carried over from yesterday, but no change in the market took place. For the week receipts have been very liberal, there being an increase over last week of about 21,000 head, and as compared with the same week of last year there is an increase of about 27,000 head. The receipts, though, were profity well distributed through the week, and considering the large run, the market held up in a very satisfactory manner. MAHA LIVE STOCK MARKET . Cornfeds and Westerns Strong for the Week, Others Steady market held up in a very satisfactory manner. The demand for sheep from packers was in good shape all the week, and the market on that class of offerings can be quoted steady, with the close of last week. Trading on most days was quite brisk, good clearances being made of desirable grades. A large proportion of the offerings has consisted of lambs, and a good many of them were fat enough for killers. The general tendency of values was downward, and prices for the week show a not loss of 150 cm. The good kinds have suffered as well as the common, so that it would not take a strictly prime bunch of westerns to bring $5. Natives, however, have sold up to $5.35. The demand for feeders has been brisk all the week, and feeder sheep may be quoted steady. Feeder lambs, however, have suffered in sympathy with the decline on killers, and may be quoted 10 15 lower. Corn-fed steers have been in light supply all the week and with a good demand the market has ruled active on desirable grades and prices steady to strong. Halfat kinds, or those that come in competition with westerns, have not been sought after particularly; but still even those have sold to as good advantage as they did a week ago. Good to choice grades are quotable from $5.50 to $5.90, fair to good $5.00 to $5.50 and the shorter fed cattle 4.50. HOGS—Receipts, 1,759 head; none sale; market steady. did a week ago. Western rangers have made up the big bulk of the offerings all the week and a large proportion of them have been fat enough for killers. The demand on most days was fully equal to the supply and, in fact, the more desirable grades are a little stronger for the week, some sales showing an advance of as much as 10@15c. The top price of the week was $4.5c. The commoner kinds of westerns are no more than steady for the week, as there were a good many of that class on sale. Good to choice cattle are quotable from $5.75 to $4.25, with strictly prime from $4.25 to $4.75. Fair to good cattle sell from $5.00 down. Receipts of cows have also been liberal most of the week, but the market held up in very satisfactory manner the greater part of the time. Corn fed cows, though, would probably sell from $3.00 to $3.50 and prime heffers would reach $4.00. The market on western grassers is a little uneven for the week, with the tendency downward rather than otherwise. The general market could probably be quoted weak to 10c lower than at the close of last week. Some of the choicest grades have sold about steady, while others have been lower, and the same is true of canners. The weakness is most noticeable on the medium kinds. Good to choice grass cows may be quoted from $2.75 to $3.00, with prime ones a little above that. Fair to good cows sell from $2.50 to $2.75 and canners and cutters largely from $1.75 to $2.40. They sell largely from $1.75 to $2.50, while corn-feds would bring. $3.25 or the same as a week ago. Packers steadfastly refuse to pay more than that for the best calf made. The best feeder trade of the season, so far, was experienced this week. Buyers were on hand in large numbers and the trade assumed some of the activity of former years. Good heavy cattle were in the best demand and such kinds sold out of first hands 10%20c higher than at the close of last week, but speculators claimed that on Friday and Saturday they had to make big reductions in order to dispose of their holdings to country buyers. Medium weight cattle and light cattle, particularly if of common quality, have been hard to move all the week, and such kinds are no more than steady and in some cases lower. Cash Wheat in Omaha $1.08 1-2-Good Crop Gossip-Corn Said to Be Ab-

solutely Safe in State

Conditions are growing very interesting in the wheat markets of the world. The shortage at home and abroad is admitted. France by its action in removing the duty on wheat has emphasized this condition there and now the straining of the badly strained relations between Russia and England, almost to the breaking point, is another incentive for higher prices for wheat. Millers have realized the full importance of the situation and are competing with each other for the cereal. In St. Louis this morning No. 2 red wheat sold at $1.22 a bushel, in Chicago at $1.19941.21 and in Omaha No. 2 hard sold at $1.095. These prices speak for themselves and indicate better than a bushel of gossip and diversified, one-sided gossip, the real condition of affairs. The speculative interest has not been accustomed to seeing wheat above the dollar mark for any considerable length of time and there are traders that cannot help taking a chance on the short side, but they are among the first to run for the tail grass just as soon as the latent strength of the market develops. According to statistics from abroad the United States, despite the short crop, will have to do its full share in feeding the short-crop European states. Austria, Germany, France and other continental countries are short on all crops. One favorable thing for America and the prosperity of the country is the certainty of great corn crops. The change of the weather again practically assures the safety of the much-valued ears, and this will especially assure the safety of Nebraska's interests, agricultural and commercial.

H. V. Jones, the celebrated Minneapolis authority made the statement yesterday in this will especially assure the safety of Nebraska's interests, agricultural and commercial.

H. V. Jones, the celebrated Minneapolis authority, made the statement yesterday in Chicago, after completing 31,000 miles of observation that "a 2,500,000,000-bushel corn crop is only possible with perfect corn weather. The record of the weather bureau shows a deficiency of heat this summer of 725 degrees. Big corn yields are in upland sections."

Speculative markets were comparatively steady, gained slowly in strength and closed quite firm. In Chicago September sold from $1.10% to $1.12%, December at $1.12% to $1.14%, and May at $1.13% to $1.15%. The weakness observable during the early hour of the short session was entirely dissipated before the close.

Corn was firmer, despite the excellent crop prospects, but the gain was in sympathy with the movement in wheat. So far oats alone have failed to get a move on in keeping with the strength in other cereals. Certainly if there is a shortage in wheat there will be an increased consumption of foods, and this, with the usual source of consumption, should keep prices decidedly strong.
