FIGHT OVER IMPURE OZONE

Stock Yards Company Denies Polluting Air Around Barton's Place.

CLAIMS TO BE THE PURIFIER INSTEAD

Age of Mud Creek and Exact Status of Its Mud Are Brought Into Court for Settlement.

The Union Stock Yards company, one of the defendants in a suit brought by Guy C. Barton, Colvin D. Gregg and Charles E. Small, now comes into court with its answer and avers it does not pollute the air of Mr. Barton's Sarpay county home by means of sewage in Mud creek. On the contrary it appears the stock yards corporation has been the one means of keeping the air of northeastern Sarpay county this enough to move about when the wind blows.

The three plaintiffs for themselves and other property owners some time ago began a suit against the stock yards company, the Swift, Cudahy, Omaha and Armour Packing companies, the Jetter Brewing company and the city of South Omaha for discharging noxious materials and refuse into a creek which flows along Railroad avenue and through the farm of Mr. Barton and the others and so to Papillon creek and into the Platte.

The contention was the creek, before the inauguration of the meat industry, was a clean, wholesome creek, originating in springs north of the city of South Omaha and carrying water to quench the thirst of the gentle kine and the buxsome pig.

The stock yards company in its answer says this is not a statement of facts. The creek called Mud creek was a mere stretch of moist mud in the beginning, running a little water after rains and having no really defined banks. It began at the south of the tract bought by the stock yards company. At that time there was no city of South Omaha. There was no smell. Nothing had attracted civilization. There was no stock there nor water to drink. The company, so it says, made the muddy depression into a creek by the large amount of water it discharged into it every day in flushing the yards. This amounts now to 1,000,000 gallons a day. A sewer was built under the railway tracks, but only for the purpose of carrying this water.

Later the city of South Omaha came and ran its sewers into this original sewer and the Jetter Brewing company began to dump brewery garbage into the stream. If it were not for the great amount of water sent down by the yards the refuse, it is claimed, of the others would make life even more impossible than it now is in the packing metropolis.

TWO-MILE WALK TO SCHOOL

Twenty-Four Blocks in Distance Some Children Have to Travel in Certain Section.

Traut Officer Parker has just completed a canvass of the territory bounded by Thirtieth street, Forty-eighth street, the Elkhorn Railway and the north city limits to ascertain how many children of ages common in public school grades below and including the fourth, reside there, this being done in response to a demand from the parents for the erection of a new school building near Thirty-eighth street and Curtis avenue. Mr. Parker found fifty-one children between the ages of 5 and 12 and learned that some of them had to walk as many as twenty-four blocks to get to the schools they are attending. He found that a building at the location proposed would reduce the distances a great deal, making the maximum fifteen blocks and the average much less. His report will be submitted to the school board to help it decide whether or not a new school should be established in response to the petition.

FRIZZLE CASE IS STILL ON

FIFTY-Thousand-Dollar Libel Suit Occupies Time in the Federal Court.

United States District Judge Carland of Sioux Falls, S. D., is presiding in Federal court this week and has charge of the equity docket. The only case ready for hearing yesterday was that of John A. Mohr, receiver, against S. K. Bittenbender and others to quiet title. Judge Munger presides in court room No. 2, with the Agnes Frizzell case still on trial. Miss Frizzell was on the witness stand all morning under cross-examination. Suit is brought by Miss Frizzell against Joseph Cullen Root for $50,000 damages for alleged libel. The case was begun in the federal courts under various phases. In the present suit the attorneys for Miss Frizzell are Smyth and Smith and for Mr. Root John L. Webster and H. C. Brome. Judge Carland will preside at the call of the original docket in the United States district court Monday. Asked as to how
