Oity Closes the Fiscal Year with a Balance in Every Fund.

LIBRARY HAS THE LARGEST SURPLUS

First Time in Many Years that No Overlaps Have Existed-Strikers Mayo Drawn Out Little of Their Savings.

City Clerk Gillen has completed a statefinances at the end of the fiscal year July little more than $18,000. 31. This statement shows that for the ilscal year the city received from taxes and other sources $177,376. Of this amount there was spent $156,942, leaving a calance to carry over to the present fiscal year of $20.434. There was money left in every fund. This, of course, was due to the sale of by the city officials. The library fund held the largest balance, $5,852, while the park followed with $3,368. The public light, street low, but there was money left over all around. Naturally the city officials are greatly pleased with the showing made, as it is the first time in over a dozen years

Molding Shipments Down.

. Live stock dealers at the exchange still continue to send out notices to shippers to hold their shipments down and when they do ship to send only the best grades. A live stock dealer said last evening: "Shippers are apparently beginning to heed the constant warnings of commission men and just as long as they hold their shipments down to moderate proportions there is little doubt of the ability of the packers to

Robbed Robert Burns.

Robert Burns was the name given by a risoner arrested Thursday night for intoxication. He spent the night in fall and when released Friday morning discovered that he had been robbed of $15 while in prison. Burns says that he had the money, which was in bills, in a little sack; this was fastened with a string which passed around his neck. When searched he neglected to turn this money over to the jallor and the result was that some prisoner got away with the bills.

Several of the Omaha churches are making a special effort in the direction of good music. This is especially true of the Hanscom Park Methodist Episcopa and the St. Mary's Avenue Congregational. Dr. Newman Hall Burdick, of the Second Presbyterian church, has taken up the matter and expects to have as fine a choir as there is in the city within a very short time. Other pastors admit that music, as an adjunct to a large attendance, is necessary, and are making efforts to improve this branch of the service.
