance, but there was sufficient demand from sh'ppers to clear up all stuff that could be used in that direction. Frices are back to pretty close to where they were before the break, sales to shippers being about libe higher again today. It must be remembered that the trade is purely speculative and the demand, while sufficient to force prices up here and at other markets, is very uncertain, and shippers should govern them—selves accordingly. Packers were entirely out of the deal and packing lots were practically unsaleable.
