

SOCIETY GETS BUSY AGAIN

Week of Rest to be Followed by a Season of Unrestricted Gallop.

CHURCH DIGNITARIES TO BE ENTERTAINED

Presence of an Unusual Number of Bishops and the Like to be Excuse for Several Formal Affairs.

The Winter Girl

I see the winter girl arrive, Her eyes and cheeks aglow, As out upon the moonlit drive She glides across the snow.

He holds the reins, and she holds him, And fast enough to let His fancy paint a vision dim Of getting nearer yet.

It may be that he will propose— But will he get a chance? Before the meeting of the snows She'll wake him from his trance.

Ah me! I fear the winter girl Wants just one season more Of joy whose ocean breakers curl Upon a summer shore.

While the prophesy of quietness proved true last week when the whist clubs and euchre clubs and kensington clubs and a few other organizations, there was something on every day, though aside from a luncheon or so there was little of consequence. This week will be a little brighter.

A young woman very well known in society gave a little demonstration of pluck the other day that, could they have witnessed it, would have elicited the applause of scores of citizens who have been inconvenienced by street cars running by blocks without stopping to make up a little lost time.

The following letter, which explains itself, has been received by The Bee's society editor: OMAHA, Jan. 9.—To the Society Editor
