SOME TALK OF PARKING PART OF STREET

Portion of Merchants in Vicinity Favor the Plan, While Others Are Decidedly Opposed to the Mensure.

"The statement that the board of park commissioners has discovered that a portion of Broadway, at the intersection of system is nothing but a pipe dream, pure Z. B. Thompson; teacher of shoemaking, Fourth street, belongs to the city's park and simple, and is without the slightest foundation." was the statement of A. C. Graham, chairman of the park board, yestorday.

Reed. Since the removal of the electric light tower at the Fourth street Intersection of Broadway and the widening of the sidewalk on the north side of Broadway between Main and Bryant streets there has been more or less talk of making a small park in the center of Broadway opposite Fourth street. The street at this point is Ezra S. Herne, Reed City, Mich. 125 feet wide, and some of the business men suggested that the appearance of the Laura street might be greatly improved by a Phillips, Delavan, Wis.; F. C. Holloway, small park in the center where the light tower formerly stood. This suggestion followed the naming of the north side of Broadway between Main and Bryan streets "The Pike," and the public opening of the same about two weeks ago.

City Engineer Etnyre was asked to prepare plans for a park at this intersection, it being suggested that the street was unnecessarily wide at this point, and he has done so. The plans provide for a grass plot about 100 feet in length and 50 feet possibly more in width. The plans provide for the street car tracks to run directly through the park, with sod between the ralls. This idea of having grass between the street car track is said to emanate from New Orleans, where, on St. Charles avenue, the space between the car tracks is sodded.

The connection of the park board with the scheme to lay out a small park on Broadway was explained by President Gra- every duty that a janitor is expected to ham yesterday. He said that a few days perform and the manner in which it shall after the opening of "The Pike" Victor be performed.

The statement has been made and published in one of the newspapers that the city has no claim upon any more than 90 feet in width of the street. This, the members of the park board and city council say, is absolutely untrue. Broadway has been a public thoroughfare for more than half a century, and the width of the street at the Fourth street intersection has nlways been the same.

While undoubtedly several business men on Broadway favor the laying out of a small park at this point, the proposition will meet with considerable opposition, and may possibly result in the courts being appealed to to enjoin the use of the street for such a purpose.
