Another Grist of Grop Damage Reports Features of the Trading and Closing Causes Stronger Markets.

CORN CROP NOW SAID TO BE THREATENED

Prices for Both Wheat, and Corn Are Higher-Oats Rather Easier-Gossip from the Stock Pits.

The general tone of the grai numarkets of the world was materially firmer than on yesterday. There was another grist of damage reports, coming this time on corn as well as on wheat. Good men who would scarcely be counted on to make statements that were false for the purpose of bolstering up prices were arrayed on the side of the short crop theorists. The weather has been such that corn has been kept from hardening, and the are taken by many as indicative of possible damage by even moderately early frosts. An epitome of crop gossip of an interesting character is published below. The trend of news in this direction, coupled with the good demand for wheat, caused some uneasiness on the part of the bears, and they were in the market to cover contracts. Sentiment was a complete right about face as compared with the opening on Tuesday, but was in continuation of the display of firmness toward the close on that day. There were quite liberal deliveries of September wheat in the speculative markets, and this had some effect in checking the demand, but for all of this there were advances in the September delivery of a point, nearly the same amount in December and '4' gain in May. In Chicago the former opened at $1.03%, where it closed yeaterday, turned immediately and advanced a point, to $1.04%; December from $1.06% to $1.07%, and May $1.08% to $1.08%.

While there is considerable talk of soft corn in some of the states, the chances for Nebraska, see considered excellent, and if there is damage in other states it will help Nebraska, providing Jack Frost holds off a little longer. September corn advanced to $44c. December to $35c and May to $50%c, gains of '4c to '8c, with nearby deliveries the stronger.

Cats were lower and about 1/2c off.

In the eastern division of Kansus corn has made a decided improvement, but warmer nights are needed to mature it. The early corn has matured and is out of frost's way. It is being cut and shocked as far north as the Kaw river. Late corn is doing well, but needs warm nights. In the middle division early corn is generally safe from frost and is a good crop. The late corn is in good condition, but would probably be damaged by an early frost.

NEW YORK STOCKS AND BONDS Volume of Dealings Large, but Prices Are

Below Those of Tuesday. PACIFICS OPEN HIGHER, BUT SELL OFF Set Off for the Heaviness of Railroad List-Close is.

Irregular.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The advocates of higher prices for stocks met less encouragement from the action of touay's market than from that of yesterusy. There was as little news to account for the reaction as there was to explain the advance. The volume of dealings was well up to that of yesterday, but the buying of stocks from outside sources and through commission houses or selling was as little in evidence as at any time during the corrent period of activity. The concussion was general that the dealings are gene ally due to the operations of parties of speculators or of large individual traders who make an avocation of such operations. It was quite evident that many of such operators, who were conspicuous buyers in yesterday's market, were free reliers to take promistoday. This is the sufficient explanation of the actual movement of prices and in order to adequately judge the value of the price movement as an index of conditions and values it would be necessary to know the motives and information which prompted the operations. There were no public gevelopments to throw light on this subject.

In view of yesterday's wide advance in subject.

In view of yesterday's wide advance in the Pacifics and the subsequent public announcement of hopeful views of prospects for values from an official quarter connected with the system thus affected, some of the speculative followers of the movement evidently feared that the effective buying that they had been following might be considered to be now concluded. The pressure to take profits in the Pacifics in consequence was quite urgent. The openbe considered to be now concluded. The pressure to take profits in the Pacifics in consequence was quite urgent. The opening prices for them showed a momentary effect from the interview referred to, but these were the highest prices of the day. In the railroad list efforts to contest the reaction were rather ineffectual.

In a section of the industrial list, however, a considerable degree of strength developed and served as a partial offset to the heaviness in the railroad list. The fron and steel stocks were most conspicuous in this movement, but other metal stocks and also the railroad equipment companies, which make a large use of iron materials, were affected by sympathy. Conflicting influences kept prices moving irregularly all day. The reaction was in force at the closing, which was heavy.

An appreciably firmer tone was evident both for call and time loans as a consequence of the decline in the banking surplus and the increasing demand for money in connection with the stock market speculation. Some attention also was paid to reports of corn crop damage from the southwest. Neither of these factors seemed to be sufficiently pronounced to have much influence on the movement of prices. The day's reports of railroad gross earnings for the fourth week in August were uniformly encouraging.

The bond market continued broad and encouraging.

WHEAT—Receipts and the demand was uneven the market was not active, but had the appearance of being slow. The prices paid were instances and there was no mistaking the fact though, they paid steady prices.

There were hardly more than fifteen cars of grass beef steers or sale, and most of those were on the Texas creder and of only fair quality. The lack of good cattle naturally made buyers rather indifferent, so that hurself was not active, but had the papearance of being slow. The prices paid were all the better grades. In some cases, the market was not active, but had the market was not active and sale was not active and sale and there was no mistaking the fact to b
