HOLDS TURNER FOR MURDER

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict in the Chilson Case.

DECLARE HILL ACCESSORY TO KILLING

Where Turner Was Standing When He Fired, but All Say He Did the Shooting.

At the inquest held yesterday morning the coroner's jury held Robert alias "Link" Turner responsible for the murder of George H. Chilson. Andy Hill, the other negro implicated in the shooting with Turner, was held as an accessory to the crime. The jury consisted of E. B. Gardiner, James licon and P. J. Clatterbuck. While the county attorney's office is in possession of considerable more evidence only the testimony of Conductor L. Buchanan and Motorman Damewood of the car on which the shooting took place, Gordon Sanders and E. P. Woodring, passengers on the car; Thomas B. Richardson, special officer employed at Cutoff and Dr. D. Macrae, sr., who attended Chilson at the Woman's Christian association hospital, was

The testimony of the eye witnesses was substantially the same as has already been published except there is a difference of opinion as to where Turner was standing when he fired the shot which proved fatal. PAST WEEK IN BLUFFS SOCIETY Mr. Woodring of this city, who for a number of years has been employed at Lunkley's undertaking establishment, was most positive that Turner stepped back onto the lower step of the motor car and was within two feet of Chilson when he fired. The other witnesses who were on the car and saw the affray gave it as their opinion that Turner was standing about two feet from the car when he shot Chilson. After the tussle between Chilson and the negroes and before Turner fired the fatal shot, Mr. Woodring handed Turner his hat which he had dropped during the scuffle. Mr. Woodring said he did not hear Hill tell Turner to "plug" Chilson although he saw Hill hand Turner his revolver,

Dr. Macrae, who with Dr. Treynor operated upon Chilson at the hospital, testified as to the nature of the wound. Dr. Macrae's testimony showed that the shot had been fired at close range and corroborated the evidence of Mr. Woodring that Turner stepped back onto the car before he fired the fatal shot. Dr. Macrae testified that not only was Chilson's clothes burned but that there were powder burns even on the inside of the wound in the abdomen. The hemorrhage resulting from the wound Dr. Macrae described as "furious" and that the wound from the first was necessarily fatal. He also testified that the post mortem examination had failed to locate the

Charles F. Chilson of 401 North Fourteenth street, Omaha, a brother of the dead man, was in the city yesterday but no arrangements for the funeral will be made until word is received from Chilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Chilson of Cumberland, Wis., and from his wife, who with

MATTERS IN DISTRICT COURT

Suit to Stop Sale of Liquor at Courtland Beach. County Attorney Killpack brought suit in the district court yesterday in the name of the State of lows against J. A. Griffiths, the Courtland Beach Amusement Company and Guy Ridenour to enjoin them from the sale of liquor at the Courtland Beach resort. It is alleged that the management at Courtland Beach has up to date failed to pay the mulct tax.

A similar suit on similar grounds was brought against Henry Kay and John Nusson, proprietors of a saloon at 219 South

Main street. Judge Wheeler yesterday handed down his decision in the suit of Lemuel Hall against Mrs. Cecilia Hall, dismissing the plaintiff's action. Hall brought suit to have set aside a transfer of property made by his father just before his death to his second wife, the defendant in the action, on the grounds that the deed was secured by unlawful means.

In the suit of Mrs. J. L. Matthis against the Actna Life Insurance company, in which the plaintiff recently secured a verdict for $2,000, Judge Wheeler overruled the motion for a new trial. The motion for a modification of the deeree of divorce in the Doerner case was work to visit the home and inspect the submitted and taken by Judge Wheeler under advisement. Mrs. Doerner asked that instead of her former husband being orchestra. The building has been crected allowed to visit their baby at her home at stated intervals, she be permitted to bring the child to some office or other place where he might visit it. She claimed she was afraid that if Doerner was allowed to visit the child at her home he might do her some personal injury. The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad yesterday paid in to the district court $3.453.25, the amount of the judgment obtaihed against it by William Farrell for the killing of his 8-year-old daughter Almeda at Underwood a few years ago. The judgment was secured January 17, 1903, in the district court and was recently affirmed by the supreme court. The will of the late Henry C. Corey of this city was admitted to probate yesterday by Judge Wheeler, and the widow, Mrs. Anna K. Corey, appointed administra-

One of the most charming and perfectly arranged affairs of the season was the garden party given by Mrs. C. L. Felt and Mrs. George A. Keeline in honor of Mrs. Voswinkle of Seattle. The hostesses were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Harry Keeline, Mrs. Sargent, Mrs. Bebbington and Mrs. Wilcox. Whaley's orchestra, stationed on the lawn, furnished the music for the evening. A large tent was erected on the grounds, the interior of which was transformed into a veritable bower with garden flowers and their accompanying greenery, the columns and braces being entwined with asparagus sprengeri. Here punch was served by Miss Georgine Bebbington and Miss Adah Bargent. In the parlors the decorations were pink—La France roses and ferris banking the mantels and filling the tail crystal vases. The dining room was entirely in red and was unusually beautiful and effective in its decorations. The large sideboard was solidly banked with Meteor roses, with strands of feathery asparagus depending from the chandeller to each of the four corners of the table, which was lighted by sliver candelabra with meteor slik shades. An exquisite lace centerplece was used, on which was placed an immense mound of meteor roses, while edging the table and scattered here and there were rosebuds and fern sprays. Mrs. W. A. Maurer and Miss Walker precided in the dining room the first half of the afternoon, while Mrs. August Bersheim and Mrs. Charles Beno were in charge for the last half. Mrs. Frank Pinsey, Miss Zoe Hill, Miss Genevieve Wickham and Miss Maude Besley assisted in serving the lees and refreshments, which were in keeping with the color ides of the decorations. The Keeline home on East Pierce street is one of the most picturesque places in the city. The long stretch of velvety lawn with its sheltering shade of oak and maple make it an ideal spot for out-of-door entertainment. Mrs. Voswinkle and daughter, Oitve, will spend this we in Ames. He is a modest and unassuming man, deeply in earnest in his belief that the republicans are in duty bound to make changes in the tariff schedules and to bring ERRANT about revision in order to prevent the task being committed to the democrats. Friends of Mr. Howard have sought fo no nomination but unite in support of him in opposition to Cngressman Hull but the democrats today nominated John T. Mulvaney to make the race against Hull. It is now very plain that the democratic state convention next week will be controlled by the old line democrats and that the radicals who turned the party over to Hearst will take a back seat. At the county convention in this city, where the free silverites have had everything their own way for several years, the former followers of Palmer and Buckner turned out and had full control. The delegation to Iowa City will have a majority of these old line democrats who have been acting independently for several years or have been in a minority in their party.
