MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

Last week this column of The Bee contained a salutatory talk or address, as it were, to the musicians of Omaha, and the general purpose was to encourage the musiclans to get together and to stand firm upon the proposition that music was never intended to be a mere amusement, that the holy art was meant for something better and nobler than to be a mere adjunct to a dancing function, or a time killer. It was pointed out that music is, as it always has been, the ocean depth of things spiritual and that the one who tries to limit its sphere limits only himself and does nothing to stop the progress of the science and art which has chalgreat the worship of most of the world's lenged greatest souls. It was pointed out that although there are many who cannot admire the beauty of the sunset, yet the sun has been setting just the same for centuries and its lustre has not been dimmed by the fact of nonappreciation. with music; the morning stars sing together as of old, monuments are being erected to the master minds of music and the art has thousands of earnest, selfsacrificing devotees where it formerly numbered only dozens, and there is not a monument anywhere to any one who wrote the trashy, the temporarily amusing, the the popular trash of the day, at any period, just as in the sister realm people grimages yearly to Stratford-on-Avon to by your convictions, seriously and earthink upon the memory of Sweet William Shakespeare, while no one goes to seek Joseph J. Caillier, 1202 Castellar St., 2318 Snakespeare, while no one goes to seek the places connected with the writers of the yellow-backed trash of times gone by,

Omaha is a prominent city. Omaha should be a musical center of national importance. Omaha therefore should try get in touch with the best of music, with the best artists, the best orchestras, the best choirs, the best masters, and should drop into their proper places the brass bands which promenade as high-class musical organizations and which give concerts of ordinary, trashy, short-lived musical selections to bring money into the treasury or to enrich themselves. who feel that you are not to be classed as music lovers because you have not had training and who think that you are not capable of appreciating classic (which simply means "good") music.

Then, may I ask you to banish from place. your homes all that is unworthy in the way of music? There is so much trash nowadays, and it is a foolish and wasteful expenditure of money to buy such stuff because it only insts a month or so. You have to buy something "new" next week. Get the music that has stood the test of time, and you will find lots of it and you will not have to buy symphonies or sonatas or operas to get at it. Help us who are struggling for the musical supremacy of Omaha. Help us who are trying to build up a musical atmosphere for your sons and daughters. Help us who are trying in every honest way to make it possible for your sons and daughters to get what they need in the way of musical equipment right here in Omaha.

If you love any of the things I have mentioned, consider yourself a music lover, pure and simple; be not afraid to assert that you are of the musically inclined population; that you are one of us; that you love beauty in its highest and beat, and that you are opposed to the introduction of anything in the name of art which is simply a source of revenue to the producer, or a money-making scheme,

As one of the many who are working for the upbuilding of the art of music in your own beloved city, may I ask that you will lend your influence to fostering the legitimate and abolishing the fake money-making scheme, just as in your own business you advertise in the cleanest papers, do the straightest business, stand up for the legitimate, the clean, the honest. in opposition to the "prize package," nonlasting. Are you a music lover? When it comes right down to the point, you are, from all over the world are making pli- and you know you are. Won't you stand nestly? You will. We know you will. We need help, and you will not refuse it. THOMAS J. KELLY.

HEADQUARTERS corn packing season to a close and also that of other tender vegetables. The most lib-eral estimates report that the pack will not exceed 60 per cent of normal. In Maine conditions are much worse than that, some of the largest packers being able to de-liver only 25 to 30 per cent of their sales and this they consider a conservative es-timate. Tomatoes are quoted firmer in Baltimore, but no change in the market has taken place. Brisk Trade on Dry Goods.

place. Brisk Trade on Dry Goods. Local dry goods jobbers report a fairly good house trade last week, but they are younting on a rushing business for this week, as the Ak-Sar-Ben carnival never fails to bring in a flood of buyers who wait until that time to complete their stocks. They expect, however, to be well prepared for attending to all the wants of their cus-tomers. In figuring up their sales for Sep-tember they find they have very little to complain of, as in most departments they have broken last year's record, which is most of September. Merchants who have been in the city during the last few days arding the outlook in their respective sec-tions and they seem to be more confident in the size of their orders also shows that they have considerable confidence in the future demand. The market on cotton goods is in much the past of thing the base for some time place during the week under review. Hardware Men Still Busy.

Hardware Men Still Busy. Local hardware jobbers are still very busy illing orders of fail and winter goods. Every cool day retailers get more anxious for their supplies and send in a flood of orders. Traveling salesmen are selling an enormous amount of goods and taking the month of September as a whole they have done better than ever before. There seems to be no special feature to the trade, as all staple and seasonable goods are in demand. Trade in the country is also active and every merchant that has been heard from of late reports a batter demand than he had a year ago at this time, with pros-pects for the future the best in his ex-perience.

pects for the future the best in his ca-perience. The market has shown no particular change during the week under review. There may have been a few minor changes, but none of enough importance to be worthy of mention. It is simply a good healthy market all along the direction of the state of the state of the state of the prospects favorable for such conditions be-ing permanent. Both jobbers and retailers seem to feel that they are safe in purchas-ing at present prices.

Fruits and Vegetables.

Fruits and Vegetables. There was a very liberal demand for fruits last week. Peaches moved out excep-tionally well owing to the low prices pre-valing, which caused an immense amount of canning to be done. It is safe to say that there will be no further reductions in prices, so that there is no object in waiting longer before buying canning stock. Grapes were also in good demand, of which there is a large supply. Apples also sold fairly well. In vegetables there was no particular change, the demand being just about nor-mal for the time of year. The prices ruling on the different kinds of fruits and veg-etables as well as on butter, eggs and poul-try will be found in another column.

Cuban Cigar Makers Protest. HAVANA, Oct. 1 .- The members of the Cigar Manufacturers' association vigorously urge the Cuban government to rep. resent to the United States the alleged injustice in removing the distinctive stamp on imported cigars. It is charged that Secretary Shaw's decision assists all the dishonesty practiced against the American consumer in making the boxes containing mixed or otherwise inferior products appear to contain pure Havanan
