

BENEDICT OUT OF THE GAME

Nebraska's Captain Seriously Crippled on the Field Last Saturday.

VICTIM OF IOWA TEAM'S ROUGH TACTICS

Booth Will Put Another Freshman in the Line for the Game with the Haskell Indians at Kansas City.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 8.—(Special.)—Nebraska's prospects of crushing the Haskell Indians in their clash next Saturday at Kansas City have undergone an almost staggering blow by the announcement that Captain Benedict, Nebraska's right end and star punter, was so seriously crippled in the Iowa game last Saturday that there is only a remote possibility of his taking part. Besides sustaining a broken nose, both of his legs were so badly wrenched that he has been compelled to take to the use of crutches, and Dr. Mayhew, the Cornhusker's medical adviser, declares that Benedict has nothing more than a slight chance of being able to lead his team against the husky redskins. Benedict's absence would be sorely felt by Booth's progress, as he is easily one of the stars on the eleven, his long run, clever tackling and superb assistance to the man with the ball, making his presence almost indispensable to Cornhusker success.

Benedict a Special Victim.

Booth and the student body at Nebraska make no secret of the declaration that the Iowa players were the roughest outfit that ever ventured on Nebraska field. They not only slugged and roughed in every scrimmage from the very inception of play, but seemed to make a special mark of Benedict and Benedict, the two players on the Nebraska eleven most dreaded by opponents. On several occasions, when Benedict caught punts and saw that he was certain to be tackled by the speedy Iowa ends, he downed the ball purposely in the hope that he might avoid some of the roughness, but in spite of this fact the Iowans piled onto him with the spirit of fiends and their persistence finally resulted, during the last minute of play, in Benedict being carried off the field insensible. He recovered in a few minutes, but may be out of the game for the rest of the season as a result of the rough treatment. After the game one of the Iowa players, right end Stoenberg, was entertained by a relative at dinner, to whom he admitted that the Iowans had purposely resorted to roughness and that they were surprised to find that the Nebraska did not show more vigorous resentment. They had rather expected Nebraska to play a rough game, said Stoenberg, but after it was all over the Iowans regretted having pursued the tactics that they did. Meanwhile Benedict is on crutches and there is more than a possibility that the Nebraska eleven will need the use of his services for the remainder of the year.

Officials Are Satisfactory.

The selection of Ralph Hengland of Chicago and Dr. John Outland, coach at Washburn college, as umpire and referee for the Haskell game is eminently satisfactory to the Nebraska management, which has seen the work of both men on the gridiron and has supreme confidence in their ability and fairness.

The crippling of Benedict means that

Booth must use Robertson at right end, while it may force Booth to put in a freshman, in the person of Birkenr, at left half. Birkenr is a better punter than any other man on the squad. Benedict alone excepted, and Birkenr's presence will be almost a necessity. Booth realizes that he will need experienced players if the red men are to be downed, but there seems to be no way out of the dilemma than to put Birkenr in the game.

MALARIA IN THE SYSTEM

Holly Springs, Miss., March 24, 1903. While building railroads in Tennessee some twelve years ago a number of hands contracted fever and various forms of blood and skin diseases. I carried S.S.S. in my commissary and gave it to my hands with most gratifying results. I can recommend S.S.S. as the finest preparation for malaria, chills and fever, as well as all blood and skin diseases.

W. I. McGOWAN.

I suffered greatly from Bolls, which would break out on different parts of my body. I saw S.S.S. advertised and after using about three bottles I was cured, and for the last three years have had no trouble whatever.

A. W. ZEMER.

217 Read St., Evansville, Ind.

I began using your S. S. S. probably ten years ago for malaria and blood troubles, and it proved so good that I have continued ever since using it as a family remedy. It is a pleasure for me to recommend S. S. S. for the benefit of others who are needing a first-rate blood purifier, tonic and cure for malaria.

Arkansas City, Ark. C. C. HEMMINGWAY.

Bolls, abscesses, sores, dark or yellow spots and debility are some of the symptoms of this miserable disease. S. S. S. counteracts and removes from the blood all impurities and poisons and builds up the entire system. It is guaranteed a purely vegetable remedy.

TWO FIERCE CAPITAL FIGHTS

South Dakota and Wyoming Ended Contests of Great Interest Yesterday.

CHEYENNE AND PIERRE THREATENED

Aspiring Citizens Would Take Seat of State Government from Present Holders by Vote of the People.

Who shall direct the destinies of the nation from the White House for the next four years is a matter of slight importance to several communities in Wyoming and South Dakota. They have troubles enough at home to keep them awake until the returns are all in and the result declared. Each state has a capital removal fight on its hands, and the eagerness of rival candidates for capital honors makes the campaign the warmest experienced in years.

WHAT HE SAW IN MONTANA

Experience of an Eastern Man Among the Mountains of the West.

A Detroit man who had been spending two or three months in Montana arrived home the other day and when a reporter called at his house to interview him the little affair was found to be typewritten and all ready for instant delivery. It reads as follows:

"I gained fifteen pounds.

"Haven't felt so well for ten years.

"Climate of Montana is the most glorious in the world.

"Saw many Indians. Saw many Indians playing poker.

"Bought an Indian blanket to bring home. After boiling it for a week or so it will be left out about forty nights to freeze.

"Bought several Indian arrows stained with blood. I didn't ask whether it was human or cow's blood. They never make any explanation in Montana.

"Rode a bucking broncho. Usual results followed. Broncho also broke his neck at the same time.

"Was impressed by the mountains. Have returned home dissatisfied with Michigan because she has none.

"Saw many genuine cowboys. Was rather disappointed to find most of them deacons of a church, but was assured that they couldn't help it.

"Was out after grizzly bears several times, but obtained no interviews. As told that this was the season when they retire to the tops of the highest trees to hibernate. I did not argue the matter. They never argue in Montana.

"Heard the howl of a mountain lion one evening when returning to camp. Was informed that he was howling to pass away the time and that he probably hadn't heard of my being out there. Made no remarks. Remarks don't go in Montana.

"Descended into a canyon 350 feet deep. Not being lighted by electricity and all the saloons being closed, it was lonesome down there. Visitors to Montana are helped into the depths of canyons without extra charge.

"Saw the tracks of an elk. Might have seen the elk who made the tracks if I had followed the trail three or four weeks longer. Was neither encouraged nor discouraged by the people. They let you do as you want to in Montana.

"Saw a man hanged for stealing a horse. It wasn't clear whether it was a horse or a steer, but as he wanted to be hanged they didn't split hairs over it. The people of Montana are an accommodating lot. They would have hanged me had I requested it. This is all. Do not fail to speak of me as an eminent citizen and one largely interested in the future of Detroit, and see that the proofs of this article are read twice and are cellar of mistakes."—Detroit Free Press.
