TALK OF CUTTING UNIVERSITY LEVY

Official Election Returns About All in and Indicate Roosevelt Carried Every County in State at Recent Election.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
 LINCOLN, Nov. 18.—(Special.)—It developed today that the Northwestern and the Union Pacific railways would probably pay their taxes without demur, owing to the activity of the Nebraska representatives of the lines in making representations to headquarters. According to the statement of a state official, Ben White on a recent trip to Chicago met with the management of the Northwestern and came away with the assurance that the taxes would be paid. The same authority stated that the Union Pacific would probably relinquish its intention to contest the validity of the assessment made by the state board last summer. Tax Commissioner Pollard of the Burlington is still at work out in the state making tenders of payment of less sums than are actually due under the assessment. It is believed that the Burlington will give up its intention of testing the law in the courts when the other roads refuse to co-operate with it.

Will Come to Lincoln.
 Secretary A. B. Allen of the state central committee said today that the headquarters would be removed to Lincoln shortly, by virtue of the authority conferred on the committee officials at the meeting last Wednesday. The reason for removing the headquarters from Omaha is that both the chairman and secretary reside in Lincoln and occupy official positions here. No effort has been made as yet to secure propositions from hotels.

May Cut Levy for University.
 There is some talk among state officials to the effect that the 1-mill levy for the University of Nebraska will be cut, because of the increased valuation of the state. Some of the friends of the university are fearful that the general cry for economy will lead to such action. It is argued that the 1-mill levy was enough six years ago when the total valuation of the state was $188,000,000, and for that reason it is said that the same levy on a $244,000,000 valuation is excessive. Two years ago the farmer members of the legislature made an effort to reduce the levy, but were finally prevailed upon to allow it to stand because of the uncertainty as to the result under the new statute.

Burkett Spent $425.
 Today Congressman E. J. Burkett filed his expense statement in the office of the secretary of state, showing that he gave $425 to T. C. Munger, chairman of the congressional committee for the First district. Nothing has been filed yet to show what it cost to make the tour of the state in the interest of his senatorial candidacy. Because of the fact that the statute does not contain any provision requiring statements in the latter case, it is believed that none will be filed.

Returns About All In.
 Returns from all but six of the counties have been received at the office of the secretary of state, and these give President Roosevelt 116,829 and Judge Parker 8,182. President Roosevelt carried every one of these counties and it is supposed that he has carried every county in the state. His plurality at this time is 74,647, and will doubtless run to 85,000.

House Calls on Mickey.
 Representative Rouse from Hall county was here today and called upon Governor Mickey. Mr. Rouse is prominently mentioned as a candidate for speaker of the house and has a number of letters from those who have served with him urging him to get out and hustle for the place.

He was accompanied to the statehouse by Representative Ferrer from the same county.

Convicted of Robbery Case.
 James Malone, special Burlington detective, returned to Lincoln last night from Beaver City, after securing the conviction of J. W. Harris and Charles Mack on the charge of robbing freight cars of various roads throughout this state and Colorado. The men pleaded guilty to breaking into two cars at Oxford and Cambridge, about October 15, and on this count they were given five years each in the penitentiary. Earl O. Bush, a boy arrested along with the men, was allowed to go over until the next term of court.

The three men were arrested at Akron, Colo., October 11. At that place they were charged with bringing stolen goods into the town, but later they were taken to Denver for safekeeping, and the charge against them was changed as it was found that they were wanted in Nebraska. Malone hunted up the evidence in the case and secured enough to convince the men that it would be policy to plead guilty and throw themselves on the mercy of the court. Goods valued at over $1,500 were found in a Pueblo (Colo.) pawnshop, which these three men had sold, and it is estimated that their operations for the last seven months have netted them a goodly sum and cost the companies from which they took the merchandise somewhere near $5,000. Part of the goods taken from the Burlington cars were secured at Plattsmouth and distributed around Omaha, Council Bluffs and Pacific Junction, Ia. The men made a detailed confession of their many crimes at the time of their sentence.

Ex-Chancellor Fairfield Dead.
 Information of the death of Rev. Edmund Burke Fairfield, ex-chancellor of the University of Nebraska and for years one of the most prominent educators in the state, was received in Lincoln today. Rev. Fairfield died last night at his home in Oberlin, O., aged 84 years.
 Mr. Fairfield was a Virginian born, the grandson of Major Wynn of General Washington's staff in the revolutionary war, and a cousin of "Stonewall" Jackson, the famous confederate general. He was born on August 7, 1821, at Parkersburg, now in West Virginia. His father was a slaveholder, but moved in the latter part of the 20s to Ohio, where he privately freed all his blacks. The elder Fairfield ran a printing office in Miami county, Ohio, and here the youth learned the art of typesetting. Always a student he fitted himself for entrance to Denison university, going from there to Marietta college and thence to Oberlin college, where he graduated in 1842.

In 1876 he was an applicant for the vacant chancellorship of the Nebraska university. He was recommended by Senators Zach Chandler and T. W. Perry of Michigan and many others prominent in public and educational life. He served six years as the head of the Nebraska institution, leaving it in 1882. He resided in Lincoln for a year after that, and then went to Manistee, Mich., to take charge of a church. From there he went to Lyons, France, as consul for the United States, an appointee of President Harrison. He was there four years, and since his return to America has lived in semi-retirement at Oberlin, although he has not been idle.

Mr. Fairfield was a man of great intellectual attainments, a powerful speaker and of strong religious convictions. His retirement from the state university came about as the result of friction between himself and Prof. Church, Emerson and Woodbury of the faculty. At that time Lincoln was the center of a colony of illiterate thinkers, and during the latter part of Chancellor Fairfield's stay a vigorous combat was waged between those in the university who believed in conducting it along lines somewhat secular and those outside, abetted by his three professors, who wanted the university "liberalized." As a result the three professors were let out in January, 1882, and in June the connection of Chancellor Fairfield, who led the opposition, was severed. After that Mr. C. H. Gore came to the Board of Regents and under his leadership the university was reorganized upon the broad lines of today, that their operations for the last seven months have netted them a goodly sum and cost the companies from which they took the merchandise somewhere near $5,000.

Part of the goods taken from the Burlington cars were secured at Plattsmouth and distributed around Omaha, Council Bluffs and Pacific Junction, Ia. The men made a detailed confession of their many crimes at the time of their sentence.
 Mr. Fairfield was an ardent republican. He was present at Detroit when the party was founded, and for years he was prominent in the party councils. He served as a state senator of Michigan and also as lieutenant governor, but his college duties forbade any great activity in the political arena. He retained his interest in party affairs to the last. Scarcely three weeks ago he wrote to his son in Lincoln expressing the hope that he might live to vote once for Roosevelt for president, as a rebuke to the slanderous attack upon him of Judge Parker. His death was very sudden, no illness of any serious character preceding. His son received a letter from him dated the 13th which shows an unabated interest in Nebraska and in public affairs. He leaves a widow and seven children. The latter are: Mrs. Allen W. Field of Lincoln, Mrs. Henry M. White of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Edmund B. Fairfield, manager of the Omaha water works; George D. Fairfield, professor of romance languages in the University of New York at Syracuse; Charles T. Fairfield, publisher of the Rutland (Vt.) Evening News; John M. Fairfield, a court reporter of Denver, and Ernest B. Fairfield of Lincoln.

Military Board Meets.
 The State Military board met last night and transacted business of interest and of benefit to the National Guard, in that it allowed claims amounting in round numbers to $100. A considerable portion of this money was allowed to pay the railroad fare and freight bills for the encampment of the troops.

Fries for Short Session.
 Senator Fries of Arcadia was here last night and yesterday looking up his candidacy for president of the senate. Senator Fries was a member of the last session and he expects to secure much support from those who knew him in that session. He predicted a short, business-like session, the only business of importance before the legislature being the election of a United States senator, the appropriation bills and probably an amendment or two to the revenue law. Senator Fries believes that the session will be a short one. Out in his district he said the people desired the revenue law amended so that deputy assessors should be elected instead of appointed by the county assessor.

 Governor Mickey, accompanied by two sons, left tonight for Denver to visit the family of his daughter, Mrs. H. O. Smith. He will return Monday.

Lincoln Republicans Rally.
 Lincoln republicans, under the auspices of the Veterans' Republican club, rallied the action of the voters in electing President Roosevelt and other republicans tonight. Governor Mickey presided and he with Congressmen-elect Kennedy of Omaha, Burkett of Lincoln, Superintendent McE'Brien and County Attorney Caldwell did the speaking. The meeting was held in Representative hall and the large room was crowded. Music was furnished by a band.

INSPECTING THE NORFOLK ASYLUM
 State Board Will Recommend Appropriations for Norfolk.
 NORFOLK, Neb., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—The Nebraska State Board of Public Lands and Buildings visited Norfolk last night, inspecting the new state hospital for the insane at this place, which is now in process of construction. They declared that they were greatly surprised at the appearance of the institution, and they said, further, that they would favor an appropriation for from $40,000 to $50,000 for the building of one additional cottage and the repairing of the west wing, whose walls now stand four stories high and which, if not placed into use, will be ruined by the elements.

State Treasurer Mortensen said: "The buildings have a more imposing appearance than I had expected. They were to have been completed, according to contract, last month, but will be six months delayed. The state's needs demand that a new cottage be built and that that wing, which is remarkably good, be fixed up. As the institution now stands it can accommodate but 150 patients, which would not be a very great relief to the Hastings and Lincoln asylums, where there are 1,500 crowded together. The more people we can house at Norfolk the less will be the per capita expense of each. Soon the grounds will be parked."

Rebekahs Elect Officers.
 BEATRICE, Neb., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of district No. 6, Rebekah Odd Fellows, held at Blue Springs Wednesday: Mrs. Libbie Lesher, Beatrice, president; Mrs. Emma Casbeer, Blue Springs, vice president; Mrs. Stella Austin, Beatrice, secretary; Mrs. Jennie Yather, Blue Springs, treasurer; Mrs. Sadie Hollingworth, Fairbury, warden; Susie Brenker, Beatrice, conductor; Lydia Felter, Wymore, inside guard; Anna Roderick, Blue Springs, chaplain; Susan Schlack, Blue Springs, chaplain.

CLERK BURNS TO DEATH IN STORE

Flames Get Too Good Start to Enable Him to Get Out.
 ST. PAUL, Neb., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—A disastrous fire, resulting in the loss of one human life and considerable property, occurred last night at Dannebrog, eight miles southwest of here. Shortly before midnight fire broke out in the hardware store of M. Madsen and, although heroic efforts were made to save the building, the fire was so far advanced when discovered that only the warehouse in the rear was saved, but the lumber yard closely adjoining on the east, was entirely saved by hard work of the fire department. Nias Christensen, who slept in the store, perished in the fire. He was a young man, who had arrived from Denmark last spring. The loss falls severely on Mr. Madsen. The insurance carried on the building and stock was less than half of the value and the total loss is upward of $4,000.
