Live Whale Central Feature.

In yesterday's parade, which was a few feet of being two miles long, the live whala occupied the center of the stage. This mighty monster of the deep received the applause of the throng with becoming grace and saluted his admirers with an occasional spout. There was soms doubt a few hours before the time of the parade whether the whale could be brought out of the Den on North Twentieth street, as his royal massiveness took cold during the night and had to be primed by the royal men of medicine before he could be exposed to the nor'wester that was swooping down on the genet.1 public and the city hall during the afternoon. The whale, however, appeared and after the parade held a lovee in the public forum at Eighteenth and Farnam streets. There was some who thought the whale was built by Gus Renze and his staff at the Den.

"Perish the thought," said Boston Green from his perch on the water wagon.

The parade was led by Chief of Ger darmes J. J. Donahus, assisted by Sergeant of the Line Hayes and a platoon of mounted cops. They blazed the way for the coming of the column and represented the law and order of the kingdom. Following the police came a band from Breken Bow, drassed in red habiliments. Next came ten, bum police, as the official program described them. They were only make-believe police men to scare the small boys and make the old boys laugh until they thought of the good old days back at Slobtown, where they were wont to make up as polloemen and do everything but draw the salary.

Grees Band of Central City. The green band from Central City was sandwiched between the bum policemeis and the Board of Governors of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben. The board of directors, twelve in number, mounted on prancing steeds, added a touch of dignity to the levity of the occasion. Fakepaugh's open cages were the cyno sure for all eyes. They vied with the whale the honors of the day. In open cage No. 1, known as "The Happy Famtiy," were seen live pigs, chickens, turkeys and ducks, two of each. Nover before had been seen such a family, all living in one apartment and dwelling together in perfect happiness. Trainer Sam Hill occuplod this cage and kept a watchful eye over his charges with a stuffed club. Two Pottawattamie lions and Trainer Billy Pattersor, were the occupants of cage No. 2 These specimens of the jungle were captured at Honey Creek, near Council Bluffs, by a female schoolmarm. One of the lions became so unruly at Fifteenth and Chiseago streets that the police surgeon had and City Clerk Elbourn.

It is not known how many passes were distributed at the city hall, but it is thought an investigation will, be begun mmediately , The license fee paid by Fakepaugh was the limit; namely, $390. taking in side shows.

The bands of Indian bucks, squaws and papooses carried by Fakepaugh were said by experts to be the best ever seen in Omaha. One of the bucks got hold of a bottle of the white man's nose paint at Sixteenth and Howard and caused a little flurry before the parade was over, but he was strapped to the water wagon with Boston Green and the procession proceeded. Bringing up the rear the calliops ripped the atmosphere with its shrill melody. causing the whale to turn over in its improvised cot now and then and shaking the water wagon to such an extent as to give Boston Green a nervous chill. In its entirety Fakepaugh's grand circus proved to be all that had been claimed for it by the enterprising advance agent, who said his attraction would be the greatest thing that ever came to town. The weather conditions were in some re spects similar yesterday afternoon to those existing during the daylight parade of last year. Last year the wind god went on a rampage and played havor with the decorations of the floral parade, the temperature falling from 70 o 62 during the time in which the parade moved. The dust was discomfiling to the thousands of people on the streets. Yesterday the temperature was 52 during the afternoon and the velocity of the wind decreased with the gathering of the clouds in the earlier part of the afternoon.

Popular in Fullest Sense.

The parade was a popular event in the fullest sense of the word. From the chief executive of the city, Frank E. Moores, to the humblest citizen or stranger, every one mingled in a common brotherhood to see Fakepaugh's circus. Laborer rubbed elbows with banker and artisan jostled with artist, good naturedly and patiently until the great pageant had moved past. The number who witnessed the parade has been variously estimated from 110,000 to 150,000.

Aside from the usual number of incidents usual on such occasions, no serious accident has been reported as resulting from the moving of the parade. The huge and noisy calliopo frightened a number of horses, but there were many willing hands to run to the assistance of any driver with a nervous animal. The entire police force of the city was on parade duty. Chief Donahue and Sergeant Hayes headed a platoon in the parade, while Captain Mostyn, Bergeants Cook, Rentfrow and Dempsey had charge of the streets over which the parade passed. The crowds

In his address Mr. Moore said: In his address Mr. Moore said: Since the Chicago convention we have waited in value for the democrats to show cause why republicans should change their faith. The whole country listened with its ear to the ground for the sage of Esopus to speak, but heard only the echoes of republican achievement. Grover Cleveland, subtor of "Hard Times for Millions of Toilers," tells you Roose-velt is unsafe. It was an executive investigation that un-earthed the star route rascalities with their ramifications. It was an executive investi-gation that discovered the recent delin-quencies in the Postoffice department and in the public land office, and these investi-gations involved both republican officials and the appointees of Mr. Cleveland who had been left in office I doubt very much if a congressional investigation could be more searching or thorough than those al-ready prosecuted. That a congressional investigation instituted by democratic mem-bers might be more spectacular is conheld by the firm.

Japan Wants More Ships.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5 .- From information received in San Francisco by prominent Japanese, it is evidently the purpose of Japan to take immediate steps toward increasing its fighting efficiency to a very considerable degree. It is stated that the Japanese government has determined to place contracts at once for some twenty warships, to be completed at as early a date as possible. It is further stated that the greater number of these ships are to be constructed in this country and that several will be built in San Francisco

Russians Await Japanese.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 5.-12:45 p. m.-The military critics at St. Petersburg share in the general uncertainty as to how to size up the situation at the front if Field Marshal Oyama makes his anticipated advance.

They seem to agree that a strong screening movement is in progress immediately east of Lino Yang, that probably a feint will be made from the west, that the tactics of the Japanese at Liao Yang will be repeated and that General Kuroki will try a wide flanking movement from the east Some of the critics point out that the conditions at Port Arthur may force a change of Oyama's plan of campaign. The continued failure of the attacks on the fortress and the enormous losses sustained by the beseigers, they think, may compel Oyama to dispatch some veteran troops from the Manchurian army to General Nodzu's support, as the reinforcements arriving at Port Arthur are mostly reserve men.

Unstinted praise is being bestowed on Lieutenant General Stoessel for the herolo defense made by the garrison, which naturally is increasing the hope that the fortress may hold out. In the meantime General Kouropatkin is receiving reinforcements, especially artillery. Nevertheless, all the experts express great doubt whether Kouropatkin contemplates more than a passive resistance at Mukden, where, they say, the topographical conditions are unfavorable for defense. It is considered significant that the critics generally agree that Tie Pass is a betetr position, both for defense and offense, being protected by the Liao river on the west and offering strong positions on the Kama range on the east. The general conclusion is that the Japanese forces will show their hands in a very short time. Evidence is accumulating that Japanese officers are at the head of the bands of Chinese bandits operating on Kouropatkin's right flank, and the continued reports of agitation among the Chinese, spread by the anti-foreign propaganda, are increasing the feeling of anxiety. These factors will soon have to be seriously reckoned with by Russia.

Lieutenant General Stoessel says the Japanese losses were 10,000 during the attacks on Port Arthur from September 19 to September 22. He reports that no incident occurred from September 22 to September 30, excepting outpost skirmishing General Stoessel adds that practically nothing remained of the water wasten
