Death of Theodore Thomas Hastens Publieation of "A Musical Autobiography."

CHILD'S BOOK BY MARY F. LEONARD

The Illustrated Story, "Two Young Inventors," Will Be a Favorite Boys' Book - "Greatest Trust in the World."

The death of Theodore Thomas on Janpary 4, at Chicago, within a few weeks of the completion of the boautiful permanent bullding for his orchestra, lends unusual interest to the definite announcement from A. C. McClurg & Co., that they have decided to oring out their book on the great musician's life in April of this year instead of in the fail, as previously stated. This book as already announced, is to be called Theodore Thomas: A Musical Autobiography," and will consist of two large volimes-the first devoted to his life work, and the second almost entirely to programs. The entire work has been in the hands of Mr. Thomas's life-long friend, George P. Upton, who is universally known as an authoritative writer on musical subjects, and it will undoubtedly form the most important contribution to musical literature brought out in many years.

"It All Came True" is the title of a delightful child's book by Mary F. Leonard, who has also written "The Story of the Hig Front Door," "The Cat and the Candle" and several other children's stories. in a simple but very interesting manner it tells the story of a little girl whose parents are very rich and do not wish her to play with other children whose parents are not of the same social standing for fear that she will not be so polite or will catch some sickness, but that does not prevent the child from being lonesome and longing for the society of other children. Through unforeseen circumstances which seem to conspire to make "all her wishes come true," she becomes acquainted with some very delightful as well as "desirable" children who live next door. The frolics they enjoy, as well as the leasons they learn will prove very entertaining to any child. Thomas Y. Crowell & Company are the publishers.

The illustrated story "Two Young Inventors" by Alvah Milton Kerr, author of 'Young Heroes of Wire and Rail" is a rattling story for boys, Mr. Kerr, whose service as telegraph operator and traindespatcher in former years enables him deal with exciting matters of real life in a thorough, accurate manner, has written a tale of mystery, mechanism, and getting on in the world that will be a boys' favorite for years. Two youths, both born inventors, make each other's acquaintance as the result of misfortunes attending a Minnesota cyclone. Their efforts to perfect a flying-boat, that shall not only skim the water, but rise into the air, resulting in the securing of a mechanical education, and finally, after an exciting adventure in which they render important service to the North Shore railroad, they are rewarded by positions in the engineering department. Much mechanical information is given and the story inculcates the importance of being practical rather than visionary, Mr. Kerr has solved the problem of a book that shall intensely exciting and yet thoroughly wholesome. Published by Lee & Shepherd,

It is a curious coincidence in titles and nicknames that just at the time when the news columns of the papers are full of "the million-dollar baby" of Senator William A. Clark, the review columns are full of "The Millionaire Baby," the new detective story by Anna Katharine Green, published by the Bobbs-Merrill company

Elizabeth W. Morrison, a talented newspaper woman, tells in Madame for February, how to give a valentine party, including various decorations. Beautiful illustrations are given, and the story is one which will be read with great interest. Madame is the magazine "For Women Who Think," and is published by the Ford Publishing company, Indianapolis.

The desperate increase in the cost of living is staring us in the face today. The reasons for it are asked by all. In February Everybody's, Charles E. Russell, commissioned by the magazine to investigate the subject, begins a series of articles on "The Greatest Trust in the World." In the first installment he reveals a monster monopoly, greater than the "Standard Oil," holding in its grasp all the meat, fruit and dairy products of the United States. He shows the rapacity of this Beef trust, its defiance of the law, its insatiable ambition to control all the food supplies of this great country. He shows its grasping hand closing surely over wheat and corn and oats. Mr. Russell's revelations are full of ghastly menace to the people over whom this terrible trust is gaining a power greater than the government's.

The Booklover's Magazine signalizes the month of Washington with a critical study by William Curtis Taylor of contemporary portraits of the first president. Thirteen illustrations show the variety of portraits, idealized and lifelike, now extant. The second installment of 'The Real Australia,' a review of the political and social development of the progressive antipodal empire. by Burriss Gahan, is a highly instructive article. Various topics of current interest are treated and the halftone illustrations and color reproduction of paintings are numerous and of artistic quality.

Gould Line to Build.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—It is now said that the actual construction work of the Western Pacific railroad will begin within two months and that a Gould road to San Francisco promises to be an accomplished fact in the near future. Rights-of-way and a San Francisco terminal are said to have been finally secured without fear of interference and the necessary money is available, the sum of $50,000.000 already having been underwritten, to be drawn upon as needed for the construction work.
