TEACHERS AND COLLEGE FOLKS COME FIRST

Entertainments Planned for Visitors on Elaborate Scale, While the Home Bodles Will Also Have Some Doings.

Faint Heart. 'Twas Christmas eve; Drusilla sat Before the open fire dozing. The gathered shadows tokened that The day was closing.

Reflected by the ruddy glow,
Above her where she slumbered gently.
There hung a sprig of mistletoe
Quite innocently.

He gazed at her a moment where She slept, a picture most beguiling. "It wouldn't be exactly fair," He murmured, smilling.

The green leaves hung so close above, He wondered at his hesitation, Yet feared to take advantage of The situation.

But now, ah, cruel hand of Fate Drusilla's eyes are fast unveiling. Ah, what had made lim liesitate With courage failing?

He feared lest she his thoughts had rend And held his breath. "How irritating! I placed it there myself," she said. "What keeps you waiting?"—Reynale Smith Pickering in Smart Set.

Christmas week will see the realization of all the promises that have been so plentiful this last fortnight or so, for the calendar is full from Monday until Saturday. The public reception for the visiting teachers Thursday evening at the Auditorium leads in point of size, and after that comes the entertainment of the Yale Glee club the Cotillion and a score of other things large and small, in which the college men and the college girls are to figure conspicu ously and the college colors will vie with the Christmas greens in making gay to celebrate their homecoming. The Yale blue will be prominently displayed during the week out of courtesy, but many a girl and many a man will wear knots of other colors out of loyalty. And besides all of this there are to be scores of home dinners and family affairs in celebration of a more general mecoming of absent ones than for many a season past.

Prominent on the Christmas week calendar is the coming of the Yale Glee club and the several affairs that will attend its stay in Omaha. Wednesday evening the will give a concert at the Boyd the ater, which will be followed by a dancing party at Chambers' academy, for which invitations have been issued by a score of act as patronesses. On Thursday the members of the club will be tendered a buffet luncheon at the Omaha club, 600 invitations having been issued to prominent men of the city by resident graduates of Yale. It is expected that the concert Wednesday evening will be among the most brilliant social functions of the winter. The theater will be decked in the Yale blue and, drawing its audience from the fashionable set, it will be a full dress occasion. Mr. Frank Wilheldh, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wilhelm, is a member of the club. In addition to these two larger affairs there ual members. The following is the list of women who will act as patronesses on Hereafter it is intended to give one-fourth point credit per year to all such members of literary societies, who by active participation in attaining the aim of the society, have amply demonstrated that they are entitled to such credit. In order to most successfully carry out this matter it has been advisable to let the faculty bear the responsibility of giving such credit to those who by reason of their work are entitled to it. It has therefore been deemed necessary to apportion the members of the faculty among the various literary societies of the school, the first named being the chairman of such a committee. The assignments are as follows:

To the Elaine society, Misses Sullivan, Crane, Borgium, Brandeis and Stebbins.

Pielades society, Mrs. Fleming, Misses F McHugh, Adams. Copeland and Shippey, Hawtherne society, Misses Nickell, Towne, Hanting, Peterson and Phelps.

Margaret Fuller society, Misses Valentine, Mackin, Randall, Kellogg and Mrs. Atkinson.

Priscilla Alden society, Misses Bowen.

Lininger Travel club, Misses Browne, Snyder, Wilson, Wallace and Okey.
Webster society, Messrs, Lansing, Frisk, Senter and Misses Stringer and Ure.
Lincoln society, Messrs, Congdon, Potter and Robertson.
Demosthenian Debating society, Messrs, Bracelen, Bernstein and Mrs. Sudborough, German society, Misses Landis, Rockfellow and Mme. Chatelain.
The permanent meeting roome of the societies are as follows: Elaine, 31: Pleiades, 198; Browning, 191; Hawthorne, 197; Margaret Fuller, 305; Lininger Travel, 205 Priscilla Alden, 17: German on Wednesdays, 324; Webster, 303; Demosthenian, 203; Lincoln, 207. This arrangement leaves 294 and 304 free for special programs.
No society shall hold its meeting longer than 3:30 p. m. on Fridays. Mr. Woolcy, as assistant principal, will have general supervision of all literary societies.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 24.—Eleven rubber tire manufacturing concerns, comprising the so-called rubber tire combine, were made defendants in the United States court today by a suit filed by the Munford Rubber Tire company of Atlanta, Ga. The suit is for damages under the Sherman antitrust law, the plaintiff claiming the defendants, through their combination, have injured the company's business to the extent of $19.799. The suit is for $56.100, three times the amount of damages, in accordance with the Sherman law.

Gold for South America.

Of the various departures and innovations that have resulted one after another n the evolution of the woman's club, there is no more significant development than the legislative committee. As a matter of fact, the General Federation has today no more active nor conspicuous department of work than this, one of its newest de partures. To be sure the endeavor to in fluence legislation is nothing particularly new among the clubs, but never until this year has the executive committee of the General Federation urged the organization of special committees for the systematiand intelligent prosecution of reform work through legislation. Since the beginning of club federations, indeed, of the clubs themselves, one has heard a great deal about altruism; in fact, that has been the about forty couples participating. The ball object of the federation, but its practice room was hung with holiday greens, twelve has necessarily been largely indirect and large red Christmas bells being suspended It has taken the experience of fourteen from the ceiling, and from these little Cu- years of General Federation, seven blennial conventions and scores upon scores o tietoe. The balcony was screened off with state and district and city meetings to teach the club women the wirdom of that homely old bit of advice to do things "decently and in order." The intricacy of the law and the necessity of intelligent investigation has taught the women in the course Among the pretiest affairs of the work of their several years of reformatory efwas the house warning given by Mr. and for the necessity of conducting such work Mrs. John Campbell at their new home on systematically; hence the recommendation cooms were beautiful with holly and for this work and the willingness of the This recommendation has met with general support and the women of Nebraska and Iowa have already commenced profiting by it, particularly in the larger cities. At Lincoln last week the legislative committee of the Lincoln Woman's clob met and formulated plans for looking after the various measures pertaining to the weifare of women and children that are to come before the state legislature. All such bills will be investigated and the women will lend their influence toward the passage of those deemed wise and necessary. The work of the committee is to be reported to the club, which now numbers about 800 members. The Colorado Federation has taken up the suggestion in its usual vigorous fashion and submitted list of practical recommendations to its legislative committee. The Iowa women have gone to work through this committee to secure some sort of legislation in the interest of working children, and the efforts of the Nebraska women are too well known to need further telling. Of course there will be some disappointed women at the close of the legislative session, but they will be wise in proportion and experience has proven that wisdom so gained compensates for much.

A recent announcement from Denver puoting Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker to the effect that plans are about complete for the establishment of a bureau of information for the General Federation of Women's Clubs comes as welcome news to club women generally. The possibility of its being located at Portsmouth, N. H., suggests Mrs. Mary I. Wood, one of the eight directors of the General Federation, as its superintendent. Mrs. Wood was originally announced as chairman of the press committee and this later announcemet accounts for the succession of Mrs. May Alden Ward of Boston to that office.

The department of parliamentary practice has changed the date for its open meeting program from January 9 to January 23, exchanging with the midwinter business meeting. The substituted program will include the presentation of the new woman's property rights bill by Hon. D. L. Johnson. xpected that the department will complete its program at the next regular department meeting January 16. "Committees" will be the subject of the lesson.

The event of the year in local clubdom will be the musicale and reception given Tuesday evening, January 3, at the First Congregational church. Mrs. Samuel Katz. leader of the musical department, will be in charge of the program, which will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. The music will be followed by a reception in the club parlors, o which club members with their husbands and guests are invited. Mrs. H. M. Bushnell of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. C. W. Damon, a former prominent member, and Mrs. Ellen Darling McKillip of Seward will be among the guests of the evening.

Members of the Woman's club are urged by the directory to keep in mind the meeting of the Nebraska State Teachers' assoclation and all desiring to attend the afternoon and evening programs will be privileged to do so by paying $1 and so becoming members of the association. The reception to be given the teachers Thursday evening, December 29, at the Auditorium will be free to all. Free admission tickets will be issued from places to be announced later. Members of the directory and their husbands will also be members of the reception committee that evening.

Explanation from Brandeis'

We wish to offer an apology both to our Omaha patrons and our out-of-town customers for any inconvenience they may have encountered in our store by reason of the great crowds of last week. We feel that, in spite of our careful planning and our continued endeavors to make shopping easy and pleasant, the immense crowds handicapped us and hundreds of our customers must have felt the lack of the attention and comfort they rightfully expect at Brandeis'.

In presenting this apology we feel that we can promise a complete change by next Christmas. Our new building, the largest structure in Omaha, giving us 81 acres of new floor space, will be completed before another year and the problem of caring for crowds will be simplified in this immense modern institution. Holiday shopping in Brandeis' beautiful new building next year will be one of the chief delights of Christmastide.

The immense crowds that thronged our store last week completely cleared away the greatest stock of toys the west has ever known. This year as usual, Brandeis' has been the store to clear away every bit of toy stock. This enables us to start every year with an absolutely fresh new stock, without a last season's article to mar the new show-

Thanking you for your valued patronage, we wish you a Merry Christmas and a Very Happy New Year.

Very respectfully, J. L. BRANDEIS & SONS, Props. Boston Store.
