In "The Castle Comedy" the author, Thompson Buchanan, has given us a romance of Napeleon's time, with the scenes laid in England. The plot is exciting. swords being drawn at several points. Throughout the adventure runs an absorbing love story that will delight and entertain any lover of romance. The volume is a beautiful piece of book work, bound in lavender and gold and printed in colored ink, with marginal drawings, besides numerous illustrations. Published by Harpers.

"A Short History of Oregon," compiled by Sidona, V. Johnson, In this volume the author tells in a brief way the story of that wonderful part of the United States "where rolls the Oregon." While brief, yet the author has told the story so interestingly that it will be welcomed especially by those who do not have time to read a more voluminous history. There are numerous illustrations setting forth the text in the best possible manner. There are maps and letters, which also add greatly to the value of the book. Published by A. C. McClurg & Co.

"The Second Mrs. Jim," by Stephen Conrad. The second Mrs. Jim is a sbrewd, kindly woman, who marries a prosperous farmer with two boys. How she managed this household by her tactful common sense, always surmounting the difficulties with her humorous and original philosophy, is well told by ...

The Seagulls and Other Poems," by Whid Weisford, is a volume of verse written when the author was between the ages of 6 and 10 years. The verse of the youthful author is full of music and imaginction and the subjects selected are of wide range. They certainly would be a credit to one of maturer years. The frontisplece is a sweet little portrait of the author. Published by G. P. Putnam's Bons.
