CECIL LONDON
Oct 30th 1904

Dear Mary Jane,
We arrived in London at the Charing Cross Station on Friday. We loaded our luggage on a four wheeler and came directly to our hotel. It was just five and at London was having tea even the clerks and office boys have tea at five. I love London they have tea and yarmouth floaters with marmalade for breakfast. I like it. The money all has slang names here and the elevator is a lift. You dont say hello over the phone but are you there? but me through to six, nothing, five, Madison. The bell boys in our hotel are pages and the head porter is more magnificent than the Duke of Wellington. The drivers all turn to the left and there are thousands of penny buses. Pa says their clubs dont compare with ours, perhaps he does not know. The best seats in the theatre cost more than in New York and the worst seats are just behind them.
Good-bye Buster.
