THREE JUDGES SIT ON CASE

Federal Circuit Court of Appeals En Banc First Time in Omaha.

HEARING CASE OF ONE SVEND OLESON

Sanborn of St. Paul, Hook of Kansas and Munger of Omaha Compose This Dignified and Solemn Body.

Amid surroundings of ominous solemnity Svend Oleason finally has come into fame. The public generally may not know who Svend Oleason is, but posterity will know when it scans the pages of history, which shall record that on the 16th day of September in the year of 1904, A. D., for the first time, the United States circuit court of appeals assembled en banc in the city of Omaha, and all for the purpose of deciding whether Svend Oleason, a plain man of northern Minnesota, should be confirmed guilty of fraudulently trying to secure the United States government out of $300 acres of choice land located in the North Star state, of which the federal district court in Minnesota pronounced him guilty. The evidence was reviewed and the case taken under advisement of the judges.

Arrayed in their long, flowing and somber robes of official position, Judges W. H. Sanborn of St. Paul, W. C. Hook of Topeka and W. H. Munger of Omaha, federal judges comprising the court of appeals, with measured tread and solemn mien mounted the rostrum and almost hid themselves behind the high desk in the United States federal court room yesterday. A pall of painful silence fell upon every human being there to witness this grave and dignified assemblage. Not a mortal stirred—a pin could have been dropped and heard throughout the spacious hall of justice—until slowly and deliberately another man approached. It was the court clerk, Major Isaac L. Mahan of St. Paul. Only the soot of his footsteps was still audible.

Freelights the Assemblage. A slight bow of recognition from the assembled judges and the court clerk raised his right hand, looking gravely over the room; then, in a firm but solemn voice, proclaimed:

The honorable judges of the United States court of appeals for the Eighth judicial circuit!

The three judges then took their stations on the bench, Judge Sanborn in the center, with Judge Munger at his left and Judge Hook at the right. While the judges remained standing the clerk again called out in slow and measured tones:

Hear ye! Hear ye! The United States circuit court of appeals for the Eighth judicial circuit is now open. All persons having business before the honorable court may now draw near and they may draw. God save the United States and this honorable court.

Major Mahan then rapped his gavel and the court, attorneys and all were seated. Off in one corner of the court room sat a plain-looking man. He was simple in manner and garb and bore no sign or indication to suggest the necessity of such grave deliberations. This was Svend Oleason. It was he for whom this unprecedented event had transpired. He bore his fame with becoming simplicity.

There were four other parties to the suit and all were granted separate trials. Oleason appealed from the judgment of the lower court to the court of appeals. It was at first intended to have the appeal heard at Denver, but this was found impracticable for the reason that one of the judges of the circuit court, Judge Lochren, was the trial judge before whom the case was first tried; hence the hearing was transferred to this city.

The attorneys for the plaintiffs in error are C. D. Severance, law partner of the late Senator Cushman K. Davis of St. Paul, and A. L. Washburn of Duluth, and the interests of the United States are looked after by United States District Attorney C. C. Haupt and Assistant District Attorney J. M. Dickey of St. Paul.

That's the whole thing in a nutshell—SAVE. It's not what you MAKE, but what you SAVE that makes you rich. Don't get away from THAT! WHEN you save you EARN to SAVE NOW. NO LEGISLATIVE SLATE YET

Fontanelles Suggest Many Names, but Cannot Reach Decision.

EVERYTHING, AS USUAL, DONE IN SECRET

Favored Aspirants to Be Named Later, When Platform and Declaration of Principles Will Be Decided On.

In one of its secret conclaves Thursday night the Fontanelle club tried to decide on a legislative slate, but aside from suggesting the names of numerous politicians and others for the places they did nothing—that is, arrived at no definite conclusion. Some of those mentioned naturally outrank some others in point of favoritism, so it was handed out by one or two members, and therefore it was not possible for the club to frame its slate. This is left for a future meeting.

The candidates for state senator, for which there are three nominations suggested, were: Harry Fisher of the Ninth ward, secretary of the Retail Grocers' association; Charles L. Saunders of the Fifth ward, who desires a second term; John P. Cather, a lawyer of the first ward; J. A. Hake, a live stock commission man with the offices in South Omaha, but living in the Seventh ward; James H. Van Dusen, a former state senator of South Omaha; Henry C. Murphy of South Omaha, who is nominally filling an unexpired term as representative, and L. C. Gibson of South Omaha.

Many names were mentioned for the lower house by members of the club, presumably with the sanction of their owners. The list is: First ward, James W. Carr, lawyer and former aspirant for district judge; Second ward, J. C. Lewis, proprietor of a tailor shop, and W. D. Gilbert, at present a state representative; Third ward, none; Fourth ward, H. G. Meyer, a young lawyer, and N. P. Dodge, Jr., a real estate man; Fifth ward, C. B. Fields, editor of the Liquor Dealers' Protector; F. H. Woodland, a lawyer, and Harry Straight, a street car man; Sixth ward, Robert Houghton, W. B. TenEyck, present representative; John N. Westberg, former city controller; James N. Drake, J. W. Long, colporteur who used to be Dave Mercer's handy man; A. H. Willis and H. V. Plummer, both colored; Seventh ward, none; Eighth ward, C. J. Anderson, a business man; Ninth ward, Harry Cowdrey, paving promoter, and H. P. Peterson; South Omaha, F. M. Bailing, and county clerk Peter Mangold, a member of the last legislature. The list was too big for the club to thresh out completely at one session, so the selection of a ticket went over until Saturday night. It is said to be probable a platform of principles will be adopted and the favored aspirants required to sign it.

President G. W. Wattles of the Nebraska Republican State league has issued a call for a general meeting in Omaha September 20 at 7:30 o'clock in Creighton hall for the two-fold purpose of electing delegates to the convention of the National Republican league at Indianapolis October 5 and 6, and holding a general rally of club members throughout the state.

Congressman E. J. Burkett and John L. Kennedy, nominee for congress from the second district, have been recognized as speakers and the state committee is trying to get some republican of national prominence from outside the state for the program. It is the intention to have something of a demonstration with processions and music.

President Wattles has sent out letters to republican leaders in every city and town of any considerable size in the state, enclosing copies of a model constitution, and requesting local organization before the date of the Omaha meeting September 30. He expects every community in Nebraska will have more or less of a republican club by that time, as the efforts being made are vigorous.

Each club is entitled to two delegates—large and one for every ten members in the Omaha convention. In the national convention Nebraska has six delegates—large and four from each congressional district.

Approximately six tons of campaign literature awaits distribution at republican state headquarters at the Murray hotel, and G. W. Bemis, chairman of the press bureau, is preparing a book of which 50,000 copies will be printed for the first edition. The six tons of printed matter, more or less, is contained in about ninety mail sacks received this morning. Each sack is filled to bursting with "parts of the congressional record," namely, speeches for the good of the republican cause. Just those speeches are evidence of how many of each even State Chairman Burgess does not know. He was more interested this afternoon in getting the small mountain of stuff off the sidewalk, where it threatened to block traffic, than in assorting the intellectual contents within. As soon as the speeches can be hoisted out of the cellar, where they were put, they will be sent to the voters throughout the state.

The book that Mr. Bemis is writing is to be a republican campaign text book for Nebraska and no other part of the republic. It will have 100 pages and will be full of the brim with biographies, statistics and comparisons.

The author says it will be a "general exposition of the benefits of republican administration of public affairs in Nebraska." The records of public officers will be given and a striking comparison made of the last two republican administrations opposed to those preceding under fusion management. An analysis of the revenue law will be presented and the mistakes of some county taxing boards, causing higher rates, set forth. Appropriations of the last legislature are explained at length and careful attention to railroad assessments, past and present, is accorded. Every issue thrown down by the democrats is discussed. The book will be out in two weeks, and part of it has already gone to the printer.

Dr. A. H. Hipple, democratic candidate for water commissioner, is the latest candidate to file his expense list with the county clerk. His figures are $7.

A meeting of colored voters, held in the Sixth ward on Thursday evening, finally resulted in the adoption of a motion endorsing the aspirations of A. H. Willis for the legislature. The names of H. V. Plummer and J. W. Long were also before the meeting.

The Yellowstone Gun club, at a recent session, adopted a resolution endorsing the candidacy of J. C. Lewis for the legislature.

Although the time limit for filing as candidates before the republican primaries does not expire until September 25, a candidate has made formal application. To date the filers are: For state senator; Henry C. Murphy, South Omaha; John T. Cather, Sixth ward. For state representative; F. W. Keetter, First ward; W. B. Ten Eyck, James N. Drake, Sixth ward; C. E. Fields, Fifth ward; Ed Copeland, C. O. Omaha. For commissioner from the First district; Hans Beck, First ward; Fred Behm, Second ward; Fred Bruning, Second ward; Tom McVittie, Third ward. For commissioner from the South Omaha

GOOD ENTRIES FOR THE SHOW

Results of Northern Trip Gratifying to Promoters of Omaha Horse Exhibition.

President Peck, Secretary Cowgill and Manager Gray, of the Omaha Horse Show association have returned from St. Paul where they spent several days as a successful horse show. They are elated over the fine list of entries secured. They were able to meet with leaders in horseflesh from all over the west and nearly everyone approached promised to have his string here the week of September 25. In addition to the promises, many of the exhibitors were signed up, making their appearance positive. As to attendance both St. Paul and Minneapolis assured the Omahans that the Gate City would not be overlooked in its first effort at the horse show game. The big stables booked included those of Pepper & Co., of Boston; Crowe and Murray, of Toronto; W. G. Garding, of St. Paul; A. Ashbrook, of Kansas City; W. A. Rufo, of Kansas City; M. H. STRIKE BREAKERS TAKEN IN Negroes Brought In by Packers in Feast Bad Lands and Make Work for Police.

John Fairchild, C. Conrad, Albert Johnson, Sam Foster, Peter Clanton, Edward Twichler and Joseph Anderson, arrested Tuesday night on the streets and charged at the city jail with vagrancy, have been sentenced thirty days each by the acting police judge. Twelve more vagrants were rounded up by the detective force and they will be arraigned in police court Saturday morning. Most of these are colored strike breakers from South Omaha, who have been sent out to work on the packing plants and come to Omaha and hang around the low places of the Third ward. All of the twelve arrested were found asleep with their clothes on.

H. C. Carter, a colored strike breaker of the Cudahy plant, has been arrested by Deputy Sheriff W. Curtis and booked at the city jail on the charge of carrying concealed weapons and disturbing the peace. He was fined $25 and costs by Acting Police Judge Bachman. It is said Carter was making the walk in ring in the east end of town by holding his revolver at arm's length and chasing around like a howling dervish.

MORAL, NEVER BET ON DENVER

Lesson Learned by Loyal but Misguided Fan Who Backs Grizzlies Against Omaha.

Loyalty to his favorite base ball team caused the downfall of J. W. Wilson, who is booked at the city jail on the charge of being drunk. At least such is his story. Wilson says he formerly lived in Denver and would stake his last penny on Hallman's players, so when he came to Omaha a few days ago and learned that the Omaha and Denver teams were playing at Union Street park there was nothing left for him to do, so he said, but get out and bet for his favorites. He got on both games Wednesday afternoon, and Thursday afternoon did likewise, losing on the four games. This proved too much for Wilson. To see Pitchers Hostetter, K. W. Benefield and Cable lose was the limit for him. He went out and drowned his troubles, barely reaching shore himself.

MERE MATTER OF LOCATION

Dispute Over Dumping Garbage Hangs on Which State Was Polluted, Iowa or Nebraska.

L. L. Green, 2408 North Thirteenth street, has been fined $5 and costs in police court, where he was arraigned on the charge of dumping garbage in the city limits. The charge was Green unloaded garbage in the river at the foot of Ohio street. Green maintained the spot in question was in Iowa, but Health Officer Woodbridge introduced evidence a map drawn by the city engineer, showing the place to be in the limits of Omaha.
