Ainsise's Make a New Departure by Commencing a Serial in September.

EMELINEATOR'S FASHION INFORMATION

Mories, Poems and Sketches by the Best Authors in Smart Set-Important Scientific Article in September Century.

Ainsien's for September continues the steady progress in quality which is a renarkable feature of this magazine during the current year, A new departure is the beginning of a serial, and the publishers have been fortunate in inaugurating this novelty in having a story by Agnes and Edgerton Castle, which has all of the charmeteristic charm of these delightful writers. It is called "The Heart of Lady Anne." The complete novelette has not, however, been morificed. The one for this month is "Her Brother's Tutor," by Caroline Duer. The magazine also shows its determination to keep abreast of the times by offering to its readers a new story by Margaret utton Brimoe, entitled "Philanderings," the character of which is such as to make it a. feature. Humorous fiction is represented by exceptionally good stories by Joseph C. Lincoln, who contributes "The Boojoo Man," and Holman F. Day, whose story. "For the Hand of the Widow Judon," is a lifelike sketch of the down east Yankee. Other stories equally good are "Letters of an Outsider," by Felicia Goddard; "The Winged Harp," by Kate Maserson; "The Little Hush Rose," by Edith MacVane, a new writer of great promise; "The Duffer," by Frank Saville; "Mrs. Lawrence's New Maid," by Anne O'Hagan, and "The Metamorphosis of Colin," by Rafael Sabatini. The poetry is contributed by Arthur Stringer, Robert Loveman, Arthur Ketchum, John Vance Cheney, Theodore Roberts and W. D. Nesbit. The fourth of the series on social life in American oities is as interesting as its predecessors. It is "The Social Side of Philadelphia."

To those who follow the movements of fashion The Delineator for September is an exceptionally interesting number, containing advance information upon the end-ofthe year styles, and illustrating in colors and in black-and-white some of the latest developments of the season's modes. The diterary section is not less attractive. The Mrst place is given to a timely article on "The Women of Russia," by Wolf von Schierbrand. Rebecca Williams is the subject of an interesting biographical sketch in the "Pioneer Women" stories, and the delightful series of pictures and letters of travel is brought to an end. Dr. Grace Peckham Murray writes on "Bodily Bymmetry," Lille Hamilton French has another of the enjoyable "Joy of Living" papers. and there are well-illustrated short stories by Alden Arthur Knipe, Albert Bigelow Paine and Francis Lynde. For the young folks are stories and pastimes of an entertaining and helpful character, including the continuation of the "Little Garden Calendar" and further adventures of Tommy Postoffice, as well as an instructive paper by Lina Beard on the homes and domestic arts of the Filipinos. The interests of the home are treated thoroughly and practically in the various departments, which are in charge of experts.

September is the season of turning leaves; the brightest will be found in this month's Emartret. It contains 160 pages of delightful stories, poems and sketches by the best authors. An unusually clever novelette, "The Mission of Mr. Eustace Greyne," by Robert Hickens, opens the number. It is a demeanors of an Englishman who, on the world desires to be entertained and needs to be inspired; between the covers of this "magazine of cleverness" both inspiration and entertainment await all readers. The Smart Set offers better and newer literature than any other monthly.

It is announced that the September number of the Century will contain a very Important scientific article from the pen of Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, professor of zoology in Columbia university and curator of paleontology in the American Musoum of Natural History, New York City, being the first of his group of articles on the "Pessil Wonders of the West," which will be in the nature of a revelation to the scientific world concerning recent discoveries and advances in our knowledge of suit for $7.50 as nearby stores charge $12.50 the angient history of America, based on for. the explorations and rich finds of the Amerscan Museum in the far west. The September number will describe the circum stances of discovery of the "Bone Cabin Quarry" in Wyoming and results of six years' excavation at that point.

"The Adventurer in Spain," by S. R. Crockett (Frederick A. Stokes company), is a romance of Spain of today, with some ditical satire which is not always obvious. There figure in the pages a smuggler, women without stint and the hero who almost always does the right thing.

"A Texas Matchmaker," by Andy Adams, a romance of Texas life, full of interesting adventure, with good descriptions of the country and the habits and customs of the people. Published by Houghton, Millin &

"Heseklah's Kortship," by Heseklah Jones', wife, Frank A. Van Denburg. A well told tale of how Mrs. Herekiah labored to write a book for the city man that would pay off the morigage. The writing was all done without Hezekiah's Atnowledge. The story and the trials and Interruptions of the author and how she finally opercame it all makes an interesting tale. Published by Richard G. Badger.

"The Castaway." A story of three great men ruined in one year-a king, a cad and a castaway, by Hallie Ermine Rives. Illustrated in color by Howard Chandler Christy. Published by Bobbs-Merrill com-
