Big Demand for Grain on This Market—Millers for East Wire in Orders—The Situation—Commercial Gossip.

OMAHA, Aug. 9, 1904. There was enough excitement in the opening of the wheat market in Chicago this morning to make even the bulls nervous at the display of strength and the demand for grain for all future months for immediate delivery.

The receipts of cars lots of grain at all points were heavy, but the estimates for tomorrow were about half of the totals of today, this being especially true at Chicago. This would seem to indicate that elevator men and farmers generally are not so anxious to get their grain to market as they were a few days ago.

The situation in Omaha is promising for the future of this market. The receipts are increasing and elevator men should realize the fact that they cannot send too much grain to market. The price is relatively higher than elsewhere.

Recommutation houses have large outside milling orders and Omaha mills are after wheat. When a heavy wheat crop is shouldered, every effort is made to get high prices and the buyers know that millions of bushels of wheat are being sold on the west coast.

The speculative market became softer after the big rise of the early part of the week. The liquidation prices reacted very close to the final figures of yesterday, where they were with considerable profit.

During the first half hour of the afternoon the market dropped a few points on account of weakness and not only was the entire advance wiped out but the price fell to a point lower than it had reached in the morning.

Under the growing pressure September wheat and December as well. Then in the closing half hour the market recovered and shorts commenced to get in out of possible trouble and their buying with the assistance of a little profit in the market.
