SHOWING BY TWO PARTIES

Comparison of Appropriations by Republicans and Fusionists.

SUPREME COURT HEARS DENNISON CASE

Grand Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows Are Now in Session at Lincoln—Grand Encampment Elects Officers.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 9.—(Special.)—Because a statement had been published showing the amount of money expended in permanent improvements and the history of the state debt during the last two republican administrations, a request has been made that a statement be published showing the amount of money expended on permanent improvements from 1855 to 1903 and the amount of the state's indebtedness paid off by the fusionists since 1895.

The floating debt of the state on November 30, 1894, was $1,262,747.45 in cash in the treasury (after deducting expense account) of $188,370.45, leaving the actual floating debt $1,074,377.00. The floating debt of 1903 was $7,748,888.70 less cash in the treasury of $106,700, leaving the actual floating debt $7,642,188.70. To this must be added, however, deficiencies to the amount of $182,735.97, making the actual floating debt in 1903, $7,824,924.67. The fusionists therefore increased the state debt $6,750,546.67 from 1894 to 1903. The floating debt June 1, 1904, was $1,385,437.45, the Republicans apparently increasing the floating debt during those four years $178,083. But during the fusion years there was spent in permanent improvements only $26,750, while during the last four years of republican rule there has been expended in permanent improvements $66,065, taken solely from the general fund.

The bonded debt of the state, which the fusionists claimed to have wiped out, was on November 30, 1894, $47,228.04. In 1903 there was no bonded debt. But this, however, was no fault of a fusion legislature, for the reason that for years a separate and distinct levy had been made by the State Board of Equalization to pay on this bonded debt. The amount of this levy was $1,171,000. Of this cash sinking fund $254,024.45. Of this amount, $181,171.75 was tied up in the Capital National bank, where so far as any one knows, it still remains. The balance of $142,828.70 left by the republicans was then applied on this bonded debt. The fusionists also had the 1895 levy, amounting to $103,840, apply on the debt. The levy of 1897 netted $107,000; the levy of 1899 amounted to $98,000, making a total of $408,960.50, without the 1896 levy the fusionists used in wiping out the bonded debt, for which they should receive no credit.

Incorrect Statements.—An investigation of the amount of money spent in permanent improvements during these years, from 1895 to 1903, shows that it is the republican party that has given the people something for their money. And in this connection it may be interesting to know that the primers being printed in the World-Herald in all instances are not to be trusted. According to the books in the auditor's office the appropriations made by the legislature of 1897 was $2,518,881.81, which is just $177,000 more than the figures being printed by the fusion papers. An investigation of every item in the appropriation books shows this discrepancy. The fusion legislature of 1897, at which time there was a fusion governor, appropriated from the general fund $2,073,343.40. Of this amount they spent in permanent improvements $121,060. The republican legislature of 1899 appropriated from the general fund $2,069,940.26 and of this sum $222,700 was expended for permanent improvements. In other words, the republican legislature made an appropriation from the general fund of $100,000 more than the fusionists, yet at the same time they spent $101,660 more in permanent improvements. The legislature of 1895, which was republican, appropriated from the general fund $2,450,539.90, of which sum there was spent for permanent improvements $141,065.

Burkert in a Quandary.—Congressman Burkert is in a quandary. He doesn't want his name to go on the official ballot as a candidate for the senate and he doesn't know how to keep it off. According to law there is only one way his name can be kept off the ballot and that way is for him to file with the secretary of state his resignation as the duly authorized nominee of the republican state convention. Mr. Burkert has not signified any intention of doing that, though he has notified the secretary of state that he doesn't want his name on the ticket. Mr. Burkert's name was duly certified to the secretary of state by the officers of the state convention. The affair has considerably embarrassed Mr. Burkert's friends, who fear that should he, without opposition, fail to secure nearly unanimously the popular vote, his position as a republican would be considerably weakened, while if he resigns as a candidate those legislative candidates who have been instructed to vote for him would be no longer bound by their instructions. They also feel that to have his name on the ticket in the district would be a considerable loss of votes for both places. So far nothing further has been done than to request the secretary of state to leave his name off the ticket.

Daughters of American Revolution.—The third annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Nebraska chapter, will be held in Lincoln, beginning Wednesday and continuing until Thursday evening. The state committee will meet with Mrs. E. B. Pound, 1622 L street, at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, and at noon an informal reception for the out-of-town guests and delegates will be given at the residence of Mrs. M. J. Waugh, 154 G street. Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the delegates, guests and members of Des Moines chapter will meet for conference and to arrange the program of procedure. A formal reception will be tendered to the visiting delegates by members of the local chapter Wednesday evening, and Thursday morning the business session will begin at the residence of Mrs. Waugh. All members of the local chapter will act as hostesses to the visiting delegates during the convention. Delegates from Omaha, Beatrice, Fairbury, Fremont, Ord, Seward and Kearney will attend the convention.

Denison Hearing On.—Supreme court began this morning with the three judges and three commissioners present. The Denison case occupied the greater portion of the afternoon and excited some interest. This is the case wherein the Iowa officials are trying to get Tom Denison of Omaha into that state to try him on a charge of complicity in the Pollack robbery. The lower court sustained the requisition, however, and the Iowa officials and the efforts to secure the release of Denison under habeas corpus proceeding was unavailing.

Another case argued was that wherein the state is suing the State Journal company for $125,000, the state's attorney. The Journal company is charged with selling supreme court reports upon which the state holds the copyright. Attorney General Prout was given leave to file briefs. Following are the proceedings of the day's session: These cases were argued and submitted: Perrine against Knights Templar, Western Travelers' Accident Association against Tomson, Harding against Modern Brotherhood of America, Smith against Corrihan, Farrell against Bouck, Shoemaker against Commercial Association Company, City of Minneapolis against Vedene, France against Hohbaum, State against State Journal Company, Rebeckah against Denison, Denison against Christian, Wheeler against State ex rel, Clement, Roberts against Commercial Union, Ruzicka against Hotovy, Lodge against Fitch.

The following cases were continued: Godfrey against Smith, Weatherford against Pacific Railroad Company, Lincoln Supply Company against Graves. The following case was submitted on brief: Miller against Walker. Odd Fellows' Grand Lodge.—Members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows from all parts of the state met this morning in their annual state convention. The attendance was even better than had been anticipated. At the grand encampment the election of officers resulted as follows: J. L. Ingey, grand patriarch. S. Hoagland, grand secretary. W. L. Dimmick, grand high priest. A. L. F. Gage, grand scribe. W. G. Purcell, grand junior warden. J. S. Hoagland, grand representative.

The report of Grand Representatives J. S. Hoagland and C. Shaw showed these interesting facts about the order: The lodge has paid out in benefits since 1850 more than $100,000,000. Its invested funds now amount to $35,000,000. The revenue received in 1903 was $1,387,712.22, and the amount paid in relief was $4,225,520.19. The record of membership in 1903 showed that the order held 1,181,421 people in subordinate lodges, 167,849 in the encampment, 47,594 in the Rebekah lodge and 15,832 in the Patriarchs Militant.

Teachers Are Coming.—The superintendents and principals of the state are to gather in Lincoln on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week for their regular annual meeting. This meeting is counted one of the most important of the year for those who have charge of school systems in the state, though not as large as the Christmas meeting. The discussions are devoted to the special problems of supervision and educational policy. The programs have been printed and distributed to the superintendents and principals in Memorial hall at the state university. One especially attractive feature of the meeting will be the banquet held in connection with it each year. The banquet this year will be held at the Lindell hotel on Friday evening.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS' CONVENTION Officers of the Order Are Elected for the Coming Year.—COLUMBUS, Neb., Oct. 9.—(Special.)—The fifth biennial meeting of the Nebraska association of the Catholic Knights of America was held in this city today at Knights of Pythias hall. Many of the delegates were here last evening and were tendered a reception by the local lodges. A literary and musical program was arranged for the meeting, which the time was passed playing cards and other games. At 9 this morning the entire delegation attended solemn high mass at St. Bonaventura church, after which they went into a business session.

West Point was chosen as the place for the next state meeting two years from now. The following state officers were elected today: William Schill, Columbus, president; F. Walters, Wayne, vice president; L. L. Werner, Columbus, secretary; J. H. Lindsie, West Point, treasurer. Mr. Werner was also chosen as delegate to attend the supreme council which meets at St. Louis next May.

YOUNG YORK BOY IS KIDNAPED Father Supposed to be Back of the—YORK, Neb., Oct. 9.—(Special Telegram.)—The second son of the west was the kidnaping of little John MacKee, son of Mrs. Spaulding, proprietress of the North York hotel, who was divorced from Mr. MacKee and is said to have been given in custody of their 7-year-old son, this morning at 8:45. Johnnie was on his way to school and his playmates noticed a team stop and a man get out and forcibly carry Johnnie to the buggy, when he was whipped up the horses and drove south. Immediately officers were notified and descriptions were sent out and this evening Sheriff Brot received word of the capture of the two kidnapers having the boy in their possession. Warrants have been sworn out for their arrest, charging them with kidnaping. The father, near Hebron and the two men are supposed to have been employed by him. The prisoners will be brought back.

SNOWSTORM IN WEST NEBRASKA Weather is Mild and No Harm is Done by Storm.—ALLIANCE, Neb., Oct. 9.—(Special Telegram.)—The first snow storm of the season occurred today. The early morning threatened a blizzard, but the afternoon's warm wind dispelled such fears. The snow is general in this vicinity and especially towards Denver where it has hampered wire communication quite seriously.

Democrats Fill Vacancy.—SCHUYLER, Neb., Oct. 9.—(Special.)—The democratic vacancy committee had to get together to place upon its list a name to fill the place of George H. Thomas, who declined to run for county attorney, as he was nominated at the convention to do. Frank C. White, who declined nomination in the convention, was prevailed upon to accept the honor. Although he was presumed to have been fearful of accepting the nomination because the democrats voted so strenuously against further fusion in this county, he is said to have stated in a private conversation that he was right away after the convention that he wished he had accepted at that time. There are now but two candidates in the field, George W. Wertz, present incumbent, republican, and James A. Grunison, republican, who declined and his place not having been filled.

Court at Papillion.—PAPILLION, Neb., Oct. 9.—(Special.)—The fall term of the district court opened here yesterday with Judge Sutton on the bench seven criminal cases. The day was taken up in calling and assigning cases. The Carr murder case, growing out of a fight at Barry Mills, July 4, was set for Wednesday, October 19. It will take at least five weeks to clear up the docket.

MISS SEDGEWICK IS ASSAULTED

Struck by Man and Rendered Unconscious for Several Hours.

YORK, Neb., Oct. 10.—(Special.)—Every effort is being made to capture the assailant of Miss Philo Sedgewick, the accomplished daughter of Tim Sedgewick, editor of the York Times and postmaster in this city. Joe Brown, court reporter, who found Miss Sedgewick lying in his yard insensible on that night, has found the handkerchief used by the man in attempting to smother her cries. Officers have been employed and indications are that possibly an arrest may be made. Since then it is learned that a man answering the same description earlier that evening followed Mrs. E. Bradwell, wife of Douglas Bradwell of this city.

Miss Sedgewick is recovering from her fright and is able to tell all the circumstances up to the time she fell in a faint from the blow of the man. Earlier in the evening she tells that while on her way home she saw a man standing across the street near their home and from his actions she then thought he was lying in wait for her and she telephoned her parents to turn on the porch light. When this was done the man went away and at the time little importance was given to the matter. Later wishing to secure a dress that was being made for Sunday she went to the dressmaker's, about four blocks distant, and when she turned the first corner she again noticed the same man across the street going in the same direction. She quickened her pace and noticed he did the same, and then she attempted to run into the home of Mrs. Joe Brown. Just before reaching the steps the man intercepted and grappled with her, saying nothing, but began to choke her and place a large handkerchief in her mouth, tying it in the back. She remembers screaming and that she was struck a blow and then fainted, lying there from 8:30 to 11 o'clock at night. Mrs. Brown heard someone calling outside, and being alone she turned on the electric light on the porch, but seeing no one and hearing no more noise she went back into the house. It is believed that turning on the porch light frustrated the assailant and that he at once ran, believing that parties would pursue.

Mr. Sedgewick became alarmed shortly after being told about the first experience of his daughter seeing a man near their home and commenced a search. Not finding any trace the citizens were called by ringing the fire bell. Squads of citizens with lanterns were detailed to search the alleys and streets. When the fire bell rang Mrs. Brown telephoned and learned the search was being made for Miss Sedgewick and then, remembering the occurrence, she told Mr. Brown, who first searched in their yard, nearly falling over the insensible body of Miss Sedgewick, whom he believed at the time to be dead.

One party was arrested, but released when he proved he was not in the city at the time.

An older daughter, Hazel, was probably fatally burned and Miss Bertha Feiber, who was assisting in the household duties, was burned beyond recognition and can live but a few hours.

It is thought that the kerosene can caught fire exploded as Miss Feiber was attempting to start the fire in the kitchen. Mr. and Mrs. Barnhardt were at the postoffice when the alarm was given and they rushed to the house, several blocks distant, in time to remove both of the burning children. Miss Feiber is a young woman highly esteemed in this community, having recently been a teacher in the county. Her parents reside eight miles south of here.

The damage to the residence and furnishings will exceed $1,000.

Dog Belongs in Human Hand.

COLUMBIUS, Neb., Oct. 9.—George Washer, a farmer living about eleven miles west of town, was injured yesterday by a dog that was being chased by the Lincoln Pacific train. He was horrified yesterday morning when his dog brought home a human hand. It was a left hand and bore the appearance of having seen hard work. It was ground off about three inches above the wrist. Some time during the night Washer was awakened by some one howling from the road. He raised a window and saw the forms of two men. One asked where a doctor could be found and Washer told him the nearest one would be Silver Creek, five miles west. Nothing more was said and they went on. Where the dog picked up his gruesome find is not known, but probably along the tracks. Physicians at Silver Creek report by phone that they know nothing of the matter.
