n the last game of their series, each side coring two runs. The second run for St. Louis was scored by Padden, who stole home after two men were out as the result of a triple steal negotiated by Fadden. Sugden and Burkett. It was the first time hat this feat of base running has been nucceasfully accomplished in St. Louis and none of the players could recall its dupli- ate in the bistory of the game. The game was called at the end of the cleventh in- ing on account of darkness. St. Louis won the series from Washington, taking leven games and theing one out of twenty- wo played. Attendance, 784. of a foot ball machine it is a foregone con-clusion that the presence of these two men will make Nebraska a dangerous foe in all of its contests this year. Minnesota, naturally, looks more formid-able than any other aggregation Nebraska will face, but if the Cornhuskers are able to check the rushes of the giant Gophers and hold them reasonably safe Booth feels confident that it will be a mere matter of time until either Benedict or Bender will break loose for a sprint across the Gopher goal. Nebraska will face Minnesota out-weighed by a wide margin and Cornhusker enthusiasts are free to admit that the odds are in the Gophers' favor, but a spirit of confidence is apparent that Northrup field on October 29 will be the scene of a bitter struggle and that if Minnesota wins it will be by merit alone. Booth gave 'Baby' Mills, his giant cen-ter, a stren-ous tryout in the Grand island game. The heat was excessive throughout, out Mills will has much to learn, but he jumped aggressively into every scrimmage and gave no sign of ex-haustion when the whistle had sounded the final call of play. Although Mills' weight is 255 pounds, his waist measure is surprisingly small for a foot ball warrior possessing such an unusual advoirdupois, and with almost every ounce in his makeup counting for so much beef and bone, op-posing centers will likely find Mills a man-hard to handle. In the Grand Island game Booth did some experimenting by pulling Barta, a big guard, out of the line and switching him into the back field when on the of-fense. Barta was frequently given the ball and he charged through the Grand Island line with irresistible power. Barta is the most shapely specimen physically on the Cornhusker eleven, besides wilch he is fairly fast on his feet. Booth's back field, as usual, is light this year, and for that reason Barta promises to render valuable aid to the backs field when on the of-fense Harta the Cornhuskers are facing a heavier team. Booth has few fears concerning the Grinnell game, but he costs an anxious
