Colored Men Who Plend Guilty to Robbery of Opinion that the Plea Did Not Help Them So Much.

Carl Karrer, who robbed the bank at Treynor, In., on October 5, wes yesterday entenced by Judge Green in district court to twelve years' imprisonment in the penitentiary at Fort Madison.

Karrer was accompanied in court by his attorney, S. W. Wadsworth, and when asked by the court if he had anything to debtedness to the bank. say, replied that he had not. In passing sentence Judge Green rehearsed the circumstances of the crime and dwelt at some length on the fact of Karrer having locked Miss Flood in the vault where she might court have suffocated to death, in which event Karrer would have had to face a charge of murder instead of robbery. In view of the fact that Karrer had entered a plea of guilty and the money had been recovered, this had tended to mitigate the punishment which would have been imposed the court stated, and added further that like to show them to you. if this had not been the case there would have been no reason why he should not have received the maximum sentence of twnty years.

Name and Residence. Jonel Walker, Omaha. Jouise Fuller, Omaha. Karrer, when sentence was imposed, smiled and heaved a deep sigh, evidently thankful that the suspense was ended and that he knew his fate which was undoubtedly less sovere than he had anticipated. He accompanied the officers back to the county jail without saying a word.

Karrer's robbery of the bank was a particularly foolhardy crime. The fact that he lived in the town where he conducted a saloon made him especially well known,
