A local contemporary was out with a bulletin last Monday, making a comparison of last Sunday's want ads, which included those in The Bee.

To show how misleading it tried to be it took only five classifications, when The Bee carries thirty. The classifications which it selected as a basis of comparison, were ones which were padded for the occasion. If it wanted to be fair, why not mention, for instance the Real Estate column which showed THE BEE TO HAVE ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN INCHES, against its contemporary's eighty inches.

The Bee leads in paid what ads always. Bee want ada give the best returns. A trial will convince.
