Wool Market.

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—WOOL—The Boston wool market is notably quiet for domestic grades. The builk of the clip held here is neeces and medium territory. There is considerable interest in the foreign wools coming forward and their possible effect on the situation here, for manufacturers will have to turn their attention to foreign grades to replenish their stocks. HOGS—Receipts of hogs at the principal markets were not at all excessive and as a result prices improved at all points. The market here could be quoted strong to 5c higher. Medium and light hogs sold generally 5c higher, but prime heavies did not shew much change from yesterday. There were a good many heavy bogs on sale, and that is probably one reason why they did not improve as much as the lighter weights, but owing to the large number of heavy weights the average price compares very favorably with yesterday. Trading was quite active, and as the trains arrived in fairly good season, most everything was sold at a reasonably early hour. Light weights went from $4.56 down. Medium and mixed hogs sold largely from $4.55 to $4.55. Toward noon a few cars of hogs arrived and as packers had their more urgent orders filled the market closed slow and weak, the advance of the morning being practically list. Representative sales:

65 8HEEP-Receipts of sheep and lambs were again very light at all points and the market here ruled active and steady. The same as has been the case of late, buyers were all out early and practically everything sold as fast as unloaded. The demand seemed to be in excess of the supply, which made competition very active. There was a scarcity loday of strictly choice offerings, so that the market on paper foes not appear as high as it did yesterday, but quality considered, the prices paid were fully stoady. Ewes sold up to 34.75, wethere are 35.85, yearlings 38 and lambs $7.35.

CATTLE—There was a lighter run of cattle here, this morning than was generally anticipated and supplies at other points were also moderate. As a result the general treat tendency of prices was upward and an active market was experienced.

The demand for beet steers was in excess of the supply and the better grades could safely be quoted active and a dime higher than yesterday. Buyers were all out early, and as the shipping demand, as well as that from local packers, was quite brisk, there was keen competition, and everything at all desirable charged hands in short order. There were no strictly prime cattle offered. There were not as active as the choicer grades, but still, owing to the moderate receipts, packers had to take the common kinds and prices ruled stronger than yesterday.

The ow market was active and higher. The kinds they wanted were safely a dime higher. As high as $4 was paid for cows and helfers mixed. Trading was very active and the better grades changed hands about as fast as offered. The common to medium kinds also sold to better advantage than they did yesterday, but the advances was not so great as on the choicer kinds.

Buils, veal calves and stags all sold at good, strong prices, where the quality was a tall desirable.
