SHEEP-Receipts were fairly liberal this moning, though not nearly so heavy as on Monday and Tuesday. Packers seemed to have liberal orders to fill, and were all out in good season. Fat sheep could be quoted active and steady, most everything answering to that description being disposed of in good season, unless the quality was not satisfactory.

In the case of fat lambs the market was not so brisk, and prices barely steady. Some sales looked steady with yesterday, while others were a shade easter. The better grades changed hands without much trouble, but the kinds that neither packers nor feeder buyers were very anxious for were slow of sale.

There were more feeder buyers on hand this morning, and as a result trading was more active and a better tone to the market was noticeable. Anything at all desirable in either sheep or lambs could be quoted active and fully steady with yesterday. The bulk of the fresh arrivals was disposed of in good season, but, of course, it was rather late before a clearance was made.
