President Formally Designates November 24 as Day for Giving Thanks.

RECALLS BENEFITS OF PRESENT YEAR

Chief Executive Refers to Peace and Prosperity of United States and Desires Continuance of Same.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The president today issued the Thanksgiving proclamation, setting aside Thursday, November 24, to be observed as a day of festival and thanksgiving by all the people of the United States, at home and abroad.

The proclamation was issued from the State department this afternoon by Secretary Hay. It acknowledges the debt of the American people to God for the blessing upon the nation during the past year in which "reward has waited upon honest effort," and calls on the nation "devotedly to give thanks unto Almighty God for the benefits he has conferred upon us as individuals and as a nation and to beseech Him that in the future His divine favor may be continued to us."

The proclamation follows: "By the president of the United States. A proclamation: It has pleased Almighty God to bring the American people in safety and honor through another year and in accordance with the long-unbroken custom handed down to us by our forefathers, the time has come when a special day shall be set apart in which to thank Him who holds all nations in the hollow of His hand for the mercies thus vouchsafed to us.

During the century and a quarter of our national life we have been so blessed beyond all others, and for this we owe humbler and heartier thanks to the author of all mercies.

The year that has closed has been one of peace within our own borders as well as between us and all other nations. The harvest has been abundant, and those who work, whether with hand or brain, are prospering greatly. Reward has waited upon honest effort. We have been enabled to do our duty to ourselves and to others. Never has there been a time when religious and charitable efforts have been more successful than at this season. Much has been given to us and much will be expected from us. We speak of what has been done by this nation in no spirit of boastfulness or vainglory, but with full and reverent realization that our strength is in nothing unless we are helped from above. Hitherto we have been given the richest strength to which the world affords as we have severally arose. We are thankful for all that has been done for us in the past and we pray that in the future we may be strengthened in the unending struggle to do our duty fearlessly and honestly, with charity and good will, with respect for ourselves and with love toward our fellow men. In this great republic the effort to combine national strength with personal freedom is being tried on a scale more gigantic than ever before. In the world's history, our success will mean much not only for ourselves, but for the future of all mankind, and every man of woman in our land should feel the grave responsibility resting upon him or her for the last analysis the success must depend upon the high average of our individual citizenship, upon the way in which each of us does his duty by himself and his neighbor.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the 24th of this November, to be observed as a day of festival and thanksgiving by all the people of the United States, at home, abroad, and do recommend that on that day they cease from their ordinary occupations and activities, that their prayers, words of worship or in their homes, devoutly to give thanks unto Almighty God for the benefits He has conferred upon us as individuals and as a nation and to beseech Him that in the future His divine favor may be continued to us.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this first day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and four, and in the Independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-ninth.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, President of the United States.

PREPARE FOR THE HAWKEYES

Cornhuskers Are Getting Into Shape for Saturday's Game with Iowa.

LINCOLN, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Preparations for the Hawkeyes, who come to Lincoln next Saturday, are now swaging the Nebraska foot ball squad. Practically every Cornhusker emerged from the Minnesota game unscathed, and there was not a man who was unable to resume practice immediately after returning home.

The quarterback proposition is a problem that Booth has yet to solve. It is quite apparent that Barwick does not come up to variety requirements, although he is promising material and eventually may make good.

The choice of officials for the Nebraska-Iowa game has fallen upon Ralph Hoagland of Chicago, Dr. Outland, coach of Washington college, and F. D. Cornell of Lincoln.

Manager Davis of Nebraska Indians will play their game November 12 at Kansas City, as originally booked. The park management has made the desired concessions concerning an increase of the seating capacity, thus assuring the game for Kansas City. The railroads have given reasonable assurance that they will offer excursion rates from Lincoln to Kansas City, a thing they refused to do in Minneapolis, and a bunch of Nebraska rooters that may run over 1,000 will quite likely make the trip.

GANS ANXIOUS TO FIGHT AGAIN

Offers to Meet Britt at 134 Pounds for Purse of $15,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—Al Herford, manager for Joe Gans, the champion light-weight pugilist, said today: "If Britt will fight Gans at Baltimore my club will hang up a purse of $15,000 and if Britt will come to 134 pounds ring-side, I will give him a side bet of $2,500, and he can split the purse sixty and forty. If he chooses and I will always contend that Gans can do weight easier east than he can here and that he will give me $1,000 to take Graney for referee of Britt can I have somebody else."

Of the fight last night Gans said: "I was too weak to do myself justice. After I went to my corner I found I was very fit. I would like to fight Britt again, but I would not do it at 134 pounds, ring-side."

"Britt would have won had he continued," referring to his failure to win the championship, Gans said.

"The decision was fair. I could not help it. Gans kept slipping to the floor without being struck. He also hung onto me and I tried to fight him off. I went in to win and I knocked him out. I have knocked Gans out had the fight continued."

ROURKE TALKS ON THE WESTERN

Says Lincoln Is Likely to Take the Place of St. Joseph.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—The circuit of the Western last fall season may be changed before the opening of the next season, according to William Rourke, who stopped in this city today on his way to Omaha from New York, where he had a large attendance on the meeting of the minor leagues, said that in all probability St. Joseph would be dropped from the list of clubs and Lincoln substituted. According to Mr. Rourke the team this year in St. Joseph had failed to prove an attraction, and as Lincoln was anxious for the franchise the latter city was favored by the Western people as a new member.

ARTHUR METZ DENIES THE RUMOR

Report He Has Bought Rourke's Franchise Is Not True.

When asked last evening regarding the report of the fact that he had bought the Omaha base ball franchise, which would be transferred to the American association, according to the rumor, Arthur Metz said: "There is nothing in the report and I have nothing to say in the matter."

WITH THE BOWLERS.

On the Omaha Bowling association allies last evening the Omaha bowlers won three games from Tonight, the Omaha Stock Yards and Drexels play on the same alleys.

LOUIS, Nov. 1.—According to a financial statement published today by the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company covering a period from the opening, April 28, to October 31, the total receipts for the treasury at the latter date of $341,053,200. The total disbursements were $275,271,719, and the total disbursements $1,331,497,600.

THE ROOT OF THE MATTER

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomach Trouble, by Getting Down to First Principles.

A man of large affairs in one of our prominent eastern cities, by too close attention to business, too little exercise and many club dinners, finally began to pay nature's tax, in the form of chronic stomach trouble; the failure of his digestion brought about a nervous irritability, making it impossible to apply himself to his daily business, and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "I consulted one physician after another and each one seemed to understand my case, but at the same time each failed to bring about the return of my former digestion, appetite and vigor. For two years I went from pillar to post, from one sanitarium to another, I gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass or two of beer, but without any marked improvement."

"Friends had often advised me to try a well known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I had often perused the newspaper advertisements of the remedy, but never took any stock in advertised medicines nor could I believe a 60-cent patent medicine would cure me at all."

"To make a long story short, I finally bought a couple of packages at the nearest drug store and took two or three tablets after each meal, and occasionally a tablet between meals, when I felt any feeling of nausea or discomfort."

"I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improvement in my appetite and general health, and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets was going to cure me completely, and they did not disappoint me. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and cigar, and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors of dyspepsia."

"Out of friendly curiosity I wrote to the proprietors of the remedy asking for information as to what the tablets contained, and they replied that the principal ingredients were aseptic pepsin (government test), malt diastase and other natural digestives, which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach."

"The root of the matter is this, the digestive elements contained in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the nerves and whole system receive the nourishment which can only come from food, stimulate and nerve tonics never give real strength, they give a fictitious strength, invariably followed by reaction. Every drop of blood, every nerve and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good and wholesome a remedy as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums."

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years, yet probably every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them, and considers them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach trouble.

ARROW MAKES ANOTHER TRIP

Baldwin's Airship Again Demonstrates Its Complete Dirigibility.

EXECUTES MANY DIFFICULT MANEUVERS

Fliers Against the Wind, Turns Short Circle, Goes Up and Down at the Will of the Man at the Helm.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 1.—A second successful flight of the Baldwin airship was made at the World's fair today, under the guidance of A. R. Knabenshush of Toledo, O., who maneuvered the "California" into the air. The airship, descended in the aerial concourse, and descended in the aerial concourse, and descended in the aerial concourse.

Yesterday Knabenshush took the airship up to an altitude of 2,000 feet, and circling around, descended in the aerial concourse within 100 feet of his starting point. Today he went up to an altitude of about 1,500 feet and after directing the course of his wonderful aerial vessel at will, descended on the exact spot upon which he had decided to land. Owing to the large crowd gathered within the concourse, the airship was not started to attempt to land at the concourse entrance, but to choose some spot without and nearby where he would not be in danger of striking spectators. Knabenshush chose the stadium concourse and came down just as intended to do.

Satisfied with the demonstrations of the airship over short courses during these two trials, inventor Baldwin announced at the conclusion of the flight that Knabenshush will tomorrow undertake a fifteen-mile flight over a designated course, and the choice of the course will be left to newspaper men, and the flight to be made regardless of the wind conditions.

Details of the Trip.
A light breeze of probably three miles an hour was blowing from the southwest when the "Arrow" was brought out of the aerodrome today. With difficulty the guards cleared a passageway through the dense crowd into the opening area. The airship, with Knabenshush standing in the rigging, floated buoyantly and obediently after Baldwin, who held the anchor rope, had made his way through the crowd to a point where two supports had been placed on which to rest the "Arrow." Then everything was a matter of final inspection. Knabenshush was instructed by Mr. Baldwin to make a flight of half an hour and to maneuver in the vicinity of the concourse, but in descending to land without the inclosure. Illustrative of the nicety of balance of the airship an incident occurred just a moment before the start. Knabenshush had fastened his wire piers and asked for them. Baldwin handed him the tool and told him to weight it in. Taking the piers in one hand Knabenshush scooped the other into a sandbag and getting about an equal weight of sand threw the minute amount of ballast to the ground.

"I'm all ready," stated the motor, he said. Baldwin gave the motor wheel a turn and the little engine energetically began its "chug-chug," revolving the propeller fans.

Fliers Again the Wind.
"Everybody let go," shouted Baldwin and lightly as a bird the airship rose above the heads of the cheering spectators, gracefully cleared the high fence and proceeded due north, maintaining his wire piers and instant, after reaching an altitude of about 300 feet Knabenshush waved his cap to the spectators and then swept his rudder to veer the rudder had completed the turn north, swung around and slowly and steadily swung around in a circle until the prop pointed to the southwest, against the wind. Then Knabenshush tilted the prow upward and began ascending. His course was directly across the concourse and his movements were plainly visible. He passed closely into the motor, which seemed to have suddenly died down, and began working at the controlling lever. After a moment the motor seemed to gain renewed energy and the propeller revolved with speed. The young aviator then threw the same ballast and stood toward the rear of the framework, tilting the prow upward at a greater angle. Like a bird the Arrow shot toward the zenith, until an altitude of probably 1,500 feet had been reached. Then Knabenshush headed directly for the southwest, breathing the wind. Then he made a complete turn and came directly back over the concourse. Once more he turned and proceeded to the southwest. Then the airship pointed to the southeast and proceeded in a straight line for a mile, until directly over the southern boundary of the exposition grounds. Field glasses brought to bear on the daring navigator showed that he was coolly directing his ship and that all was working well.

Describes Short Circles.
Then the airship circled to the east, turned again to the north, veered to the northwest and at a good speed came back to the vicinity of the concourse. When almost above the concourse the "Arrow" changed his course again and proceeded directly north, making half a mile, then each instant, after reaching an altitude of about 300 feet Knabenshush waved his cap to the spectators and then swept his rudder to veer the rudder had completed the turn north, swung around and slowly and steadily swung around in a circle until the prop pointed to the southwest, against the wind. Then Knabenshush tilted the prow upward and began ascending. His course was directly across the concourse and his movements were plainly visible. Two Murders at Chicago
In Both Cases Murderers Had Their Lives After Killing Their Victims.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Two cases of murder and suicide of similar nature occurred today within two hours of each other. Joseph M. Skala, a butcher, fatally shot his wife and then himself. The shooting is said to have been due to business troubles growing out of the fact that the wife in her own right was the proprietor of a meat shop. Shortly afterward William Kuhlmann, publisher and president of a mining company, was shot and fatally injured by his former partner, Henry Holze, who immediately killed himself. Holze is said to have believed that he had been swindled by Kuhlmann.

Court Doubts as to Order
Kentucky Judge Decides Case, but Can Find no Measure of Relief.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 1.—Judge Parker today made an important ruling under the fiction law. It was in the case of R. J. McMichael, who complained that the democratic registration officers by dilatory tactics had prevented him from registering, and he asked for a mandatory injunction. The court held that he was entitled to relief, but was not yet ready to decide upon the exact form. Similar applications have heretofore been denied relief.

DOCTORS FOR MEN

THERE are thousands of men whose minds are weak and impaired, and whose bodies are unsteady and diseased. They suffer from the forces and excesses of youth and experience a weakening of their physical and mental powers. They are weak, nervous, tired, dazed, languid, despondent, and absent-minded; have weak, aching back, palpitation of the heart, capricious appetite, frightful dreams, a constant fear of impending danger, night terrors and day terrors, which unfailingly result in a general debility of marriage. Others are suffering from private diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Varicocele, Enlarged Prostate or Blood Poison (Syphilis).

Are you one of these men? Are you staggering under the burden of a secret weakness, which is a slow, but sure drain on your strength and vitality? In your present condition are you fit to hold a responsible position? Can you depend on your own strength or can you rely on your wife's? Is your body almost wrecked and your brain in a whirl? It is terrible to be in this condition, but it is still worse to allow it to progress and become more aggravated, for it will fill your whole life with failure, misery and woe. There are thousands of ruined and cheerless homes, filled with discontent and unhappiness, lacking in love and companionship through the sexual weakness and physical impairment of men whose years do not justify such a condition. We have gladdened the hearts of thousands of young and middle-aged men who have plunged toward the grave, restoring them to perfect specimens of physical manhood, full of vigor and vitality.
