VALUES ARE GENERALLY LOWER

by the banks of upwards of $6.00.00. There is a feeling growing up that a large accumulation of reserves at this center is now awaited as an effective opportunity for the offering of large new issues of securities. The fall in prices gained its greatest velocity in the final hour and overtain itself, resulting in an active demand to cover shorts by the room traders. The closing was irregular.

The bond market was broad, but the movement continued irregular. Total sales. movement continued irregular. Total sales, par value, $5,325,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

Foreign Financial.

LONDON. Jan. 6.—Money was superabundant in the market today and sales declined slightly owing to heavy repayments to the Bank of England, which were readily met. A continuance of the case or money is anticipated, though the exact position can searcely be gauged until the further liquidation to the Bank of England is concluded. Discounts were fairly firm. The cheapness of money was counteracted among operators in gitt-edged securities by revived rumors of an early issue of $50,000.100 of Transvaal loar and other emissions. Consols were easier and home rails were irregular. Americans opened quiet and steady at about parity and railied somewhat. Erie was the feature. Trading was inactive and prices closed easier. Foreigners were duil on Paris and Bertin selting. Japanese started firm, but closed weaker on realizations.

PARIS, Jap. 6.—A depressed feeling pre-

PARIS. Jan. 6.—A depressed feeling prevailed on the bourse today, owing to fears of internal disorders in Russia, and prices closed feeble. Russian imperial is were quoted at $5.00 and Russian bonds of 1844 at $50. at 485.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—Prices on the hourse today were firm. Active trading in the new Russian loan at 36 to 364, began today, operators assume the subscription to be a

CATTLE—There were only about forty cars of cattle reported this morning, which was far short of the requirements of the trade. Buyers w. e out at the carliest hour they have been for many weeks and everything changed hands about as fast as offered. Several trains were late, which delayed the close, but, except for the late arrivals, an early clearance was made. The few cars of beef steers that arrived sold readily at prices generally a dime higher. Packers were all short on supplies and it was not a question of what sthey wanted, but of what they could get, and as a result common cattle sold to good advantage, owing to the absence of the
