The collision occurred at Elmdale Junetion, two miles east of Grand Rapids. Both trains were eastbound. The Saginaw train had preceded the Detroit train out of Grand Rapids by a few minutes and was standing on a "Y" at Elmdale, where the Saginaw division branches off from the Detroit division. Through some mistake the their action in January, 1904, in refusing switch was not turned behind the Saginaw train and the Detroit train also ran onto "Y," the Detroit train engine crashinto the parlor car of the Saginaw train. No explanation has been made as to where the responsibility lies for the failure to turn the switch behind the Saginaw train when it had turned from the Detroit division. Ordinarily there is twenty minutes' time between the two trains, but tonight the Saginaw train was held at Grand Rapids to wait for passengers from a train on the Chicago division. Through this arrangement the Detroit train was following close behind the Saginaw train as far as Elmdale.

to Bridge Workers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.-Business and pleasure divided the time of the delegates to the Federation of Labor today. In the forenoon a stormy session was held, in which a factional fight regarding the seating of John Mangan, a delegate from the Florists' and Gardeners' union, among the Chicago unions was aired. The question of the standing of the Chicago Federation of Labor, recently suspended by the National Federation, also entered into the discussion. The credentials committee falled to report on the status of William Schardt, president of the Chicago Federation. When a delegate threatened to bring the matter to a focus and have it threshed out on the floor of the convention it was sidetracked by making it a special order of business for tomorrow morning. It is also expected that consideration of the Fail you are willing to inhale the germ and River situation will be begun at this time. In the afternoon the delegates took a car ride about the city as the guests of the United Railways company and the National Car Men's union. In the evening the delegates were entertained at various receptions and banquets.

A supplementary report of the committee on credentials was then submitted and a fight was made on the floor over the seating of Delegate John Mangan of Chicago, who came as a representative of the Gardeners' and Florists' union of Chicago. Delegate Spencer of the United Plumbers association of Chicago led the fight against the seating of Mangan. He alleged that Mangan was a steamfitter in the employ of the city of Chicago and that his expenses were paid by the Steamfitters' union of that city. The fight was waged long an I bitterly, the question of trade autonomy being involved. As Delegate Mangan was a member of a labor organization which is under suspension by the American Federation of Labor, it was argued that it would be illegal to seat him.

This fight was the precursor of the larger one to be made in the case of William Schardt, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor. The latter organization was suspended by the American Federation of Labor because it refused to abide by the decree relative to the organization having jurisdiction of the steamfitters of Chicago. The fight overruled an order to adjourn and all other business of the con-

MANY LIVES ARE THREATENED Defective Insulation Believed to Have Caused Bad Blaze in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.-Three hundred men and girls, employed in several manufacturing concerns in a five-story building on the Bowery, were thrown into a panic for about three months. I slowly im- by fire today, but by prompt work on the part of firemen and volunteer rescuers, all were taken out in safety. The building was practically destroyed, surface cars on the Bowery and Houston street were blocked for half an hour and the uptown elevated trains for fifteen minutes at the height of the morning rush.

The fire started in the Central Knitting mill on the second floor, probably from defective insulation of electrical wires, and within a few minutes the flames were sweeping up through the halls to the floors Nearly all the persons in the building were employed in a coat factory on the top floor, and a moment after the smoke and flames poured up through the halls the fire escapes on the Bowery side of the building were choked by crowds of frenzied men and women. Stairways were impassable and the small fire escapes were taxed far beyond their capacity.

Before the firemen arrived the flames were shooting out of the front windows and making a blazing wall, sufficient to cut off those above the second floor. The position of the men and women or the fire escapes was becoming more and more desperate every moment, when long adders, which cleared the wall of flame below, were run up to the rescue. Then, under the direction of firemen and volunfeers, the frightened men were brought safely to the ground. Many women o the third floor who were out of reach of the ladders were taken across a narrow areaway to an adjoining building on a living chain formed by firemen. A few minutes later the upper part of the building was a sea of fire and before the flames were subdued the building was practically

His stenographer | Philadelphia, Vice President-elect Charles W. Fairbanks and Hon. Joseph Cannon. speaker of the national house of representatives, made addresses.

Senator Fairbanks Telks.

In the course of his remarks, which were cheered to the echo, Mr. Fairbanss said:

"You may take this bell back to Philadelphia, but it is at home wherever the Stars and Stripes fly. One million men would gladly shoulder muskets and go to the field of battle to preserve it to pos terity. How I wish our forefathers could be here to gaze on this majestic spectacle. the like of which I have never witnessed anywhere. The present exposition great undertaking and its success has been the wonderment of the world.

"I would feel neglectful of my duty if I falled to say a few words about this great emblem of freedom. May we all leave here with the highest respect for American citizenship and with the firm rescive, regardless of politics, to preserve the sentiments which the bell has voiced." Speaker Cannon spoke brefly. He said in "The bell stands for free men and women, as the cross does for Christianity." At the conclusion of the addresses the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Dixle" and the bell was taken from the building to a heavy truck. As this was being done the assemblage stood in silence with bared heads.

A battalion of the Philippine constabulary, headed by their band, escerted the bul to the west end of the Palace of Transportation, where the precious relic was placed on board a special car for transportation to Philadelphia.

Forty council men accompanied the bell n its journey home. Twenty stops enoute to Philadelphia will be made to enable school children an opportunity to see the bell.
