> Supreme Court Asked to Decide Whether Defendants in Contempt Case Are Entitled to a Trial by Jury.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, Nov. 21 .-- (Special.) -- It is now revealed here that Governor A. B Cummins, who went to Washington and is there now, had a double object in view, and that aside from presenting the matter the gravest fears among his friends here, of the second appeal of Iowa soldiers regarding the inscriptions on the Sailor monument, he went by appointment with Governor Van Sant of Minnesota and Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin to present to the president on behalf of a large number of commercial associations in the western country the memorial for the modification of the insurance commerce act so as to give some federal control and regulation of railroad rates the same as in many of the states of the union. It was arranged that the three governors should meet in Washington and appear before the president on this one errand. Governor

LaFollette was unfortunately unable go at this time, but he has sent a letter explaining his views. Governor Cummins carried with him a vast amount of evidence bearing on the subject and he exold, another a girl 10 years old, and the pects to lay this before the president and urge upon him that he recommend again and more forcibly than ever before that congress amend the interstate commerce

Contempt Case and the Jury. The supreme court today listended to extended arguments in the Certiorari cases from Des Moines in which certain prominent citizens were fined for contempt of court on a showing that they had been guilty of trying to bribe jurors. The defendants in the various cases appeal on the ground that in these cases, which are of a criminal character, they had a right to trial as to the facts before a jury, and that the court had no right to punish for The case is one which will set a precedent f great importance in Iowa in all contempt cases and if it is reversed there will be but little fining for contempt in his state.

The court today affirmed the sentence in two criminal cases, that of C. E. Bird from Pottawattamie county, convicted of robbery, and that of Fred Robirds of Page county, convicted of conspiracy to commit obbery. Neither case was argued. There was filed with the secretary the articles of incorporation of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone company of Lincoln ownship, with headquarters at Herian, capital, $10,000; H. H.
