LINCOLN, Jan. 4-(Special)-George L. Rouse, farmer, has thrown down the gauntlet to the allied railroads and other corporations which maintain professional lob-

The speaker laid down in language plain would direct the course of the house in this known before the end of the month. The positively needed to satisfy the hunger of roll until occasion demanded his services.

Owing his election as speaker to no railroad or special interest, but being the choice of his fellow members, Speaker Rouse occupies the unique position of an independent presiding officer and the state has his word for it that so far as in him lies the power its interests shall be sacredly safeguarded. He said:

The time is approaching when the house employes must be selected. I want to say to you now, gentlemen, that I shall be eminently fair and impartial in naming these employes. I want you to understand at the very outset that there will be no scheming or wire pulling; that there shall be no favoritism; that I have no friends to reward nor enemies to punish in the distribution of the patronage of this house. This, gentlemen, I conceive to be the proper policy for the speaker to pursue; I have always thought it should be and it shall be my course of action.

Fair to All.

this house, majority and minority, shall have equal rights and privileges and that no one will be given a particle of advantage. The house will have about sixty employes in all, giving a little over half an appointment to each member. The man from the sparsely settled western end of appointment to each member. The man from the sparsely settled western end of the state will get just as much as the man from the populous eastern end. But let me impress upon your minds right now this fact: All these sixty employes will not be appointed right away. Those we actually need now for the transaction of business will be selected without delay, but the others will not be chosen or appointed until they are needed. If you or I were starting up in business and needed fifty men after our business reached a certain stage of development, we certainly would not employ all these fifty at first or until they were needed. I do not believe in unnecessarily loading down the house pay roll. I want every member and committee to have all the help necessary for the proper transaction of business, for for the proper transaction of business, for we want to do the work of this house properly, but I do not want a single sinc-cure on the payroll and if I can help it

Of course, I cannot appoint all; that will be impossible; but I shall exercise my best judgment and do the best I can, better and invertible in every instance. fair and impartial in every instance.

Mr. Rouse's assertion that the employe gift to the imperial pair in 1881. list would be limited to sixty and that all of these would not be hired until they were needed aroused great interest and sent a thrill to the heart of many a member and place seeker who remembered that two years ago the house pay roll contained the names of over 100 employes, States cavalry, who were with the Rus- South Dakota postmasters appointed: many of whom never did a square day's sian army in the far east and have been Colon, Minnehaha county, W. work during the whole session. Naming of Committees.

Speaker Rouse then took up the matter of appointing his committees. He said: In this, as in the matter of employes, m policy shall be the same. I want each mem ber to file with me a statement containin his name, vocation and the line of legisla tive work he should desire specially to pur-sue and then I shall be intelligently guide to making my appaintments which I dein making my appointments, which, I sure you, is not an easy task. I cannot hope to satisfy every member, but do my best, striving earnestly and course. Tope to satisfy every memoer, but I shall do my best, striving earnestly and faithfully to place each member where he will do the best service for his constituents and the state, so that the sum total of the work of this house shall reach the highest possible standard. I know that in this, as in the appointment of employes, I shall have to disappoint some one but if each one of you will place yourself in my position and consider the task confronting me you will know that the task of entirely satisfying all is an impossible one. With the chairmanships I shall do the same as with committeemen. No outside power or authority shall interpose its influence in the performance of this important work, which is for the apeaker to do. No chairman will be named because it may be thought his appointment would subserve the interests of this or that power or party, but they all shall be selected on the basis of getting the right man in the right place, without regard to his attitude toward any interest

Speaker Rouse's speech created a progratification to the great majority of the ple. Refreshing as it was it its assurance that in this session, at least, the man elected to the office, and not some railroad or set of lobbyists, would wield the speaker's gavel, his strong utterances caused no as a member of the house and throughout Lawson in an answer filed today in the su

KING DISSOLVES THE DIET NO RELIEF FOR SETTLERS

Francis Joseph in Address Refers to Action of Hungarian Parliamentarians.

BUDA PEST. Hungary, Jan. 4.-The king-emperor Francis Joseph formally dissolved the Diet today in a speech from the throne dealing with the parliamentary sitnation. The speech said:

unifor. The speech said:

The experiences of the recent past determined a large part of the Chamber of Deputies to place on the order of the day the question of a reform in the standing orders. The conflicts arising therefrom nowever, created a situation of such a critical character that we can no longer hope for the re-establishment of the working capability of the present Diet. In view of this fact we consider it our constitutional duty to afford the nation an opportunity for declaring its attitude. We do so with full confidence in the devotion of the nation in its national constitutions and its innate pullillend wisdom. The harmony between the king and the nation and their mutual confidence have established conditions of undisturbed constitutional life and the undisturbed, successful working of the free institutions of the nations has in the past rendered a beneficient period of peaceful development possible. If now the working of these institutions encounters obstacles on international grounds it is incumbent on the nation to manifest its will. For these reasons we have on the proposal of our government decided on the dissolution of reasons we have on the proposal of our government decided on the dissolution of the Diet before the expiration of the parila-

Litigation.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 4 .- A fee of 1500 non for James Smith, jr., for acting as receiver for the United States Shipbuilding company was asked of Judge Lasing in the United States district court here today. Counsel for Mr. Smith declared that the fee would be not out of proportion to the service rendered by Mr. Smith. Counsel for the Sheldon reorganization that Mr. Smith's counsel would also ask He said all the money that Mr. Smith handled in the receivership was not mure than $1.125,000 and that he never really had session of the Union Iron works in California or the Bath Iron works or the Hade Windlass company's plant in Maine. BERLIN, Jan 4.-The highest diplomatte opinion here is that the surrender of Port Arthur makes it impossible for any government friendly to Russia to advise peace of The instant effect of her statement now to unite with any other government for court, it is asserted here, is so absolutely vately, favors Russia accepting defeat. German military opinion, while acknowledging Mrs. Chadwick said the statement had the large moral effect of the fall of Port been prepared after conference with her Arthur, inspiring the Japanese and depressing the Russians, regards it as only an incident and as having little relation to the immense field operations that will begin in the spring. General Kouropatkin, it is asserted in official circles, has 600,000 troops east of Baikal, of which more than 400,000 of speculation. The trunk belonging to are already gathered at Mukden. Mediation is Impracticable. PARIS. Jan. 4.-The official view here continues to regard mediation between Russia and Japan as impracticable. The Temps, semi-officially, in a leading article says: Rusein will not consider mediation at a moment when its self-esteem is suffering from the deepest wound, and will continue playing its strongest card, namely, the concentration of an overwhelming force under General Kouropatkin.

The same opinion is held at the Foreign office and at the Russian embassy. Japanese Take Many Prisoners. TOKIO, Jan. 4.-The Japanese captured 25,000 prisoners at Port Arthur. The total number of the inhabitants is 35,000, of
