CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE

Prospects for Future Business Considered Better Than for Many Months.

MARKETS IN GOOD HEALTHY CONDITION

Dry Goods Men Much Interested in Cotton Crop, but Most of them Figuring on Staple Selling for Ten Cents or Better.

Prospects for future business are now considered better than they have been at any time in many months. A critical stage in the maturing of the corn crop was passed in safely last week and the warm weather of the last few days has helped materially in putting the crop out of danger from frost. The general impression seems to be that the record in Nebraska is particularly well and a crop breaker and a result merchants are buying with more confidence in anticipation of an enormous fall and winter business. Traveling salesmen have noticed the improvement in the last few days and house salesmen for local jobbers speak of the greater confidence in future business exhibited by merchants who have been in the city. So far as can be told now everything points to a better trade during the next several months than was experienced a year ago and if that is the case in the face of a Presidential campaign the effect of good crops upon business will be more apparent than ever. The markets on practically all staple lines are also in a good healthy condition with no prospects at the present time of any very radical changes for some time to come. There is, of course, a general tendency to be cautious until after election, but at the same time there is a good healthy undertone to the trade which is attracting much comment. Collections are fairly satisfactory and now that live stock is moving more freely it is thought there will be no further complaints on that score. Both Sugar and Coffee Very Firm. Wholesale reports the demand for their line of goods as being very brisk for the season. Many of the buyers are fully as good as a year ago and up to their expectations. Since last report there has been no change in the sugar market either on raws or refined. The demand, however, still continues exceptionally heavy, and as a result retailers are getting farther and farther behind with their orders. Many of the jobbers are still looking for a scarcity in developing before the end of the month. The coffee market has also been very active for the last two or three days and prices have steadily advanced with a net gain for the week on greens of 4 to 5 cents. Indian nations are considered favorable for still further advances. Cheese is quoted a full 1/2 cent higher than it was a week ago and the demand is still exceptionally large. This is occasioned, no doubt, by the fact that prices now in force are lower than they were for the corresponding period of last year. Higher prices, though, are being freely predicted for the future. So far as quotations are concerned, there has not been much change in canned goods during the week under review. According to reports received from central and northern Iowa the corn crop was somewhat damaged, but to what extent that is the case is not definitely known. It is thought, however, that the injury is confined to limited areas. Tomatoes, both spots and futures, are holding their own, but reports of the unsatisfactory condition of the crop are received from the east, where it is claimed much damage has been done by blight. Various estimates put the pack this year in Maryland at from 80 to 90 per cent of last year's pack. Higher prices are quoted on Sockeye salmon and also on Chinooks, because of light crops. In the line of dried fruits the situation has changed somewhat on two items, peaches being marked up on all grades from 40 to 50. It is also reported that the packers have gone into an agreement on seeded raisins and advanced prices on fancy one-pound packages. The price still remains low on seeded raisins of the 1000 crop. The market on tobacco may be considered good and firm, but local jobbers say they are not figuring on any material change in the immediate future. There is practically a rash even greater than they thought that there will be any material changes in ruling quotations. Cotton Goods Good Property. Dry goods men are all watching the cotton crop with much interest. The majority of them, however, admit that they scarcely know what to expect, as the crop situation is still very uncertain. A crop of about 12,000,000 bales is being estimated by many, while others think it will fall short of that. Much, of course, depends upon the weather. From this time on, as the yield will be increased or decreased as conditions are favorable or unfavorable. Those in a position to know say, however, that in no event do they look for the price to go below 15c, while it may be considerably above that. Even with a 12,000,000 bale crop they figure that there will be no more than enough to supply the requirements of the trade. They point to the fact that practically no old cotton has been carried over, and also to the small amount of staple goods in the hands of both manufacturers and wholesalers. Jobbers say that they find it impossible to get prompt deliveries of many of the most ordinary staples, which manufacturers generally have on hand in large quantities, and they explain this by saying that manufacturers have been making goods only as fast as they had a market for them, so as to take no chances on either the crop or the election. As soon as these questions are out of the way the general opinion is that there will be the largest demand for cotton that has been seen in some time past. So far as the local trade situation is concerned jobbers have no complaints whatever to offer. More buyers were in the city last week than expected and traveling salesmen also met with better success than usual. The favorable prospects for a good crop are making them very quiet. Jobbers, though, are busy shipping out their advance orders, of which they have a large assortment. They expect very little business until after cold weather sets in, but they sold so much stock last spring before the advance went into effect that they are content to wait for some time without much business. RELIGIOUS. The Rt. Rev. Dr. Flood, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Trinidad, is in the United States for quite a prolonged stay. Miss Gertrude von Petzold, M. A., who has accepted charge of a Unitarian church in Leicester, is said to be the first woman appointed to a pastorate in England. The Rev. Reginald Bridge and the Rev. James Grace, Australian priests from Sydney, are making a tour of the United States, studying the educational and religious conditions here. Portland, Ore., has a Japanese Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. S. Sugihara is the pastor. His society, who are mostly domestic servants of day laborers, have made great sacrifices to raise $2,000 toward a church building. John O'Donnell of Salt Lake City has put thirty-one years of labor into a piece of wood-carving, which represents the life of Christ from his birth to the ascension. Mr. O'Donnell has donated this unique work to be sold for the benefit of the Salt Lake cathedral. C. V. Hibbard, formerly secretary of the College Young Men's Christian association of Chicago, has gone to Manchuria, where he will take charge of the Young Men's Christian association work in the Japanese empire. He will make his headquarters at Antung. The chapel of Columbia university, which is to be erected on Amsterdam avenue, New York, is to be a fireproof edifice, shaped like a Greek cross in its ground plan. It will be 134 feet high, crowned with a large dome surmounted by a cupola. The cost of the building is estimated at $250,000. A pastoral from the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cincinnati was read from the pulpits of that diocese on August 14, ordering parents who respected his authority to send their children only to technical schools, where such existed, "under pain of mortal sin." Confessors are forbidden to give absolution to parents who disobey this mandate. OUT OF THE ORDINARY. The river Rhine generally carries a larger volume of traffic than any single railway in the world. In 1904 American immigration into Canada amounted to only forty-four people and in 1903 it amounted to 436 people. An expedition sent by Amherst college to the fossil-bearing districts of Wyoming has brought back specimens of monkeys, squirrels and pigs said to be fully 4,000,000 years old. A French authority had two thermometer-ones of ordinary glass, the other called black-placed in the sun. The white glass the mercury rose to 14, under the black paint it went up to 127 in the same position. The inference is that people who wear black coats are warmer in the sunshine than those who dress in white. Parker & Davis is the name of a firm which has a general store down in Osark county, Missouri. Quiser as it may seem both of the members of the firm are republicans. Of the large cities New York covers 209,218 acres, Chicago 122,000 acres, Philadelphia 82,822 acres, Boston 72,251 acres, St. Louis 32,277 acres, Cleveland 22,422 acres and Cincinnati 20,880. The oldest love letter in the world is in the British museum. It is the proposal of marriage for the hand of an Egyptian princess and it was made 3,500 years ago. It is in the form of an inscribed brick. The railway traveler in Japan buys a first, second or third class ticket; or, if he wishes to go cheaper still, he can get a ticket entitling him simply to stand on the platform. Many of the cars can be entered either from the side or the end. A hen has scratched up Mrs. William Meadon Smathers' $2,000 diamond after it had lain in the earth for ten years. The stone was lost by Mrs. Smathers while visiting relatives in Great Barrington. Mrs. Smathers was then Miss Rebecca Loring Fenouff and she was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Wright Crippen. A diligent search for the diamond was kept up for months afterward. Louis Mollenen, known in Houghton, Mich., as the Quincey Hill giant, who has steadfastly refused offers from circus proprietors and others to place himself on public exhibition, has reconsidered his decision to the extent that he has accepted a proposition to become "door walker" in a leading cafe and sample room there. As the proprietor of the place states, the young man has been employed merely to stand around and look wise, but that he will prove a bright as well as a strong man. He is still growing. His weight is 350 pounds, while his strength is likened to that of a bull.
