Courtland Beach this week has an act tnown as "Leaping the Gap," the latest and most hazardous of all. The loop-theloop is a picnic in comparison. The Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey and the Sells-Forepaugh shows have this act as their big card. These circuses, while presenting a big act, are met and passed by Courtland Beach because a single rider does it for them. At Courtland two riders leave the top of the incline together and practically have a race down the narrow path to apparent destruction. Harry and Gertrude Breton do the act side by side. ticularly. Burlington train No. 43 carried The ride is made from the top of a runway ten coaches and four sleepers in the morning, most of the passengers being from sixty-five feet in the air. The runway is 100 feet in length. The incline drops from sixty-five to fifteen feet. The gap over which they leap is forty feet. At Illinois Central took out two special trains to Ascot park, near Council Bluffs, where the point where they leave the runway it turns up like the side of a bowl, which auses them to make a parabola in the air If they are lucky they strike the opposite end of the runway. If they miss it it's time for the undertaker. In riding down the incline, side by side, if either rider were to swere into the other the result would be most disastrous. The act must e seen to be appreciated.
