Dairymen Score Railroads. In a resolution passed this morning by the Nebraska Dairymen's association the railroads of the state came in for a scolding because of a failure to move the product of the milkher to the creamery in double-quick time. The resolution was as follows: Whereas, The inadequate transportation facilities afforded for the movement of cream in Nebraska is a bar to its progress for better quality of products and also to an increase of creamery production.

Shorthorn Breeders. It was the opinion of the Shorthorn breeders who crowded the veterinary building at the state farm to the doors this morning that this particular brand of cow flesh was the finest in the land. L. C. Lawson declared that it was a grand breed of cattle and the others did not touch it in his opinion.

It was stated that while the Shorthorn cattle in this state had not been bred to make show records, strenuous efforts are being made to improve the herds. The decision in the value of blooded stock has passed and prices are better.

J. P. Eager said that there are more Shorthorn cattle in the first congressional district than ever before.

It was the opinion that each breeder ought to be a sort of a missionary to interest his neighbors in the raising of Shorthorns.

A. C. Shallenberger said that the Shorthorn is the best dual cow among the bovine breeds. She is a splendid beef animal and a fine milker—no better combination exists among cattle breeds. He told of a cow owned by King Edward that had recently taken the prize not only as a perfect beef animal, but in the production of milk and butter.

J. B. Dinmore declared that one breed none beat the Shorthorns to the first prize column at the St. Louis exposition and that was a Jersey which smashed the latter record.

PRACTICAL JOKE MAY BE FATAL

Officer Supporting Men Were Fighting Shoots One of Them. CHADRON, Neb., Jan. 20.—(Special.)—What was started as a practical joke has turned into a serious affair for two parties. Last night about midnight Curtis Jackson and Fred Harris were scuffling in the Transler livery barn, and it was suggested that Constable Riall W. Gaylord be sent for to arrest them. Although the scuffle was in fun, the suggestion was no sooner made than a bystander started for Gaylord's house and called him up from bed to cause the arrest of the two men for fighting.

As soon as Gaylord entered the barn Curtis Jackson ran for him and threw him down, while Fred Harris helped Gaylord up. Then Gaylord shot, the ball entering the left lung of Curtis Jackson. Jackson was immediately carried to the Langsdon hospital, and it is not thought possible that he can live. Gaylord was arrested and in Gaylord's bond was fixed by Judge Houghton at $30, but he refuses to give anything until the arrival tomorrow morning of County Attorney Justin E. Porter of Crawford.

TRouble AMONG FeeBLE-MINDED

Serious Charge Against Former Employee of Beatrice Institution. BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 20.—(Special Telegram.)—Some commotion has been caused at the institution for Feeble Minded here by the discovery by Dr. Johnson, the superintendent, that a woman in one of the wards of the institution is soon to become a mother. The woman is about 35 years of age and has been an inmate of the place for nine years. Suspicion points to a former employe of the institution, who was discharged about four months ago as the guilty person.

Dr. Johnson reported the matter to Governor Mickey yesterday while at Lincoln, and upon his return to the city last night placed the case in the hands of County Attorney Killen, who is at present making an investigation with a view to bringing an action against the party suspected. Neither Dr. Johnson nor County Attorney Killen will divulge the names of the parties connected with the affair, but it is understood the former proposes to sift the matter to the bottom with the help of the county attorney.

Prefer Lamb in Prison. GREELEY, Neb., Jan. 20.—(Special.)—Considerable excitement is manifest here over the application to Governor Mickey for the pardon of Michael Lamb. No less than ten petitions were put in circulation, charging Lamb with having kept a rendezvous for criminals before his conviction and causing the death of three young men, two of whom were killed while relating arrest, and that the petitioners believe Lamb should serve the full nine years for which he was sentenced. The petition will be forwarded to the governor in a few days.

DEPARTMENT, NOT DISTRICT

(Continued from First Page.) of resolutions, which were unanimously adopted, and are as follows: Resolved, That there be started on its way here and now a laymen's forward movement of the Sixth Missionary Department and that a committee of one layman from each diocese and missionary district be elected by this conference to co-operate with the present laymen's forward movement of the middle west, and embodying its principles for use in this department, said laymen to constitute the executive committee for one year. Resolved, That the following message be sent to all the clergy of the Sixth Missionary department, requesting them to read said message at their respective congregations at the earliest opportunity. Message.—To all the Members of the Sixth Missionary Department from the Second Annual Conference of the Friends: The department aroused in the real issue and work of the church as a result of the first annual conference of the Sixth Missionary department, held at Kansas City, brought forth abundant fruit manifest in the our second annual conference. The keynote sounded by Bishop Brewer of Montana in the opening service lifted us to a true conception of duty and opportunity. God has indeed called us as bishops, priests and laymen to win the world for Christ. The motto suggested by the presiding Bishop of the Sixth Missionary department, "Grace, Gifts and Gold" still rings in our ears, and back to our fields with a higher faith in the power of the Holy Spirit, who is working through us in regenerating the world, and with an earnest purpose to do the work of the middle west, we have determined that the Captain of our salvation has called us to do. So great has been the development of the middle west in the conference that a laymen's movement along missionary lines has been organized and the foregoing resolution was unanimously adopted. In order that the spirit of this conference may not be lost or die away we suggest the following practical aims for your accomplishment: 1. We urge the officers of the Women's auxiliary to co-operate with the clergy in enrolling members in the prayer league who will say the daily noonday prayer for missions. 2. That in the large centers of the Sixth department where the church is represented by a number of parishes and missions, the union mass meetings be held once a quarter to arouse missionary interest in local communities. 3. We desire to urge upon the laymen of settled and organized parishes in the large towns that they co-operate with their clergy and help them reach out into some village or town near them, where the church is not represented, and try to gain a footing for the church. 4. That a systematic endeavor be made to double the subscription list of the Spirit of Missions in the Sixth department by the next conference.

Committee to Have Charge. A motion prevailed for the appointment of a committee of three to present a list of names of laymen to comprise the "laymen's forward movement committee," and to present the names at the business session of the conference Saturday afternoon. The following were named as such committee: Bishop Morrison of Iowa, Rev. James Wise of Nebraska and F. O. Osborne of Minnesota. A further motion prevailed that Rev. James Wise of South Omaha be constituted a committee of one to meet with the laymen's forward movement committee at its first meeting.

Delegates to Next Conference. Coadjutor Bishop Williams of Nebraska presented the following resolutions, which were adopted: Resolved, That the third annual conference of the Sixth missionary department shall consist of all the bishops of the department and of five clerical and five lay delegates to be chosen by each diocese or missionary district comprised in the Sixth department, provided, that in such diocese or missionary district as the conference is held the lay delegates be ten in number.

Resolved. That in the selection of the delegates each diocese or diocese be urged to appoint delegates as may be reasonably expected to attend. Resolved, That the bishop of each diocese and missionary district be empowered to fill such vacancies as may occur. Resolved, That the district secretary shall report to the committee on arrangements not later than July 1, 1906, a complete list of delegates, provided that in case of meeting of a convention or convocation has been held, the bishop be empowered to appoint delegates.

Resolved. That the bishop of Colorado and two clergymen and two laymen of the diocese of Colorado be appointed by the bishop of Colorado and that they be selected as a committee on program for the third conference of the Sixth Missionary department.

Church Work in the Town.

The conference session assembled at 3:30 o'clock with Bishop A. R. Graves of Laramie presiding. The topic of the afternoon was "Church Work in the Town." The first paper was by Hon. George F. Henry of Des Moines, his subject being "Our Relation with Other Christian Bodies." Mr. Henry's paper took the ground that the Episcopal church had too much aloof, and should ally itself with general Christian movements, such as the Young Men's Christian association. He thought the existing barriers of apparent seclusion would thereby be broken down and would re-

WHAT IS THERE IN IT?

Scott's Emulsion is a careful blend of the purest cod liver oil, hypophosphites of lime and soda, glycerine and a dash of flavoring. The combination of these valuable ingredients emulsified as in Scott's Emulsion represents the greatest remedy yet discovered for weak lungs, poor blood, low vitality, child weakness and all wasting diseases.

What I say but a few words. I hope the discussion of scholastic and theological questions may not impair our devotion to our duty and the service of Christ. Don't discuss these questions here. We must differ. Allow our neighbor to think his way and you think yours. This is an act of charity. Let us observe the maxim of eye to eye, heart to heart and pocket to pocket. But do not let us discuss these questions here. The time for the discussion of this paper having expired the chair called for the discussion of the next two papers and the threatened breeze subsided. In discussing the question of religious training for the youth, Rev. Moody of Minnesota said: "We should begin the religious teaching of our children at home. The Sunday school is but a substitute for the duty of parents. The home is the place where the child should be taught his religious duties." Dean Beecher of Omaha concurred in the idea espoused by Dr. Moody, as did several others of the ministers present.

move all elements of disunion in the church. Rev. E. E. Lofstrom of Wabasha, Minn., delivered an address upon the "Religious Teaching and Training of the Young." He held that the successful work of the church resulted from the early training of the young in religious duties. The religious education of the child is but a part of his education, but is an important part, and it is left with the church to make the child whole. Children become members of the church from their baptism, and are already growing up in the church. They are hungry to grow, to play and receive religious instruction; it is an instinct with them.

Methods of Raising Money. "The Methods of Raising Money for Extra Parochial Purposes" was the subject of an earnest address by Rev. Theodore B. Foster of Grace church, Kansas City. He took the ground that there were many methods of raising money for church work that were unwise and that brought a scandal to religion. The church is the parish and the parish is the church. The parish is but a local agency for the great corporation of the church, and its work should not be confined to its local needs, but to the church body as a whole. He believed that the apportionment system raised more money than did the individual system for church work. It was the duty of the church and parish to know that the church as a whole had demands upon it, and the time was ripe for the parish to realize what those extra, parochial demands were.

Question of Apostolic Succession. The first paper, that of Mr. Henry of Des Moines, on the relation of the church to other Christian bodies, brought out an extremely animated discussion. Rev. Johnson, Archdeacon Cope and Bishop C. S. Olmstead of Colorado took the position that the established precedents of the church should not be violated. The Episcopal church was the true apostolic church and Bishop Olmstead particularly believed in the doctrine of apostolic succession. The discussion grew extremely warm, and the venerable presiding Bishop Tuttle felt obliged upon to say:

May I say but a few words. I hope the discussion of scholastic and theological questions may not impair our devotion to our duty and the service of Christ. Don't discuss these questions here. We must differ. Allow our neighbor to think his way and you think yours. This is an act of charity. Let us observe the maxim of eye to eye, heart to heart and pocket to pocket. But do not let us discuss these questions here.

The time for the discussion of this paper having expired the chair called for the discussion of the next two papers and the threatened breeze subsided. In discussing the question of religious training for the youth, Rev. Moody of Minnesota said: "We should begin the religious teaching of our children at home. The Sunday school is but a substitute for the duty of parents. The home is the place where the child should be taught his religious duties." Dean Beecher of Omaha concurred in the idea espoused by Dr. Moody, as did several others of the ministers present.

MASS MEETING FOR MISSIONS

Exhortations for More Earnestness in the Work. Trinity cathedral was filled last night with an interested audience to enjoy the missionary mass meeting. Bishop Tuttle presided. The topic was "World Wide Missions." Rev. A. S. Lloyd, general secretary of the Board of Missions, was the first speaker and took for his subject "The General Survey of the Mission Field." He said that from his point of observation the first question to present itself was "What we ought to do." The question answered itself in that mission work should begin in our own homes. There was a great call for men and women and money for mission work. We should teach our children that Christ's call is their call. This call once answered, the mission question would settle itself. "How the Men Can Help" was the theme of a spirited address by Hubert Carlston of Boston, Mass., general secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. He said: "The church should take her part in the business of the world. The business world was successful because of the vigorous life put into all its undertakings, and this same vigor should be manifest in the work of the church."

It. Rev. P. T. Rowe, missionary bishop of Alaska, told a graphic story of "A Corner in the Domestic Field." Bishop Rowe told of the difficulties of travel through the country, the long distances between stations, and interspersed with numerous anecdotes relative to the country, its people, animals, the peculiar habits of the native people and the occasional necessity of the missionaries having to take evaporated onions with them as a deodorizer when visiting the close "igloos" or houses of the natives.

"A Message from the Foreign Field" of Japan was interestingly given by Rev. R. W. Andrews, for six years a missionary to that country.

Piso's Cure for Consumption also cured coughs, colds, sore lungs and asthma.

MOET & CHANDON CHAMPAGNE

Leads All Other Wines. What the New York World, January 1, 1905, has to say: Speaking of the wonderful strides in four years, from 481,776 bottles in 1900 to over 1,325,000 bottles in 1904 of the celebrated brand of Moet & Chandon Champagne, the New York World remarks: "It is a superb wine, bon vivants, gourmets, poets have sung its praises; careful chemists have scrupulously examined it and found it not only free from deleterious elements, but full of all the qualities that go to make a perfect champagne. In body, in bouquet, in every quality, wherein a wine can excel, it does excel."

MURDER AT LARAMIE, WYO.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Jan. 20.—George Gerber, a merchant, was found dead in his store at noon today with his skull crushed and his throat cut. An iron bolt with which he had been struck lay beside the body and the knife with which he had been stabbed was still sticking in the wound. The murder was committed last night, evidently for robbery, as the store, in which Gerber lived alone, had been thoroughly ransacked.
