NO SURPRISE OVER JEFFREY

Appointment of Gould Man on Western Pacific Discloses Secret.

SHOWS IDENTITY OF LATTER'S BACKERS

Confirms Previous Rumors that Gould Was Promoting Road, Despite His Statements to the Contrary.

The announcement that E. T. Jeffrey has been made director of the Western Pacific occasions no great surprise in local railroad circules. Engineers have nearly completed the survey of the new line be tween San Francisco and Salt Lake and it is believed before the end of another year construction work on the road will be well under way. For a long time mystery surrounded the identity of the promoters. It was suspected Gould interests were behind the enterprise but such rumors were persistently denied. George Gould himself denied he was interested in the road upon the occasion of one of his last visits to the west. He even affected surprise that such a line had been projected and he pretended it was a matter of news to him.

In the meantime, however, valuable harbor rights were bought at San Francisco, where it was announced to be the intention of expending $2,500,000 for the purpose of building docks and reclaiming submerged water fronts. Property of little apparent value was quietly bought up in Oakland and rights of way obtained. Suddenly it was discovered the road had a clear title to right of way through Oakland.

Gould Needed an Outlet. was well understood Gould needed an outlet to the Pacific, and that it had been his ambition for years. At one time it was believed Gould interests eventually would secure control of the new San Pedro road, had been tied up at Calientes as the resulf of litigation with the Harriman interests over the question of right of way, When Senator Clark closed negotiations for the purchase of the southern extension of the Oregon Short Line it was generally understood an interest would be retained in the road by the Harriman syndicate. This fact discouraged other lines to hope for an outlet to the coast independent of the Harriman interests.

Subsequent events indicate Gould and his advisers had foreseen the outcome of the Harriman-Clark deal, for they began the purchase of the harbor and right of way

"The appointment of Jeffrey, Gould's right hand man, to the position of director of the road no longer leaves any reasonable doubt as to the promoters of the new coast line which will connect the Atlantic and the Pacific with a chain of Gould lines and doubtless it means also the establishment of a system of ocean steamers to compete with the Harriman interests for the constantly increasing Oriental trade," said a local railroad man.

Motive Power for the West. A battery of locomotives of the standard make, which are standing in the Union Pacific railroad yards, have attracted some curiosity. The engines were formerly used in the passenger service of the Union Pacific, but they are too light to haul the heavy trains of the present day and they have been superseded by a heavier class of locomotives. The light engines have been thoroughly overhauled and have been disposed of to other lines of the Harriman

Four of the locomotives will be sent to the Oregon Railway & Navigation company, while thirty-four of the engines will turned over to the Southern Pacific to be used on branch lines, where they can be pressed into service for lighter work. The engines are part of a let which were sold to the Hicks Locomotive works of Chicago just before the Union Pacific strike. When the strike broke out the company found use for them and did not turn them

It has been rumored that the Santa Fe has been negotiating for some of the engines, but this is strongly denied. It is declared that the Santa Fe has not been obliged to turn to outside lines for help since the emergency created by the strike. The locomotives will be sent to their destination in lots of two, three and four until they have all been delivered to the EAST WATCHING THE CROPS Alfred Darlow Brings Word of Great Interest in Western Conditions.

Alfred Darlow, advertising agent for the Union Pacific, has returned from a trip to the east. Mr. Darlow says that the paramount subject in the east is the prospect of the phenomenal crops in the west. The greatest importance is attached to the harvest, which is regarded as the key-note of the commercial operations. Mr. Darlow

"The east is banking on the crops in the west. The utmost confidence is placed in the outcome this year, for it is believed that with a good harvest another year of prosperity is assured in all channels. The interest shown in the agricultural affairs

Said one of the executive committee in cussing the club and its commissioner:

"If Mr.Mc Vann had done nothing else but onduct a vigorous and practically a winning fight against the railroads on the matter of the increased tariff on coal, he would have earned his salary for many years. Yes, I consider the coal fight practically won, for not only have we received a concession from the August rates and much coal that will come in the near future will be on the low rate of 90 cents a ton.

But Mr. McVann has vigorously contested

other fights for the welfare of this city commercially and has attended to the
