Bodies Taken Out by Manager Griffith of Courtland Beach Half an Hour After the Tragedy.

Eddle Kruger and Harry Moloski, both 10 years of age and living directly south of Courtland beach and west of the street car tracks, were drowned yesterday morning while skating on thin ice on Cut Off bodies were recovered by Manager J. 11. Griffith of the beach, his brother and Clarence Carmen, who pushed a boat out over the thin ice to the scene of the accident. The boys went down in twelve feet of water and about 150 yards from

Mrs. Moloski, mother of one of the boys, was at the water's edge a few minutes before the body of her son was brought in. She walked up and down the bank wringing her hands and crying piteously. Scarcely had the boat touched shore when she grabbed the wet form of her boy in her arms regardless of the leey cold water. "That was the saddest hour I ever spent," said Manager Griffith after the bodies were recovered.

W. J. Stephen and other stockholders precipitated this action by filing a petition for the appointment of a receiver saying the business was not being properly conducted. F. J. Robinson returned with a cross-petition also asking for the appointment of a receiver and denying all of the charges made. Mr. Robinson said he was the only practical laundry man in the company. He said the business had grown so that he had had to go out on the streets to attend to collections and other matters of a business nature and in this way had not been able to devote his time to the direct management of the laundry work. The parties withdrew the charges and all agree to the appointment of Mr. Brown.

OUR LETTER BOX

Mr. Stevenson Will Resign. BELLEVUE, Neb., Dec. 9.-To the Editor of The Bee: I will not be put in a false osition. When I stated yesterday so emphatically before the trustees of Bellevue college that I would not continue as vice president, it is very exasperating to find in your paper this morning that I would. Every man present knew that I gave notice of my resignation to resign in due time.

To report otherwise was untrue. My friends here and in the east may think it strange that I sever my connection with a college in which I have been s much interested, and consequently a word of explanation is necessary. When Dr. Kerr resigned and went away, by virtue of my office it fell to me to take up the work. Had I yielded to my inclination I would have run away and forsaken it, but I realized that next to Dr. Kerr I had made more friends for the college than any one else and was in a position to be helpful to it, so at the request of the executive committee I assumed the work when very much prejudice existed against me among the students, because of false reports. I ormed the plan of raising a fund of $6,000. with which to conduct the finances of the college upon a cash basis and worked at constantly during the vacation, only being with my family one Sabbath during the summer. It was agreed that the matter of getting a president should be held in "abeyance" and while no time was set for the limitation it was understood to be a year. This would seem to have been confirmed by the fact that I was given use of the president's house for one year. The object of the delay in getting a president was to give opportunity to get the college out of its financial depression. One of the trustees said to me privately one day, "Stevenson, would you like to become president of Bellevue college?" I replied, "I do not know. If I can so conduct the affairs of the college as to create a demand for myself, all right." I had no desire to railroad myself into the position, but took the attitude of making myself worthy of it. The college opened its new year on Sep. tember 20 and imagine my surprise when on the 22d of the same month I found that steps were being taken to get a new president. I said, "You cannot get a presiden oo soon for me" and afterward explained that I made the remark in the light of my discovery that they had taken steps to get a president. From that day I was placed at great disadvantage in doing my work and I remarked that I had had enough of raising money for some one else to expend From that day the executive committee had no reason to think that I would con tinue with the college after a new president was secured. They seem determined that I shall continue to do a kind of work that none of them are willing to do and that I shall be placed in a position which makes it doubly difficult for me to do it. I feel that I have pulled chestnuts out of the fire long enough. It is hard enough to do that, but to be placed in a humiliating situation while doing it is more than I can stand. We have thus far paid bills promptly and have paid several thousand dollars on the old debt. I had secured more than half of the $6,000 fund in pledges and collected more than $1,100 of it, far more than was due. Had they kept the agreement of delaying the matter of getting a president and bad I continued t meet with the same degree of success as is the past, there is every reason to believe that we could have closed this college year without deficit and at the same time have very materially decreased the old debt. But as a "money-getter" has been secured for the presidency, the college can sustain no loss by my retiring to more congenial work. I recognize the fact that it is the province of the trustees to elect to the presidency whom they please, but it is not their province to force me into a position which I do not desire to occupy. If they think lin are receiving inquiries daily from bond it wise to force upon the college one who has not commended himself to me, to the other instructors nor to the students that is their right, but they cannot determine my continuing under such circumstances although they offer me a salary equal to that offered the president. The executive committee urge that they have made this change as a kindness to me, to set me free to follow up the foundations I laid for securing money both here and in the east. But to take away my opportunity of com-
