It has been a week of big affairs and pienty of them, with all sorts of occasion, but conspicuous above everything and evone else has been the debutante and ery the affairs incidental to her launching. First came Mirs Ada Kirkendall, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman P. Kirkendall, who was introduced Monday afternoon at a reception given by her mother. It was a big affair and elaborate. Then came Miss Pauline Schenck, the charming niece of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Evans, whom Mrs. Evans introduced at a tea Wednesday afternoon Miss Schenck is one of the girls of whom society has seen little; she is musical above the ordinary, having an exceptionally sweet voice in addition to being an accomplished piaof lillies and violets. nist and since finishing her course at the university, has spent most of her time studying music in the east.

Last of the three was Miss Mary Lee Mc-Shane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McShane and no more charming or complished girl will be given to society this year than she. Miss McShane was very popular during the summer, when she was frequently a guest at the Country club informal affairs and society welcomed her enthusiastically at her coming out recep-tion given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Mc-

A brilliant function that closed the week was the reception given Saturday afternoon between 4 and 6 o'clock by Mrs. John A. McShane at her residence, 205 Dodge street, at which she introduced her daughter, Miss Mary Lee McShane, to about 300 guests. It had been a week of flowers, but several hundred dozen, mostly chrysanthe mums and American Beauty roses, all the gifts of friends, were arranged through the large rooms. Mrs. McShane, with her daughter, stood before a bank of American Beauty roses that reached to the ceiling of the reception room. The hostess wore a handsome gown of light blue chiffon taffets, with trimmings of blue chiffon velvet and lace, and Miss McShane was gowned in pink chiffon cloth, with transparent voke and trimmings of pink renaissance lace. Her bouquet was a dainty and most artistic bit of work. The hunch was composed of lilles of the valley and English violets, where to obtain the desired information, even though it be outside of the data of the office. If the General Federation is to have the co-operation of the club women of the country, it is obvious that some such means must be employed to keep them in touch with the work, and some person or persons who shall give undivided attention to this important feature of federation activities. Much more could be written along this line, but the aim of this article is simply to call the attention of the club women of the country to the plan and to request a full and free discussion. Each member of the General Federation is urged to take the master under consideration and, af er careful thought, to communicate to the committee her views regarding the useful-ness of such a bureau to the women of her section. It is the desire of the board, and marked with symbols that, rightly interpreted, represented the name. Each passenger was given a ticket, upon which she wrote her interpretation of the various connections. At a given signal the passengers started and a merry hour followed, during which a few reached their journey's end, and several were wrecked entirely. An elaborate luncheon followed.
