

CREIGHTON'S NEXT BIG GAME

Contest with Iowa State Normal Will Be Test of the Season.

THANKSGIVING DAY CLASH ON GRIDIRON

Cochran Williams and Captain Callahan are preparing for the meeting and hope to make victory for their team.

A tinge of excitement pervades the atmosphere in Creighton university athletic circles, in anticipation of the Thanksgiving day game with the Iowa State Normal. The eleven has developed into the pink of condition and both individual and team work is better now than at any time during the year. No game was played last week and as a result every man on the squad seems to be in the pink of condition and eagerly awaits the sound of the whistle.

The hardest work of the season is being done just now in rounding the team out for the final struggle. Coach Williams realizes that in this final game he has one of the hardest propositions of the year on hands if he succeeds in encompassing the defeat of the Iowa pedagogues. While he is confident of the final outcome of the game he realizes that a victory will be won only after the hardest kind of a struggle. Creighton is particularly fortunate in having no hospital men, every man on the team being in perfect trim and anxious for the fray.

Captain Callahan has recovered from the recent injury sustained to his ankle, and in the Creighton camp much of the hope of success is placed to his feetness of foot and efficient generalship on the field. Callahan has in his football career at Creighton won a reputation as one of the swiftest and the headiest quarterbacks on the gridiron.

Manager Fitzgibbon has left nothing undone to make this the foot ball event of the season and has prepared to accommodate the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a game in Omaha. No complimentary tickets will be honored at the Thanksgiving day game.

The Iowa State Normal will send here one of the strongest and fastest teams that has been seen in Omaha this year. Its overwhelming defeat of Grinnell, Coe, Simpson, Ames and its remarkable showing against Iowa, in which it held the state university down to a score of 11 to 5, shows clearly the position it holds in western football circles. The contest will be a battle royal between the teams holding second place in their respective states, and Omaha's foot ball enthusiasts will be out in force to witness the annual Thanksgiving day foot ball game.

DESIRE MORE POWER FOR COMMISSION

Ask that Law Be Amended to Permit Interstate Commerce Commission to Fix Rates for Interstate Freight.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—

Interstate transportation matters, with specific reference to the fixing of railroad freight rates, formed the subject of an important conference at the White House today. By previous appointment Governor Van Sant of Minnesota, Governor Cummins of Iowa, E. P. Bacon of Milwaukee, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Law convention, Frank Harry of Milwaukee, secretary of the convention, and R. A. Higgins of New York, an official of the National Lumber Dealers' association, called on the president to use his influence to secure the enactment of a law which would confer upon the Interstate Commerce commission power to fix railroad freight rates in the commerce between states.

It was pointed out to the president that for ten years prior to 1897 the Interstate Commerce commission had exercised the power to adjust railroad freight rates in order to prevent discrimination, but that since that time by reason of a decision of the United States supreme court that power had been denied the commission. It was urged by the delegation that a law be enacted by congress conferring upon the commission authority to adjust rates when they were found to be discriminative in their operation or in violation of the interstate commerce act. The delegation also suggested to the president the desirability of discussing the subject in his forthcoming message. The president did not indicate, however, what his personal views were, contenting himself with giving a careful hearing to the statements made.
