CATTLE—There was a fairly liberal run of cattle here this morning for the time of year. Good cattle sold to good advantage, but common kinds were neglected and lower. In other words, packers wanted cattle that they could use for their Christmas trade and cattle that were not good enough for that purpose were neglected.

Several bunches of cornfed steers arrived and the market on good to choice sardes mas trade and cattle that were not good enough for that purpose were neglected.

Several bunches of cornfed steers arrived and the market on good to choice grades could be quoted steady. Common cattle, however, were rather slow and in most cases were a trifle lower than the same kinds brought last week Packers all seemed to be anxious for Christmas cattle and had anything strictly prime been offered strong prices would undoubtedly have been paid.

A few western rangers were on sale, but no particular change in ruling prices was noticeable. There were not enough offered though to make a fair test of the situation. The cow market was slow and lower except on the choicest grades, which sold about steady. The fair to medium kinds suffered the worst and sold generally a dime lower, and some of the buyers bid much worse than that. Common canners did not show a great deal of change. The market was slow, as buyers did not seem to care whether they got anything but the good stuff, and consequently it was latelefore a clearance was made. The bulk of the offerings was from local points, but quite a string of westerns arrived and the better grades sold at what looked to be just about steady prices.

The market on bulls was slow and weak. Common stuff in particular was hard to move, Veal calves sold in about the same notches they did last week.

There were not a great many stockers and feeders on sale this morning and the demand was not as brisk as usual. Some of the choicer grades sold about steady, but common kinds were slow and weak. The feeling in fact was weak on all kinds. Representative sales:

HOGS—There was a moderate run of hogs here this morning and with favorable advices from other points the market improved a little. It was some time, though, before buyers and sellers got together on terms. Sellers wanted mostly loc higher, while packers were not willing to pay more than a nickel more than Saturday and the morning was well advanced before much humaness was transacted. Packers steadily refused to raise their bids and salesment finally cut loose at just about a nickel advance. The bulk of the hogs sold from $4.50 to $4.50 against a bulk of from $4.50 to $4.50 and Saturday. As high as $4.50 was paid for prime hogs. After packers got their more urgent orders filled the market weakened a little and trading again became alow. Packers complain that they are paying too much for their hogs here as compared with Chicago, Representative sales.
