

SPORTING GOSSIP OF THE WEEK

Couldn't quite do it.

It looked for a moment like Omaha was coming home in second place, but the batting streak didn't hold out. Still, we got four games out of the nine played in Colorado...

was the most successful of the season. First and foremost, the attendance at both Colorado Springs and Denver was of the paying order.

In order to set at rest the dispute that has arisen over the standing of the teams during the latter week, The Bee presents here the detailed record of the games for the season, including everything played up to Friday, August 25, as decided by the umpire or by the score.

Table with columns for TEAM, W, L, T, P, and a list of teams including Colorado Springs, Denver, Des Moines, Omaha, St. Joseph, and St. Louis.

Just to show how potent the home grounds have been in the work of the several teams during the present season, the following statistics, showing the number of games won and lost at home and abroad during the months, up to and including the games of Thursday, August 25, will be of interest:

Failure to hit is solely responsible for the loss of games in Colorado. Harry Maupin, who has had the Indian sign on his bat, has been the only one to get on at Colorado Springs.

But few players journeyed forth from the club houses with golf bag and caddie for the links last week, the tennis tournament and the automobile races being the causes of the falling off.

In many ways the last trip to Colorado was the most successful of the season. First and foremost, the attendance at both Colorado Springs and Denver was of the paying order.

are taking more and more of an interest in golf, but no one has been able to break the record of Miss Frederick, who week before last took the course in 104.

Fuerty, W. C. Russell's mare, received hearty applause at last week's driving match on the Sprague street tracks for the plucky run she made after Michaelangelo in the third heat of the class A pacing.

A number of Omaha horsemen left Omaha for Denver on Saturday mainly for the purpose of getting Jim Ferry here for an exhibition, but incidentally to see how they do things at the Denver matinee races.

Now that the great event is over and the cup gone to the one that deserved it, it would be well for Omaha players to look over what has been done and to see if they cannot pick up any new wrinkles for future use.

One thing noticeable in this tournament was that the visitors played a much faster and snappier game than did the local players. Fletcher never gave up a ball until he had lost the point, and when he went after one he went after it with every ounce of move that he had in him.

And telling all that he was from Cork. And when that ambidextrous fellow saw himself portrayed thus his grin grew even more angelic, but he was not quite content, happy, for he was of the courts and was minus the tennis balls in each pocket.

Many are the eccentricities of a tennis player when it comes to a game, and many were the eccentricities shown during the last week. Blatherwick in particular was never happy unless he had a tennis ball sticking out of each trouser pocket.

But few players journeyed forth from the club houses with golf bag and caddie for the links last week, the tennis tournament and the automobile races being the causes of the falling off.

We send our buyers there every year to get the best that are grown, and we pay twice what common hops cost. A partner in our business buys our barley, and selects the best from all. of restoring his strength after a strenuous set. Others go in for ginger ale a la Field club, but Fletcher has only to brush his hair. Apart from this he is without harm. Sanderson was perhaps the only man that did not have a trade mark; he went about the game as if the whole thing did not interest him, but the opponent who was told that way of thinking was very badly fooled.
